G. HERMANN KINNICUTT

At a Regular Meeting of the Executive Committee of the Alumnae Association of the Presbyterian Hospital School of Nursing held January 10, 1944, the President reported with regret the death of Mr. G. Hermann Kinnicutt.

RESOLUTION PASSED BY THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION OF THE PRESBYTERIAN HOSPITAL, JANUARY 10, 1944
IN MEMORY OF

MR. G. HERMANN KINNICUTT

In the sudden death of Mr. G. Hermann Kinnicutt on December 7, 1943, the Alumnae Association of The Presbyterian Hospital School of Nursing lost a singularly loyal and devoted friend.

Through the years 1925 to 1943 he served as a trustee of The Presbyterian Hospital. For sixteen of these he was a member of the School of Nursing Committee. He took an intense interest in all matters pertaining to the School of Nursing, showing great patience for meticulous detail, yet never neglecting the broader aspects of the problems. Always a discriminating and responsive listener, his quiet reserve made him a highly welcome figure in this group. Mr. Kinnicutt brought a memorable touch to the presentation of each diploma on Graduation Day. During his chairmanship, his careful thought to the selection of speakers for our Graduation Exercises is responsible for the noteworthy names on these occasions. It is typical of his foresight that he had already made arrangements for 1944. As a member of the Finance Committee of our Alumnae Association he was ever a wise counselor.

Among his greatest charms were innate dignity and courtliness of manner. He inherited from his father a keen interest in The Presbyterian Hospital, and he maintained this interest as a personal responsibility throughout the years.

One of the most revered spirits among our group of advisors, he was sympathetic, tolerant and loyal. These traits always distinguish the helpful and kindly and Mr. G. Hermann Kinnicutt met and surpassed these attributes. Our Alumnae Association will miss him and will keep his memory as a choice possession.

A TRIBUTE

DURING the middle twenties, when the plans for the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Centre were maturing, three members of the Board of Managers, Dean Sage, President of the Board, and the two members from the Board on the School of Nursing Committee—Moreau Delano, Chairman, and G. Hermann Kinnicutt—were directly responsible for the far-seeing plans made at that time both for the School of Nursing and for the nursing care of the patients at the Centre. With the death of Mr. Kinnicutt on December 6, 1943, these three friends of nursing have gone to their long home, but they have left behind in the School of Nursing and the patient care at the Centre a wonderful monument to their achievements.

When the plans for the Medical Centre, which had to do with the physical care and comfort of the patients, were being discussed and decided upon by the Committee it was always sure of their support. The same was true when the discussions and decisions had to do with the care of the students in Maxwell Hall. One interesting incident in connection with Maxwell Hall was that when the swimming pool was being eliminated by the Board on the basis of expense Mr. Delano and Mr. Kinnicutt asked for a delay of three days in the final decision—went to their personal friends, raised the required sum of money, and the swimming pool was assured.

Mr. Kinnicutt, the son of the late Dr. Francis Parker Kinnicutt, inherited from his father a lasting interest in everything connected with the hospital to which his father had made such a splendid professional contribution. It was therefore fitting that his own contribution should be made in the Nursing Committee. He was appointed a member of this Committee in 1925 and became chairman in 1933 when Mr. Delano resigned. As Chairman of the School of Nursing Committee he became Chairman-ex officio of the Finance Committee of the Alumnae Association and as such has been responsible for the investment of our funds. This is another great debt we owe to Mr. Kinnicutt.

One feels that Mr. Kinnicutt's death finishes another chapter in our history, but one we will re-read many times.

QUARTERLY ALUMNAE MEETING

At our regular November meeting of the Alumnae Association held in Maxwell Hall, November 18, Dr. Allen O. Whipple gave a most interesting talk on his recent trip abroad. We are reprinting an account of it.

IT is a pleasure and a privilege to bring back to you the collective greetings of the No. 2 General Hospital PH unit.

I do not believe I have ever had a more stimulating experience than seeing the unit in action. No. 2 General is really a model and is spoken of in these terms by almost everyone in the British Isles. It is housed in the Churchill Hospital which was built by American funds. It is a beautifully built hospital of brick buildings. I shall show you the plan of it. It is housed in beautiful country near a very wonderful university. It is unusually well equipped. The unit has, of course, made the hospital and it is carrying on famously. Both Colonel Kneeland and Colonel Schullinger wanted me to emphasize that fact. So, after visiting the hospital on four different occasions, I bring back to you the greetings of various members of the unit—cordial, sincere, nostalgic but cheerful. The members of the unit look unusually well. I do not think you need to worry about their health. They are well nourished.

(Showed plan of hospital and described it).

The hospital is built on a beautiful hill above a university town about 2 miles from the university. The approach to it is from the west along a highway. This brings one into the main compound. At the main gate one has to present authentic and adequate passes to get into the hospital grounds. It is, of course, as you know, under military supervision.

(Here followed a plan of hospital—administration building, executive offices, nurses' quarters, officers' quarters, mess halls. Leading off from a covered walk are the wards. On the West are main surgical wards. On East main medical wards. There are 10 medical wards; one psychiatric ward; one prison ward. There are 3 general surgical wards and 8 orthopedic wards. One ward has been set aside for the study of frost bite. (This is an important and original study.) There is one nose and throat service, one eye service. There are still a number of empty wards which are being kept in reserve for the future. When they will be used is the burning question. This concerns all members of the unit who have felt all along that everything would go better if they could be active as they expect to be in the near future.

To the South is a very beautiful view of the landscape and one sees the large unit of the Morris Automobile Works which is now being used for war purposes. It is somewhat difficult to understand why the hospital has not been bombed because to the South there are very important munitions works and it is in an area where there is very active flying. One morning when I was there I saw two groups of Fortresses, 72 in each group, flying directly over the hospital and at night there is almost always the constant hum from 9 to 11 when the R.A.F. is going over.)

A word about the organization of the unit. The administration is, of course, an important part of the hospital. They are fortunate in having Colonel Crawford, a regular Army man, as their commanding officer. He has come to know the various members of the unit and he is very highly regarded and respected by everyone. He is doing a fine job. The executive officer is Lt. Col. Rousselot who is also doing a splendid job. A great many feel it is too bad he is not active in the surgical service but a good part of his time is taken up in administrative work. I am sure, however, that it won't be long before he will be pulled out for a more active assignment. The detachment commander is John Nelson. No one speaks at all when he gives his orders and they are obeyed. He drills them and does he drill them! I am astonished that he has taken so to that work because, of course, he was tremendously interested in surgery. The medical service is headed by Lt. Col. Kneeland and he is doing outstanding work. He is also consultant in infectious diseases to E.T.O. The laboratory service is headed by Lt. Col. Joe Turner who is doing an interesting piece of work in studying the immune reactions to atypical pneumonias and also working with penicillin. His laboratory tests may have proved of real value in determining the efficacy of penicillin therapy. Dr. Paul Sheldon is, as usual, doing the unusual thing. He has become interested in occupational therapy. That is an important project in the unit. The fellows have time on their hands and instead of weaving baskets or making neckties, Dr. Sheldon has developed occupational therapy according to their own bents and tastes. It is astonishing what results he and the men working with him have obtained. The convalescents are very keen about it and he is doing a constructive piece of work. This problem of interesting the soldier in therapeutic work is something that is going to be emphasized more and more. It is appreciated by both British and Americans and has been emphasized very strongly by the Russians. They have put a machine gun in the hands of a man still bed-ridden. He takes it apart and puts it together, oils it, and is more interested in doing a good job on that than he is in lots of other things.

The prison ward is interesting. For a time they had a good many Nazi prisoners and those of you who know Capt. Province will appreciate that he got all the information there was to be got out of them. He has become interested in the study of their psychology.

One of the things that impressed me in comparing the prisoners I saw there with those I saw later in North Africa—especially in Bizerte—was the amazing difference in the age of the prisoners. The ones in No. 2 General—men that had been brought up from North Africa—were in the older group. Although they had been in the hospital for a long time, they were still pretty arrogant and loath to acknowledge any courtesy. The ones I saw in Bizerte, however, were of entirely different vintage. I saw a number of boys who said they were 18 but I am sure they were not more than 15. In some instances their voices had not changed. They were a much more congenial and jolly group, smiling and willing to talk. They did not seem to have absorbed the rigid doctrines which one saw expressed in the older prisoners. A number of them had typhoid fever; others were battle casualties.

When we came into the German ward the German sergeant very loudly reported the fact that we were there and those who were able to stand clicked their heels and stood at attention with eyes straight ahead but they stood at attention until we left.

The surgical service which began with Col. Parsons as commanding officer is now, as you know, under Lt. Col. Schullinger and in his own way he has made his mark and developed a remarkable service. The men under him are keen about his administration and they are giving him every cooperation. Major Sloan is his right-hand man and is doing a splendid job. They are a remarkable pair. Not only is Larry Sloan an able administrator but he has developed some new hobbies which interested me very much and he represents very well the quotation—"The ability to decorate the idle hour is the proof and measure of one's capacity to live." Dr. Sloan has not wasted his idle hours. Whenever he has an afternoon off, he gets on a bicycle and goes to town and sketches.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

The busiest man in the Unit is Major Patterson in charge of the Orthopedic Service. You can tell from the number of wards that this is the busiest service. The most interesting cases I saw were on these wards. Most of the battle casualties are extremity injuries.

Dr. Robinson, just recently made a Major, is in charge of the urological ward and they have very recently reported a very interesting series of neisserian infections, resistant to the sulfonamides. In the 30 cases all responded promptly to penicillin therapy.

Major Edward Fowler, in charge of the Nose and Throat ward, has a good deal to do. A great many of the soldiers have had an interesting lesion of the eustachian tubes which he has been able to correct by radiotherapy. Major Scharf is in charge of the study of frost bite. He and Lt. Dickinson have a whole ward set aside for this study. They have analyzed these cases in a very interesting way. The aviators who come back with white, dry frost bite have a very bad prognosis. The fortresses have to fly high in the daytime and the men are exposed to very low temperatures. But with newer equipment and the attention given the subject by the authorities the damage from frost bite has already been considerably reduced.

Captain Calhoun is in charge of the Eye Service—this is a very active service and he is a capable officer.

Lt. Saunders is in charge of Anesthesia and has studied in other clinics and hospitals in that area. He now has a great many visitors because of the way in which he has developed the Anesthesia Service in No. 2.

Lt. Col. Robert Hall is in charge of the X-ray Service and those of us who knew him and his work here will be glad to know he is doing a great job there.

The Nursing Staff is in charge of Captain Peto and she has no easy job to keep her nurses happy and satisfied because, of course, the work varies as it does with the officers, but she has succeeded remarkably well in keeping up the standards of nursing. The nurses are doing as much as the surgeons in cheering the patients and keeping up their morale, and the esprit de corps of the Presbyterian graduates is a subject of comment and commendation in that whole area. Their snappy uniforms and their genial smiles have attracted the Army fliers stationed everywhere in East Anglia. Captain Peto and her staff have managed this phase of military service with great tact and good judgment. I am glad to pay tribute to the high regard that everyone in the European Theater of Operations has for our nurses.

Shortly after I reached London I attended a meeting that was being held by the American Medical Society of the European Theater of Operations—an organization of American military officers that has developed during the past six to eight months. They have had two previous meetings and this meeting was on August 18th. It was attended by 520 medical officers. They pitched a tent in the area just south of the officers' mess and the meetings were held there. The papers read were all by members of the Unit.

This shows you that the Unit is not only doing routine work but is also engaged in investigative work. I should add that Colonel Schullinger is engaged in penicillin studies. He is in charge of penicillin therapy in that area.

It may be of interest to know something about the universities and medical schools in Great Britain. The universities have not gone on an accelerated program—and I think very wisely. The atmosphere in universities like Cambridge and Oxford may still be called "ivory tower" but just the same they are doing fundamental work in connection with the war effort without much fuss and feathers and they don't seem to be in any terrible hurry about it either. It is a wonderful experience after traveling by air and trying to get accommodations on trains and in hotels to go to places like Cambridge and Oxford and come into that quiet atmosphere.

The medical schools are not on an accelerated program though, of course, on account of the hospitals, work has been interfered with severely. When one sees the hospitals in London one is struck with the remarkable way in which they are carrying on. Some of the hospitals have been damaged more than others. Although there are six churches near St. Bartholomew's that were demolished, the hospital was not touched. One wonders whether some effort was made to avoid it because for blocks around St. Paul's the buildings are all flat and the debris is still there. There are emergency water tanks in almost every block. There has been a great destruction of property in various parts of the city. In some sections—Park Lane, for instance—there are one or two houses down in every block and many houses are closed because of broken glass. In the subways and underground there are still the homeless who live there and sleep there. They have a three-tiered arrangement for sleeping cots.

People stand in cues and they eat their rationed food without complaint. One of the reasons why they do not complain about the rationing is that they feel the food is honestly and fairly distributed. The administrator of food has done a remarkable job. Their bread is better, I think, than ours. You don't get more than 3 courses anywhere and the top price for any entree is 5 shillings. I have never seen British children as well nourished as I did this time. Of course, they have had special rations and special arrangements made for them. Many of the British children have had more food than they have ever had before. Butter is scarce. Sugar is rationed. Tea is rationed; coffee is not rationed.

In closing, a word about what I saw in North Africa. I went there to study the problem of secondary wound healing. I spent most of my time in Bizerte. This is the point nearest to Sicily and Italy. For that reason it has become a hospital center. When I was there they had five general hospitals and five station hospitals that had been made into special hospitals where special teams were working on such specialties as thoracic and neuro surgery. Their bed capacity is a military secret. A large number of the wounded have been flown over from Italy or brought over in LST boats. These ships were helpful in transporting the wounded but had not been organized with sufficient medical officers. Colonel Edward Churchill, who is consultant in surgery of the area of the North African theatre, has done a remarkable piece of work in organizing the special teams and developing surgery in this area. He was particularly interested in that problem and in the problem of treating burns because of his experience in the Massachusetts General Hospital. I think he has contributed more to the problem of secondary wound closure than anyone anywhere. All of this brings out the important fact that no matter what chemotherapeutic adjuvant is used, it is the sound surgery that is done at the front and at the time of the closing of these wounds that counts. It is careful surgery along lines that have been accepted for many years that is the essential part of the initial treatment and secondary treatment. I am sure that I saw 150 or more of these cases that had been properly treated brought back to one of the special hospitals in Bizerte and at the end of 6-12 days the wounds were revised, sutured and closed with healing by primary union. The saving of time, of beds, of morale in these cases cannot be overemphasized. I am sure that this is going to be one of the results of the war that will be a great contribution. Of course, secondary wound closure is not a new thing. It was used in the last war. But adequate and proper surgery, combined with some of these bacteriostatic drugs, is giving results I am sure we have never seen before.

MISS EFFIE TAYLOR RETIRES

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Dec. 15 — Miss Effie J. Taylor will retire next June 30 as dean of the Yale School of Nursing, completing ten years' service. She will be succeeded by Miss Elizabeth Seeyle Bixler, director of nursing at the Norwich, Conn., State Hospital. The latter's appointment as Professor of Nursing at Yale becomes effective in March. She was clinical professor at Yale in 1937. She had been at Norwich since 1941.

“ABOARD THE GRIPSHOLM”

MY assignment as a Red Cross Nurse aboard the M.S. “Gripsholm” proved to be an interesting and educational venture. I had fancied visiting India many a time; yet never did I think I would do so in an atmosphere of diplomacy and war-time exchange. Meeting our enemies was something I had always dreaded; nevertheless I did learn a great deal of and from them.

The “Gripsholm” is a Swedish ship chartered by the State Department to repatriate Americans who were interned in Japanese controlled territories since the beginning of the war. That was a period of twenty-one months. These Americans, for the most part, business men, missionaries, teachers, doctors and nurses, were brought from their internment centers aboard the Japanese ship the “Teia Maru” to Mormugoa, India. At this point, it met the “Gripsholm” with its passenger list of Japanese nationals. The exchange of prisoners of war took place October 19th—the first of its kind in history, inasmuch as this was not a diplomatic exchange.

As one of five Red Cross Nurses, I boarded the ship, three days before sailing. We did not at the time know what or where our patients would be—nor did we know till Wednesday, Sept. 1st, when the Japanese came aboard. At sailing time that same midnight, we had a total of five patients in two hospitals, and a great many minor illnesses in cabins. A great deal of nursing on the outbound trip was done in clinics where we had many patients. Also before we docked at Mormugoa, we had delivered three baby girls,—much to the disgust of the parents, that no “warriors” had been born. Nursing for the most part was very practical and applicable, that is a great deal was done on deck. If a patient was well enough to be out, weather permitting, we managed to put him in the fresh air and have his meals served there. This not only brought physical relief, but brought a great deal of mental comfort. The sea was extremely calm after the first few days—hence, after a week we had little or no seasickness, either amongst the patients or nurses. Mal-de-mer can be a real calamity as I know, only too well!

Our first port of call was Rio De Janeiro and then Montevideo, Uruguay, where we boarded more Japanese repatriates. The number of passengers was now around 1500. We then proceeded southeast across the Atlantic around the Cape of Good Hope to Port Elizabeth in South Africa. Our main purpose for stopping here was to replenish our water supply, for we were extremely limited with the use of water. Inasmuch as the ship normally carries eight hundred passengers to supply fifteen hundred with water necessitated using half as much! After being in Port Elizabeth only sixteen hours, we again crossed the Equator sailing northeast to Mormugoa, a small Portuguese (neutral) port on the west coast mainland of India. This was a distance of around 4700 miles. At no time during our outbound trip were we or the Japanese passengers allowed on any land. Probably for this reason we did not dock anywhere, but anchored out in the harbor always in full view, though, of the land. This only tended to make us more envious for we believed we were missing something—and we were! However, this had to be done for diplomatic reasons.

At Mormugoa, or “Goa” as it is called, the Japanese ship had docked one day sooner than we. As we passed the “Teia Maru,” and docked alongside her with her bow pointed into our stern, there was much singing, dancing and joy on both ships. The bridge officer on the “Teia” produced the Japanese flag, causing a greater commotion than ever amongst the passengers on the “Gripsholm.” However thru it all came the strains of “God Bless America” from the overjoyed American repatriates. Their excessive delight at seeing their freedom, after twenty-one months of Japanese domination resulted in two bad fractures amongst the group. The actual exchange did not take place until three days later—Oct. 19th. On this exceedingly hot, sunny day at 9:00 a.m., the Americans and Japanese, separated by railroad boxcars on the dock, made their way to their respective new ships. The exchange lasted one hour and forty minutes. When the Americans came on board, they were welcomed by a buffet lunch, wherein the amount and kind of food were indescribable. The food was kept on deck until no one wanted anymore—4:30 p.m. Dinner, served in regular ship fashion at 6:00 and 7:30, was again very well attended. The tears of joy and gratitude that were shed that day impressed me tremendously. Here at last, was something these people had visualized and dreamed about, but which they had not hoped to obtain. It was a day, I shall never forget.

We had more nursing coming home. I was assigned to a tubercular ward consisting of fourteen patients. Our other two hospitals were filled at all times, including our patients, the two whose appendices we removed at sea. There were many deficiency diseases, because of malnutrition and many Upper Respiratory Infections resulting most likely from changes in temperature on the way home. Our cabin calls again were numerous, as were the clinic appointments. Nursing, however, was easier, on the return trip, inasmuch as it was more appreciated and also because both patient and nurse understood each other.

Leaving Goa, India, we sailed southwest, again to Port Elizabeth—again to replenish the water supply and have laundry services performed. This time we were allowed ashore. Port Elizabeth is a quaint, thoroughly English town. While there, I met a former Presbyterian classmate of mine, Penelope Georgola, who was en route to her home in Greece. To be so far away from home and to meet, unexpectedly someone you know so well, was indeed a thrill! After one and one-half days in port, we sailed for Rio, South America, a trip of twelve days. The harbor at Rio is said to be the most beautiful in the world—and it does bear out this description. The city, itself, is wonderful—clean, modern and hospitable. (“The night clubs are exactly as you see them in the movies.”) Fortunately I found time to buy some shoes, inasmuch as Rio is noted for its leather goods. They are among my prize possessions! I would certainly like to visit Rio again, in peace time.

On Nov. 16th, we sailed for New York, and arrived here Dec. 1st. The Statue of Liberty stood out more prominently than ever before—for this time it meant home to so many people. I was almost as happy to see it as were the repatriates. Again there was much weeping and thanksgiving—again we heard “God Bless America.” However, the thought that lay behind so many, was the memory of those still in internment—coupled with this, I know, was the determination to do everything possible to bring the war to an end. Perhaps before another Christmas is past, the remaining 6000 repatriates shall be free!

The trip altogether covered about 27,600 miles, touched four continents and crossed the equator four times. We sailed the Atlantic Ocean and the Indian Ocean and the Arabian sea. Even with all this, it is good to be home!

KATHERINE MULCAHY, '41.

REPORT OF THE CONVENTION, NOVEMBER, 1943

DUE to the War Emergency the Biennial Meeting of the New York State Nurses Association, held in the Hotel Seneca at Rochester, November 4th and 5th, was limited to a meeting of the House of Delegates. This meant that the program was confined to business meetings entirely in the day time, there being no arrangements for special speakers or general evening meetings. The banquet was also omitted. There was no registration fee and no printed program. The result was that since the business meetings followed each other the subject matter was presented in sequence and was much easier to follow.

Since the reports of standing and special committees were printed in the New York State Nurse most of the reports were accepted as printed.

The delegates approved the formation of a new section for the Industrial Nurses. They also welcomed the new District No. 16, Miss Madden, President, in Westchester County. This county was formerly a part of District No. 13. An invitation to tea at the Nurses' Residence of the Rochester General Hospital Thursday afternoon was accepted.

There were three reports which received special attention from the delegates (1) The Report of Proposed Revision to By-Laws, (2) the Progress Report of the Committee on Personnel Practices and (3) the Report of the New York State Nursing Council for the War Emergency.

Many proposed revisions to the By-Laws had to do with such matters as membership in Government agencies being changed to conform to American Nurses' Association By-Laws. Also rewording of State By-Laws to conform to the new American Nurses Association model form. The revision which aroused the greatest discussion was the question of raising the dues of the Districts to the State. It was finally decided to raise the dues 25 cents per member. Another matter of interest was whether or not the Alumnae Association would continue to be the unit of membership in the district or have members all join individually. It was voted to continue to have the Alumnae as the unit of membership allowing those with no alumnae in the District to come in as individual members.

The Progress Report on Personnel Practices for the General Staff Nurses: was ably presented by the Chairman, Miss Mary Richardson. The report had been previously published in the New York State Nurse so the delegates were intelligently prepared for the discussion which followed. It would be impossible to give this report in full but it would be well for all members of the Alumnae to keep the report as it will be the basis for future discussions and decisions. It was felt that there were many inequalities in personnel practices in nursing in New York State and that these inequalities had been brought into sharp focus by the war emergency. The Committee submitted recommendations on such subjects as Health and Sickness Programs, Vacations, Holidays, Salaries, Temporary Employment, etc. The one on salaries will be interesting to our Alumnae, i.e.—that all salaries be paid on a cash basis without perquisites, and that rental of a room in the hospital property be optional.

The Report of the New York State Nursing Council for the War Emergency: was presented by Miss Alta Dines and aroused a great deal of interest among the delegates. This interest focused on the financing of the Council (which is being financed by the State War Council and State Nurses Association), and on the changing of the Supply and Distribution Committee of the Council to the Procurement and Assignment Service of the War Manpower Commission. While the Recruitment of student nurses will still be an important function of the Council, the enrolling of nurses in the armed forces and the essential nursing of the civilian population looms as a gigantic problem as the war gets into its stride and we hope goes into the final stages.

The following officers were elected:

President .....	Clare Casey .....	District #13
First Vice President .....	Elsie Hillers .....	District # 4
Second Vice President .....	Albert Launt .....	District # 5
Secretary .....	Dorothy McLaughlin.....	District #14

Re: EXTEMPORIZED MILITARY HOSPITAL UNIT

THE medical division of the Office of Civilian Defense in cooperation with the United States Public Health Service will be responsible for supplying graduate nurses who may be needed temporarily at Extemporized Military Hospitals to supplement military personnel in the nursing care of casualties resulting from enemy action in New York City or in other theatres of operation.

In July 1943 the Office of Civilian Defense regional medical officer requested that eighteen units be organized in the New York City area, each unit to include two supervising nurses and twenty staff nurses recruited from the institutional, private duty and public health groups.

Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center responded to this request by selecting from each of its departments a group of nurses who, after taking an oath of office under the United States Public Health Service will be temporarily released from their present positions in the event of a call to duty.

In order to maintain a quota of twenty available staff nurses at all times it was deemed advisable to recruit an additional number over and above that required, hence thirty-six nurses were sworn in. To avoid depleting the staffs of any one institution or agency at any time plans have been made to distribute the nurses from each organization throughout the various units.

One of the desired qualifications of the supervising nurse is operating room experience. We are most fortunate in being able to comply with this request in the appointment of Miss G. Harriet Mantel, '33, formerly head nurse in the operating room and on the first division surgical service at Presbyterian Hospital, now acting Assistant Professor of Nursing at Columbia University, as chief nurse; and Miss Helen L. Fimbel, '37, formerly head nurse in the operating room at Neurological Institute, now head nurse in the Emergency Ward, Vanderbilt Clinic, as assistant chief nurse.

1895

The graduates of our school will regret to read the notice in the Quarterly of Miss Mac Arthur's death on November 27, 1943 in New York. To her our school owes a great debt of gratitude. Graduating in the second class she practised the highest standards of patient care and it was her aim and privilege as a private duty and head nurse to pass these ideals on to all with whom she came in contact. Not only did she make this contribution to nursing in her own school but, in her later years, as teacher of Home Economics and Practical Nursing in the Washington Irving High School, New York City, she inspired another and a younger generation with the same ideals.

Miss Mac Arthur was one of the nurses who went with Miss Maxwell in 1898 to Chicamauga Park in the Spanish American War. On her return she became a private duty nurse and as such took care of Mr. John S. Kennedy in his last illness. In 1912 she resigned as Head Nurse on the Women's Medical Wards (V and VII) to take the position of Director of the School of Nursing and Nursing Service of Lane Hospital, San Francisco, California. Returning to New York City in 1914 she taught Red Cross nursing classes at Mulberry Street Community Centre and in 1919 became a teacher of Home Economics and Practical Nursing, Washington Irving High School. She retired in 1937. During all these years devoted to nursing Miss Mac Arthur never faltered in her effort to maintain the highest ideals of patient care.

Report of the Women's Division of the Presbyterian Hospital
of the United Hospital Fund Campaign

The Presbyterian Group working for the 1943 United Hospital Fund Drive was composed of a Group Leader and three teams of 26 workers. The Captains of the teams were Mrs. Ralph Boots, Mrs. Albert Lamb and Mrs. Edgar Stillman.

Our quota was increased from the last year's of $12,327.00 to $19,925.40.

We all made up our minds from the start that we were going to write or contact many more people in this Drive in order to improve on our work of the previous year. Consequently we took over an assignment of 1,537 names, with a result of 136 new gifts of $5.00 and over and a count of 479 gifts not counting workers own gifts. We averaged five new gifts per person and 70% of our workers received a total of ten gifts or more.

And so, although we were $41.76 short of our quota, our new gifts and our total number of gifts were so high that we received a rating of 184 points by The United Hospital Fund. Our rating in the previous campaign was 82 points.

We were all delighted and surprised at the last meeting of the Campaign on January 19, 1944 to receive the first prize of $1,250.00 for our hospital.

Mrs. Boots also received a 2nd prize of $50.00 for securing 25 new gifts of $5.00 and over and was also eligible for a second prize for the total number of gifts—but only one prize could go to the same person. Mrs. Howell received a 3rd prize of $25.00 for 16 new gifts, Mrs. Brown a 4th prize of $10.00 for 10 new gifts and Mrs. Cunningham Honorable Mention for ten gifts.

Everyone did excellent work this year but I think that Mrs. Boots deserves very special praise as she not only did outstanding work herself but with her team brought in 218 gifts totalling $11,481.00.

Excerpts from a Letter Dated February 14, 1944

From Mr. E. C. Miller, Executive Secretary of the Near East Foundation.

"We have a report from our Cairo office dated January 26, which mentions briefly the work of Mrs. Kalergis (Penelope Georgala). Mrs. Kalergis is directing the nurses training and small hospital in Moses Wells, in which community a Greek refugee camp is located. We understand that she has enlisted fifty girls for a short course in nursing, presumably something similar to our nurses aide courses here.

This project is operated by Near East Foundation in co-operation with MERRA, which in turn has now been taken over by UNRRA. There is presumably an acute shortage of equipment and supplies, and every effort is being made to provide the necessities.

Dear Friends at P.H.:

November 15, 1943.

Sometimes it is hard to express what we really mean, situations can be so subtle. I don't know how to tell you how pleased we were to get the gifts, but in addition, to have those cards read from "Your Friends at P.H." gave us a feeling that we belonged and that this was just a bad dream and we would be home soon. We all thank you very very much for the thought that went into those gifts. I'm not sure yet how they will be dispensed but will tell you about it after Christmas. I don't believe any of the parcels were lost this year and I will try to account for them all but I am a little overwhelmed. In addition to the P.H. gifts I have 41 parcels and am about to be poisoned by the Mess personnel I think. You see the parcels are delivered to the Mess Hall. Glad you didn't send them all in my name or I think I would be a "gonner." I do hope there will be some gum in one of the packages for Casey. Casey is our Jewish boy from Brooklyn who has learned to cook since being in the army and he furnishes us with many a laugh as well as a good meal. He loves gum and we don't get any. We could get some but you know how people put it under tables and into the linen and on the walk. So our rations of one package a week do not come to us. Colonel's orders! But I do think Casey should have gum for Christmas. And he shall have it if it is in one of those 41 pkges.

Wish we could send our friends at P.H. a little gift from England. Can't buy much of anything and unless we take a castle down and bring it back with us as they did in "The Ghost Goes West" I don't know what we can do. The best we can do is let you know within the limits of censorship what it is like over here.

We have said many things in our letters. They are all true but the total picture is false. I shall try to give you a clear picture.

No one is starving in England. There is no affluence anywhere. Not even if you can pay for it. We all eat American food and naturally we get large quantities of certain foods and just when we start getting very, very tired of it something else comes over. For example: for a time we got Spam, Spam, Spam. Now we eat it gladly because we only get it once a week. Believe it or not at one time we got so tired of meat loaf that so much was left over Sooner was in danger of turning into a pony, (with what was left over). I think it is wonderful that the U. S. Gov't can feed us all, in all parts of the earth, and none of us complain about the food. We know we get more than you do at home. It's just the uniformity that gets you down. Plus I guess more homesickness than you can imagine. You think you do. You think you have it for us. But at least you can go out on Broadway and hear a foreign accent say "Sееееек Shaltar." We have to hear when we say "Chief Nurse of the 2nd General Hospital" another voice say "Is this the Maatrun of the Chuur chill?" Somehow or other the Jewish accent is home and this La de la is not. That's one for the peace conference delegates to conquer.

Now let's see what else we (me) can correct. We do not and I mean Not get transportation any where. And of all things I don't know which I would rather have you see. Cap't Province on a bicycle or Col. Kneeland on one. That may be mean but it is not meant as such it is just a picture you should see. You know, the unexpected.

It's time for another page and I will try to describe these wonderful leaves and these wonderful duty hours.

I will start on the Leaves. They are supposed to occur every three months (7 days each) that amounts to about the same length of time that you have at home. But believe me it is more rest to have it all at one time AND IN THE U.S.A. You have been hearing peculiar things about our leaves. I suppose most people have felt freer to talk about their leaves than they have about their work therefor it sounds like we are having nothing but a good time. Well the leaves are fun but they are also exhausting. Except that one needs to get away from here once in a while there isn't one of us who wouldn't rather save the leave for the U.S.A. It is hard to get food (only because we hate to queue up all the time) not because there isn't food and you have to think of it so far in advance and usually when you are not hungry and don't care. We are given ration cards to present to our hotel if we stay over four days but our ration card doesn't seem to cheer them up very much. We still get powdered eggs for breakfast, cold toast (the British don't like hot toast) butter if you insist and it isn't worth insisting because it is rolled into a ball with air inside). But as long as you aren't hungry food doesn't have to mean that much to any one. There is one food that we can get on leave that thrills us all to the "cockles of our hearts" and that is broiled lobster. Other than that, leave for food, is a flop. We get better food in a U. S. Army camp. Most of the places you go to on leave are a little drab. I haven't been to Tourquay, I understand that is pretty pre-war as any place can be. You can rest assured the Americans get around and I think our enlisted men have found their way into the English heart that the Officers have not. Anyway a leave is fun because it is different and you can write home about it. I loved my leave in Penzance.

Now for the duty: I don't suppose our picture is any different than the Station Hospitals in the U.S.A. except that the patients come to us directly from the air. Otherwise the type of patient is the same. The ones who come up from India are so pleased to be in a civilized institution that you would think we were the U.S.A. ourselves. The air corps chaps are just wonderful. There's no more to say about that. No one wants this war to reach the shores of America and to that end they will risk their lives. I particularly like the young gunners they are so young and so full of pep. I suppose you know about the young gunner who was the only person near a navigator who was hemorrhaging. He put a tourniquet on like he was told and still the man bled. The Lt. was 'out', the nineteen year old gunner didn't know what to do. He couldn't stop the bleeding and he didn't think the navigator would live until they reached England. So he put his parachute in order and dropped him over France in the hopes that a friend would pick him up. The French are constantly reported as friends of the Americans. What a decision for a 19 year old to have to make! What is to happen at the end of this war? At least to boys as brave as this?

I don't feel on re-reading this letter that I have improved the picture of a U. S. Army Hospital abroad but we aren't working as hard as we did at P.H. but we wan't to and we don't want to. I guess it will be over soon. Thank you heaps and heaps for the Christmas cheer. We can't buy any of the things you sent. We could do without them but it is very nice to have them. We all like nail polish, we like to smell sweet, and do we like American fruit cake? Whoever did most of the work we want to convey our deepest gratitude and thanks.

We really think you are working harder at home. But then, as I say, at least you hear English as she is spoke on Washington Heights!

Love to all,

MARJORIE PETO, '26.

Italy, December 10th, 1943.

Excerpts from a Letter to Miss Young

My dear Miss Young:

Soon after my last letter to you my team was transferred from the British to this American Field Hospital—which is the ideal set-up for our Surgical teams. There are three platoons in a Field Hospital composed of six nurses and about the same number of Doctors—many of whom are medical or very young doctors—and so our surgeons are needed to the Nth degree. With each of these platoons there are four or five of our Surgical teams—we have two Gen. Surg.; one Orthopedic; a Chest and a Shock team. We work on the continuous eight hour shift or at least that is the idea—but when we are busy we just keep on working until we finish—sometime getting a couple of hours sleep during the 48 or more hours it takes to finish up. This hasn't happened too often.

Our set-up is really quite adequate. To begin with we are the Front-line unit going right along with the Clearing Station. Our cases are those boys that are too seriously wounded to go back. They come to us and are brought in to the Shock Tent where immediate treatment is started—Plasma, Blood from our own Bank; external heat, fluoroscopy, and exam. by the Surgeon on at that time. As soon as they are in shape we take them into the Surgical Tents—where we have three tables and one other behind blankets for suspected gas cases. We have two sterile instrument tables, a cot holding sterile sheets, gowns, etc.—all autoclaved in individual bundles. Then we have two tables for our suture jars, bandage, sharps, etc. We have improvised a lot and have tried out several various set-ups—our first was as the doctors wanted it, but my goodness they had us running our legs off—so the four of us who work in Surgery got together and we now have a very compact, workable operating room. Our supply tent is across from us and there is one nurse and some Corpsmen there all day putting up supplies. After the patient has been operated upon he goes into post-op. tent where he is kept until he can be evacuated. Each day we (my team) goes in and makes rounds on our patients and dressings are done as needed. My Surgeon is really excellent—he does beautiful work and not only that but when we do dressing he very often helps me bathe and change the patients. He is extremely interested and is tireless when it comes to looking after his boys—I am really very pleased to be his nurse. We have worked hard but it is very satisfying to know that these boys have been given a chance they wouldn't have had if they had had to ride over these roads in an ambulance for several more hours. From the time they enter our admission tent until they leave for good they do not have to go outside of our tent Hospital. The tents are put together in such a way that there are little covered "Times-squares," as we call them between each one.

We have received a great deal of publicity in the home-town newspapers lately. All our families have written us about it and it is really funny the "glamour stories" that are being put out. As for "Nurses Under Fire" and so forth—that is something we hardly even notice anymore—sometimes the concussion of our own is so loud it startles us but we are even sleeping thru that now.

There is some talk about us going back for a rest soon. I only hope, in fact we all are hoping that if we do go back there will be a promise that we can all come back to the same sort of set-up. We have no social life, parties, etc., like we had in Africa—and it is mud—rain and more mud all the time but we love it and wouldn't change with anyone—and here's hoping we don't have to.

ISABEL HARRELL, '35.

Dear Folks,

December 27, 1943.

The second Christmas in the ETO written by a very tired Chief Nurse and probably being read by a very tired civilian.

On Thursday night Laura Smith and I had dinner in Oxford with the first friend we made in England. Mrs. Ronaldson took us punting in her boat a year ago last August and we have been friends ever since. She now supervises the Red Cross Service Club for enlisted men. We had dinner in her small apartment. It was wonderful. We hadn't had HOT food for a year and it sure was a pleasure to have to wait for the food to cool off. We had mashed potatoes, brussel sprouts, cabbage and chicken. It was the first chicken she had had in three years and then it was only a half a one but it was tender and tasty, dressing, gravy, plum pudding and a punch. Besides Mrs. Ronaldson there was her daughter and year old baby and a Mrs Harris. Mrs. Harris had a very bad cold and we tried to sympathize with her and she said "Just ignore it, that's what I do." Good if you can do it. I have a lulu right this moment and I'm tired of these English colds but I'll try to ignore it. After dinner Laura and I had the very very good fortune to get a taxi so we didn't have to queue up in the dark and wet for a bus that probably wasn't running anyway. Mrs. Harris was late for the dinner because she had gone to the other side of the town to see a 4 year old (son of a friend) in a pagent. When time came for him to go on he said "Malcom is not a sheppard." And Malcom wasn't. So she had the long trip for nothing and the buses were slow in coming so the poor lady almost missed her Xmas dinner.

On Friday afternoon we had Xmas parties for all the bed patients. Games, coca-cola etc. Every ward had a tree. I can't say the homemade decorations were too pretty but most of them at least looked gay. Christmas cards make nice decorations and crepe paper (sent from home) cut into 1/2 inch strips and twisted every inch made nice streamers. There was loads of holly that was made into streamers to wind around posts and made into wreaths for the windows. (The British only use wreaths for graves and we have given them a shock by using them for windows and doors.)

The patients on the Eye Ward made the most ingenious dolls house out of cardboard cartons and the nurses made the rugs and drapes. It is to go to a very lucky British orphan. In fact about a thousand orphans received large bags of candy from this place. The bags were made of red stiff cheesy stuff. We collected the personelle's and patient's rations for a whole month so there was plenty of candy. Today the Chaplain found a lot of homes where the children didn't get anything so he started collecting again. He is doing very well.

At 7 p.m. Xmas Eve there was a Protestant candle light service. The Chapel looked beautiful. At 8 p.m. we divided into two groups and sang carols to the patients. At 9:30 p.m. we gathered in Hut 34 and had some entertainment. The nurses started the show. I was General 5 Star Hennessey again and this time I brought five One Star Generals with me to tell everyone "HOW TO PREPARE FOR INSPECTIONS." We had General's Nuisance (Rosie Barrett) Mess (Willetta Mosser)

Grounds (Virginia Randall P.T. Aid) Appearance (Margaret Peters) Inspection (Laura Smith). The doctors came next and they put on a broadcast from a step-up station and made it sound as though it was coming from David Moore in N.Y.C. It was very clever. He told us among other things that the lights were so bright that he was wearing dark glasses at night. In this connection I suppose you realize there are many children in England who have never seen street lights. And a grown up telephone operator was amazed to hear that we had colored electric lights on the trees at home. To go back to the show. After the broadcast the enlisted men put on some singing and dancing acts after which we had coca-cola and doughnuts.

Mid-night Mass and then most of us opened our packages or went around watching others if we had already opened ours. At four a.m. I had six to go and I didn't have the strength to cut the string so I had to put them aside. Colonel Crawford helped me carry the nurses gifts to the dining room. I had a big box covered with Xmas paper in the middle. Pasted to the box I had the community cards. In the center I had a Xmas Greeting written by General Hawley. I surrounded it with all the little cards sent with the presents. "To the Unit from the PH Nurses." They were darling cards. Then there were cards from Col. Blanchfield in Washington, Cap't McCafferty in the ETO. Special Service and Ada. Also from some who had belonged to the Unit and been transferred like Rocky Keith and Alice Bivens etc. Then all around the box I put the gifts sent by the PH nurses. I had them wrapped individually and there were enough for everyone who ate in our Mess, including the telephone operators and the Red Cross Workers. They looked so pretty all wrapped in different papers, that my family sent, and the nurses were surprised and pleased when they got up for breakfast and found them there.

I got a little ahead of myself. To go back to supper on Xmas Eve. It was spinach and smoked fish BUT at my place was a present from the nurses. Two antique Staffordshire Statues, a darling dresden candle stick and an antique Italian vase. My supper got cold but Sooner loved it.

The next day we had to do some work but about 5:50 p.m. we all gathered in the nurses club and had cocktails made by Major Masserlink and Cap't Fred Heath. I wish we had a picture of the dining room and the tables. It was the prettiest it has ever been. Mary Swallen had saved the silver paper that comes on X-ray films and made bells where the lights are. Ruth Willey made large and darling angels on the walls. She had to piece white paper together and then paint it. There was a rope of holly all around the wall. A Xmas tree in the corner and our fine new juke box that we rent for 5 pounds a week ($20 a week to you). It's a thrup'pence box and we can keep the money that goes in. The dinner was tomato juice cocktail, TURKEY, mashed potatoes, peas and gravy. Ice cream for dessert. An order came out the day before forbidding it but the mix was already made so it would have been wasted if we hadn't gone ahead with it. The Mess Officer certainly had us ready for that meal. He made us go without butter and eat spam for two weeks. One night Casey breaded the spam and mixed it with powdered eggs and called it "Breaded Spam Cutlets." Well the Xmas dinner was not only good but everyone had a wonderful time. Some even complained about eating too much. After dinner those who weren't too tired danced to the tunes in the juke box. I for one was too tired.

If it weren't for the headlines in the paper telling us that invasion is to start in 90 days we would be completely happy. New Years will not be as gay. Plans are afoot to keep everyone on the alert. We will have our dance but we will not serve anything but beer and coca-cola.

To go back to the Xmas dinner we had WHITE rolls. And butter.

This letter is a little hodge podge because people keep coming into the office and telephoning me. They seem to expect me to work. I'd love to explain all the nice things that went on this Xmas but there isn't time and perhaps you will get the stories one by one. On one ward, the Eye ward where Cap't Calhoun and Miss Martin hold forth they decided to let the patients have Xmas dinner on the Ward instead of sending them to the mess hall. They set a large table in the center, decorated it and the nurses served the patients. (This isn't done in the army ordinarily). The patients were so excited they ended up with after dinner speeches. While they were doing this Ardra Taylor (one of the nurses) washed all the dishes. You never saw two more surprised KP's in your life and I think it was probably the nicest present that any patient got.

We also have a Polish patient who was sent some present by some refugees. He was pretty pleased too.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

We've been busy and we've had our share of the flu but we are ready for whatever may come and hope it will be over soon. Let's hope next year will be brighter for everyone.

Most Sincerely,

Excerpts from a letter to Miss Young from Lt. Mary Mixsell, '39, stationed somewhere in the Pacific.

Recently I had my first seven days leave since coming over here, and spent it with friends of my family on a three thousand acre sheep station (it is called "station" over here instead of ranch). They were so sorry I couldn't go further North, and see what they call a real station—thirty thousand acres. I was amazed to see such a beautiful home, right out in the midst of the bush—it was done in California architecture, and surrounded by beautiful gardens and waving palms, and a big river runs through their property, and the banks are planted with weeping willows. The only noises made are those of the birds, poultry, and cattle. Rabbits are the biggest menace to the land over here, and land owners have to be constantly on their guard. I went rabbit shooting one day, and saw wallaroos all over the place—they are a little larger than a kangaroo, but otherwise about the same. There were also many grasshoppers which are brown in color, and assume plague proportions—they are as bad as our locusts, and nothing can be done about them. Electricity is generated on the place with a gasolene motor, and because of the gasolene rationing, if you want to read later than 10 at night you do so by kerosine lamps. I have gained 5 lbs. whilst on leave, because I had such wonderful food, and all the fresh milk and cream I could drink. I took along a tin of bacon I had received from home, and when we cooked it, it was just like American bacon, and a real treat to my friends, for they usually had nothing but mutton.

We spent our Christmas on the high seas, and had a grand one too, for we had a tree, and turkey with all the trimmings. Christmas Eve we had a party for our enlisted men, and all sang carols together. Then we gave them coffee, sandwiches, and fudge, the making of which I had supervised according to my father's secret recipe. Christmas Day, the doctors and nurses had their party, and opened their presents—I had already opened most of mine, for I belong to the school of who knows what will happen tomorrow. I had one lovely box from the Alumni Association which pleased me greatly.

I have managed to collect many souvenirs—my prize being a little coin purse with beautiful filagre work on it, and containing a tiny coin dated 1837. Also got some lovely zircons and opals which I will have mounted when I get home.

Heard the "Messiah" recently and it was beautifully done. We all love our work and made a broadcast home recently about our hospital ship. We have nice cabins—two in each one——.

We have been to New Guinea and seen the Aborigines and their hair is just as fuzzy as the movies show it. My best to any of P.H. whom you see.

APO 647, Postmaster
New York, N. Y.
Dec. 31, 1943

Dear Miss Conrad:

The mysterious box, addressed to me from our P.H. friends, arrived in very good time. The sad part of it was I missed the fun of opening it.

Miss Peto had forewarned us of the arrival of several packages and we handed them over to her for safe keeping.

Christmas morning was the great surprise. In the mess hall a long table was covered with little Christmas packages all prettily wrapped—each with its card. It reminded me of old P.H. days when we found little round blue and white candy boxes awaiting us.

It was very kind of you all to remember us so generously. The selection was most appropriate. Seeing "The Center Pharmacy" seal on one of the jars seemed just as tho' we'd stepped around the corner to do our shopping again.

So for all the girls who shared in my box—I say "Thanks a million," and we all want to be back for Christmas, 1944.

Wishing you all a Happy New Year, I remain,

Yours sincerely,

JEAN S. BIDDLE, '32

Dear P.H. Friends:

December 28, 1943.

Your most thoughtful gift of Revlon nail polish, lipstick, powder puff and hand cream arrived in excellent time and condition. All are articles impossible to obtain over here—that is such nice ones. I was so pleased to have your grand gift, for I have such wonderfully happy memories of P.H.—and I even have pictures of it on the wall about my upper bunk.

We all love our work aboard, but I am sure any self-respecting army post would disown us, for our language is by now part G.I., part sailor, and part marine!

Christmas eve, we had a party for our enlisted men. I supervised the making of 12 batches of fudge—my father's secret recipe, which they had at the party after we had all sung Christmas carols.

Christmas day we had turkey with all the trimmings, and opened our presents—I even had some from people whom I didn't know!

Had my first seven day leave recently, and spent it with friends of my family on a 3,000 acre sheep station. The people were so sorry I wasn't able to visit their 30,000 acre station further north! I just can't visualize that much land! I learned all about sheep astride an old and tired horse who was fraternally dumb enough not to know I couldn't ride! I learned to recognize good land—which is valued at about $35.00 an acre over here, and also did some rabbit shooting and saw many wallaroos—some not larger than a kangaroo.

Thank you again for your present and may you all have a successful New Year.

MARY MIXSELL, '39.

Dear P.H.'ers:

December 29th

A note to thank you all so very much for the grand Christmas box. The selection of things was great—everything needed and handy. It surely gave me a lift of the heart to be so remembered.

I have been hoping for foreign duty—but it now looks as though I may be in this country for a good long period. My only hope now is—you can never tell when you're in the Army!

May be in New York early in February, on leave. If so, will surely not miss a visit to P.H.

Again—many thanks to you all. And the very best of the New Year to everyone of you. May it bring us all back home in time for next Christmas.

Sincerely,

Camp Patrick Henry

2nd General Hospital

Dear Miss Conrad:

No doubt you have received many letters telling you of our Christmas holidays here. I want to thank you and all those who helped make it such a happy one. We were all delighted with the contents of the boxes. Miss Peto took them all and on Christmas morning we found one for each. Such nice gifts! Thank you all, very, very much. We tried to have the usual caroling through the wards. Did you all sing this year? I never missed in all the years I was there and am so glad we carry on the tradition.

Was very sorry to hear about Mr. Kinnicutt. It doesn't seem possible.

Trust all are well there at "P.H." Please extend our sincere appreciation for all that you did for the unit at Christmas time.

Sincerely,

JANET HOPKINS, '39.

My dear Miss Conrad:

January 11, 1944.

I want you and all my other "Friends at P.H." to know how very much I appreciated my share of your lovely Christmas gifts. It certainly was thoughtful of you to remember us all so generously! The fruit cakes were most delicious, and I am also the proud possessor of a beautiful lipstick. Thank you all just so very much! I hope you had a nice Christmas. Ours was really very festive, with carol singing through the wards (according to Col. Schullinger, the Surgical Service outsang the Medical!), plenty of turkey and all that goes with it, including hot mince pie à la mode, Christmas trees, and a dance, music being provided by our new juke-box, greatly superior to most of the dance bands I have heard over here. We have been fairly busy of late, but are still not rushed. I have been doing anesthesia most of this last year, as have Joyce Conner and Rose Barrett. It is a branch of nursing I never thought to enter, but I have found it very interesting. We use some spinals and some ether, but mostly intravenous sodium pentothal, supplemented with N<sub>2</sub>O and O<sub>2</sub>. I hope this time next year we will be able to say Merry Christmas to each other.

Thank you again!

Sincerely,

HELEN JANE WALKER, '40.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

Dear Friends at "P.H."

The Christmas package from you arrived safely and I certainly had great enjoyment exploring the contents. I must say that the choice of ingredients could not have been improved upon. I want to thank you for everything and I can assure you that they will be most useful as all those items are rather difficult to purchase over here. I was very sorry I could not join the rest of the P.H. group for Christmas and New Year but that was not possible this year. I hope next year we can celebrate in New York. I am certainly having a variety of experiences in different assignments and it has all been very interesting although nothing spectacular or exciting. All the nurses here are doing a fine job and have shown a fine spirit. Even tho their work will never get in the headlines like those who manage to get closer to action, they deserve a great deal of credit for the work they are doing.

I was glad to hear about the last Alumnae meeting and I wish I could have been there to hear Dr. Whipple. I am sure you must have enjoyed getting some first hand information for a change.

I want to wish all of you a Happy New Year and we are hoping for a reunion at home in 1944.

Affectionately,

ADA MUTCH, '36.

My dear Miss Conrad:

December 28th, 1943.

I am writing this letter of thanks to you and hope that you pass it on to "My Friends at P.H." who sent me the grand Christmas box. The hand cream, nail polish, lipstick and soap were most welcome and greatly appreciated—and the fact that you all remembered me at Christmas time made me extremely happy—many, many thanks to each and every one of you—!

Yesterday I returned to my own Hq. It is the first time I have been back except for one night in Africa—in a long, long time—I can't say I like it very much as I would so much rather be out in the field. It so happens however that the 2nd Platoon of the Field Hospital we were with became inactive for various reasons so we all had to come home. Since coming to Italy I have had some wonderful experiences. First visited a British hospital where I was the only nurse for the first forty-eight hours and during that time we were about two miles away from

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

Jerry. It was exciting, noisy and there was plenty of work. I enjoyed my work with this British hospital and the British clearing station where I went next. We then were assigned to this American Field Hospital along with four of our other Surgical Teams and our time with them was tremendously interesting and at times very exciting. Our cases were the boys that were so badly wounded they couldn't be evacuated any further back—so you can imagine that our surgery was the “major-superior type.” All of our work was carried on in tents and it was a test of our imaginative powers to set up a workable surgery using boxes, tin cans, saw horses, etc.—but we worked out a set-up that was extremely simple and adequate.

My best wishes to you all for the New Year and thanks again.

Very sincerely,

ISABEL HARRELL.

From Marjory Purinton, '31

Hawaii. (To Ruth Persell Stewart, '33)

From one dated May 16, '43:

“I have been on duty here at Sacred Hearts for the last week in a rather desultory fashion—but the real thing starts tomorrow morning—and is quite a surprise and something of a thrill. Five of us, including Donnie and myself, have been chosen to take a course in the Kenney treatment at Emergency Polio Hospital. There is quite an epidemic in progress here and the O.C.D. has set up an emergency unit, which has been run by the army up until now, with the loan of a few of the O.C.D. Nurses. They are on their way out now, and as soon as we have received our training, we will take over entirely. When I first heard of it, I was dying to get a whack at it, but didn't dream I'd get a chance. From all reports it will be quite a work out, and I'm not likely to get fat at it! What with the climate, poor ventilation, and continuous hot packs, it sounds like a Turkish bath to me! We wear operating room dresses, do our hair up in cheese-cloth, shed our stockings, and heave to!”

And July 12th.

“It's hard to believe that it was three months ago last nite that I was at your house before “taking off” for San Francisco. And yet so many changes of scenery and people and things have been crammed into it, that sometimes it seems like half a lifetime. It's well onto half way around the world in any case, and I am very conscious of that fact and often! We are having real Summer weather now, but it's such an improvement on New York. Always a lovely breeze and delightful at night. There is talk here of sending those of us who wish, after the war, to China—for reconstruction work. Probably I'll be too homesick by then, to do anything but come home—but it's an interesting opportunity to keep in mind. I've always had a yen to go there, and then on around the world. After the war will not be an ideal time to see the world at its best, but at least it should be an enlightening experience."

July 17th.

I moved into the dormitory yesterday and I feel that I have been released from prison. It's really very pleasant here, tho crowded. Three girls to a room. We have a lovely big kitchen and ice box, where we can whip up a meal when the spirit moves. It used to be the Japanese Consulate before Dec. 7th. Though most of the Oriental trappings have been removed, it has a certain atmosphere."

July 27th.

"Last week the hedges of night-blooming cereus were in bloom. There is a very famous one in front of the Puna Lou School which we have to pass going to and from Polio Hospital. It was just beginning to open up as we drove by the other nite at eight fifteen, and it was a sight to behold. The blooms look much like enormous water lilies—snow white with yellow centers—and the effect of thousands of them together was quite marvelous. Each bloom lasts just one nite a year. Precious, aren't they?"

October 24th.

"This has been such a hectic month—first with Sandy's arrival, and all the attendant festivities—and then my vacation in Hawaii! I'm just back and scarcely have my feet on the ground. Six of us flew over for a week, and really had the kind of time you dream about. Swimming—boating—rooms in the very best hotel—a car with 30 gallons of gas in which we toured the island, explored the volcano, and then a two day trip to Kona, which is one of the most beautiful sections in the world. Flowers and birds and sunsets over the Pacific and scenery to take one's breath away. Sandy has been sent to Wahiawa, which is about 30 miles from Honolulu."

December 10th.

“Mele Kalikauaka Ruthie, Oscar and Dougie:

It may not sound like Merry Xmas to you—but it is in old Hawaiian. It comes from the very bottom of my heart, across the Pacific to you.

It is hard to imagine Xmas in this land of sunshine, palms and tropical flowers. But you should see the thousands of poinsettas everywhere. Not the hot-house variety, struggling along in a flower pot, but growing naturally on bushes ten or twelve feet high. On many bushes there are over a hundred big red flowers. I only wish I could send you some real Hawaiian atmosphere — such as a bundle of tropical moonlight, a blue wave with a beach boy surfing to the shore upon it—or a hula girl bedecked in gardenia leis.”

MAXWELL HALL CHATTER

NO doubt you've seen a few of the newly-capped students scurrying to classes and on duty, glowing with enthusiasm and pride in "P.H." On January 29th at 8:30 P.M. in Sturges Auditorium the Welcoming Ceremony for the Class of 1946 was held. As usual it was a most impressive affair. Miss Donna Rogers, president of the Student Government Association, officially welcomed the new students and exhorted them to always keep alive their interest in nursing and in student activities as well. Dr. Rustin McIntosh, Director of Babies Hospital brought greetings from Dr. Willard Rappelye, Dean, Faculty of Medicine, who was unable to attend the exercises. Miss Helen Young, Director Emeritus of Nursing, was guest speaker for the occasion. She pointed out the importance of cherishing the traditions of our hospital. She stated that she hoped that all students would remember that the patient comes first, last, and always. Miss Margaret E. Conrad, Professor of Nursing and Director of Nursing, explained fully the significance of the Nightingale lamp and admonished the students to keep the torch of knowledge glowing. This year instead of each student individually lighting her candle, Miss Conrad lit two candles carried by Miss Jean French, Senior Class President, and Miss Janet Rose, Vice-President of the Student Government Association. They in turn lit candles of twelve other senior students who passed the flame to their "little sisters." A reception was held after the ceremony for "little sisters," "big sisters" and faculty members. Credit for successful planning of the Ceremony goes to Miss Florence Vanderbilt, House Director, and Miss Dorothy Geiger, chairman of the Welcoming Ceremony.

Recently we've been having unusually interesting lectures at Professional Problems class. Miss Catherine Mulcahy, '41, told of her experiences as a Red Cross nurse on the "Gripsholm." Miss Dorothy Davis, '40, who returned on the "Gripsholm" told exciting tales about her work in the Philippines. Dr. Nolan D. C. Lewis of Psychiatric Institute spoke on "Wartime tensions" and his "ten ways to keep out of a rut" will appear in the next issue of the "Student Prints." Miss Katherine Hardiman, '37, who recently returned from India, described vividly nursing in a missionary hospital there.

All student Reserve Red Cross Members are invited to a tea to be given by the New York Chapter of the American Red Cross. We are happy to report a steady increase in enrollment in the Reserves among Senior students, but it is still not 100%. Plans are being made for the Red Cross Drive to be held the latter part of February, and the Red Cross Bazaar is scheduled for the first week in March. We'll need your support on these projects, Alumnae!

PIONEER NURSE SERVED R. V. H.

Leader of Profession Honored By Empire

Miss Mabel Frances Hersey, retired superintendent of nurses at the Royal Victoria Hospital and a well-known figure in nursing circles here and in Ontario, died today at Toronto, according to word received at the hospital. She was 71 and had been in ill health for some time.

Miss Hersey's great contribution to the profession of nursing lay largely on the administrative side. Recognition of her native ability by the then governors of the Hospital was quick: three years after graduation she became superintendent of nurses and for the next generation, as time is counted, the fortunes of the hospital with respect to the all-important department of nursing lay largely in her very capable hands. The large number of nurses who passed from probationer to the happy possession of the famous graduation medal in that time owed much to her. To the world-wide reputation of the "R.V.H." her contribution was by no means the smallest. As usually happens—pessimists and cynics notwithstanding—first-class work brought its recognitions and rewards, the Order of the British Empire and—most appropriately—the high honour of a doctorate of laws from McGill.

MISS MARGARET W. STEVENSON

Miss Margaret W. Stevenson, a resident of Old Greenwich, Conn. for 38 years, died on January 13, 1944 at Harkness Pavilion, Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center after a short illness. Funeral services were held in the chapel of Christ Church, Greenwich on January 17, 1944.

She was a native of Quebec and spent the early years of her life in Canada. Later her family moved to Boston and in 1888 she entered the Training School for Nurses at the Massachusetts General Hospital under the superintendency of Miss Anna C. Maxwell whose life-long friendship became a guiding factor and influence. After graduation in 1890 Miss Stevenson accepted a position as head nurse at St. Luke's Hospital, New York under Miss Maxwell, then Superintendent of Nursing at St. Luke's.

Her greatest opportunity came in the field of private duty nursing which she entered soon after Miss Maxwell's appointment as Superintendent of Nurses at the Presbyterian Hospital, New York. Miss Stevenson was one of the pioneers in establishing high standards in the art of nursing and was a beloved member of the nursing profession. In 1898 she was appointed a member of the Committee on Periodicals of the Associated Alumnae of Trained Nurses of the United States which later was responsible for the publication of the American Journal of Nursing.

For many years Miss Stevenson lived with Mr. & Mrs. J. Kennedy Tod in their beautiful home, Innis Arden, Old Greenwich. In 1906 Mr. and Mrs. Tod offered the use of Innis Arden Cottage and later the Camp to the nurses of the Presbyterian Hospital. From then to the present time Miss Stevenson has been the guiding hand in providing comfort and pleasure to the many nurses who have shared in this hospitality. Soon after Mrs. Tod's death she moved to her residence at 38 Shore Road.

In the early days of World War I Miss Stevenson went to France with a volunteer American unit organized by Miss Anne Morgan for front line service. Here she was lovingly known to many of our soldiers as "Sister Margaret." She was a charter member of the American Women's Association and a member of the Women's Republican Club of New York City. She was also a member of the Nursing Service of the American Red Cross and the Greenwich Chapter of the British War Relief. Among the organizations with which she was identified in Old Greenwich were The Lord Lothian Chapter of the Daughters of the British Empire, the Garden Club and the Perrot Library Association.

She possessed a great faculty for enjoying life, and among her many interests were travel, art and literature. She will be remembered by her host of friends—young and old—for her charming personality, generous spirit and loving kindness.

One brother, Mr. Frank B. Stevenson, died in Boston December 24, 1943. Surviving her are a brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Percy C. Stevenson of Montreal, three nephews, 1st Lieutenant James N. Stevenson with the U. S. Army in the South Pacific, Stuart S. Stevenson of San Diego, California and Major Alan Stevenson serving with the Canadian Army overseas, five grand nieces and one grandnephew.

GRADUATION 1944

TO THIS, the fiftieth graduation of the Presbyterian Hospital School of Nursing, we are happy to welcome for the first time, Mr. Charles P. Cooper, our President and Mr. Henry C. Alexander, the Chairman of the Nursing Committee. Mr. John S. Parke, Executive Vice-President, will also be with us for his "first graduation" and it will be an added pleasure to have him. The exercises will take place as usual in the garden—weather permitting—at four o'clock in the afternoon on Thursday, June 8, 1944. We are delighted that Miss Young is to be with us to present the pins. Although we are unable to have reunion luncheons this year, it is hoped many graduates will bring their uniforms and join the procession. There will be the usual reception following the exercises on the grounds of Maxwell Hall and refreshments will be served in the dining-room.

The following day, Friday, June 9th is Alumnae Day and the Annual Business Meeting of the Alumnae Association will be held at 3:00 P. M. in Maxwell Hall. Tea will be served.

THE NURSE

PARISIAN dress designers have yet to design a more beautiful costume than the plain, simple, white uniform that the nurses wear. And perhaps God Himself would be hard put to it to devise a finer opportunity for generous, helpful, cheering service than nursing offers to young girls in white.

Right now on many battlefields of the world, the nurses are not robed in white. They are in khaki, in slacks, in dungarees. The white slippers have given way to heavy boots, mud-stained and clumsy. The jaunty white cap is swallowed up in a heavy tin helmet, but the beauty is still there, intensified and ennobled.

Nurses do not receive the publicity of Four Jills and a Jeep. Their pictures do not fill the papers, for there is nothing pictorially pretty about a grimy-faced young girl sponging dirt and blood from the face and body of a wounded soldier. They are not at all glamorous, our nurses, for their profession is not glamorous. There is nothing glamorous in caked blood and torn arms and legs and faces half blown away. There is nothing glamorous in a hospital just behind the lines when the wounded come pouring in, nothing glamorous in a long night's watch at the bedside of boys in pain, delirious, afraid, crazed, some of them. Nothing glamorous in the washing and scrubbing and the cleaning. Their days and nights are full of work and sights that strong men could not stand.

Their great glory is that they have offered themselves to service, calmly, almost casually. It is their vocation to tend the sick. Their place is wherever the sick and wounded happen to be. Their task is to be composed in disaster, smiling in the face of suffering, cheerful in the blackest moments, beautiful in the midst of horror.

Their reward is in their giving and in the grateful memory of those to whom they give. Long after the soldiers have forgotten the entertainers and come to blush a bit at their silly devotion to the pin-up girls, they will remember with a warm, cleansing glow of gratitude the nurse who smiled at their demands, the nurse who read and wrote letters for them, the nurse who helped them to walk again, the nurse who mothered them in the ugliness of their illness as though they were Christ.—From "America."

THE COMMITTEE OF THE LADIES AUXILIARY

Our activities during the fall and winter include the establishment of a New York shopping service the facilities of which, are available to all members of the Presbyterian Units. Anyone wishing to send a gift, be it furs or flowers, to someone in this country, notifies the secretary of the Committee. She assigns someone to make the purchase, includes any personal card or message, bills the sender and waits for the next order. This shopping service was established too late for Christmas but it is expected that the scarcity of goods both in England and in Africa and the difficulty involved in shipping, will see our Committee kept busy.

Instead of sending Christmas presents to the doctors and nurses this year, the Committee sent from our funds, $200.00 to the 2nd General and $100.00 to the 23rd Station Hospital. Colonel Crawford's letter describes to what use this money was put.

"Dear Mrs. Lamb:

"This is to acknowledge receipt of a check from the Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company in the amount of L49 10s 1d. The generosity of the Ladies Auxiliary in sending this money is greatly appreciated. After consideration of the uses to which the money could be put, and certain restrictions having to do with the availability of various items here, it has been decided to make use of the money to provide additional furniture, decorations, and other comforts for the Nurses' Common Room. Miss Peto has stated that she will write to you also.

"It is probably no news for me to tell you that the Presbyterian personnel of this hospital have established a fine reputation for the general excellence of their work. I feel that it is in large measure due to the splendid organization at home, of which the Ladies Auxiliary is an important part.

"With many thanks for your generosity and very best wishes to all the members,

Sincerely yours,
Signed:

P. M. Crawford
Colonel, M.C., Commanding."

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

The Ladies Auxiliary is starting a large and beautiful scrap book. It is engraved in gold letters and contains the minutes and reports of the Committee. We would like to make this book a record upon which we can look back in years to come, with great pride. Will you help us by sending us newspaper clippings about the Units and photographs? We are particularly anxious to obtain pictures of the personnel and of the hospitals. If you are in possession of such, would you kindly lend us negatives or send us reprints? There is no deadline for this material for this scrapbook is to be a cumulative affair which we hope will be interesting to everyone connected with the Units. Its success depends wholly on your response to this request.

THE PRESBYTERIAN

The Committee takes this opportunity to express its thanks in behalf of the entire Ladies Auxiliary to the staff of the Presbyterian Hospital for the many services it has rendered to the Units serving overseas. Knowing how grateful you must feel, we sent a letter of thanks to Mr. Charles Cooper, President of the Presbyterian Hospital for the letter which he sent to every member of the Units. The resolution passed by the Board of Managers of the Hospital contained in this letter, said:

“RESOLVED, that the Board of Managers of the Presbyterian Hospital in the City of New York hereby records its pride in the personnel and accomplishments of General Hospital No. 2; that it recognizes and appreciates the sacrifices made by the members in giving up the positions and advantages they had heretofore attained in the community in order to serve with the Unit, and that it expresses firm determination to do everything in its power to facilitate the resumption of the practice of medicine and of nursing by members of the Unit upon their return to civilian life.”

Specifically the Medical Board reports that: “Places are being held for all doctors and nurses who are in service, pending their return,” and that “Plans are actually progressing for enlargement of our low priced facilities on all services and for an orthopedic service.” Those who remain at the Presbyterian Hospital are directing their efforts toward the expansion of the hospital so that it may be able to properly accommodate the men and women when they return to civilian practice. The post war plans are not dreamlike and intangible. They are already being carried into effect and justify a most promising outlook. We consider this information the most important news in the entire Bulletin.

Marriages

Just after the last issue went to press we learned of the marriage of John A. Nelson the week of August eighth to Miss Sheila Cooke.

"On Saturday, September 18, 1943, Lt. Vera G. Johnson was married to Lt. Malcolm A. Phillips, Jr. in the Post Chapel of the Second General Hospital. The bride was given in marriage by Lt. Colonel R. N. Schullinger and Chaplain F. W. Korbitz of Medford, Wis. performed the double ring ceremony. Lt. Esther L. Johnsen of Corona, Long Island, N. Y. was maid of honor and Lt. Herbert Schultze, U.S.A.A.G. of Buffalo, N. Y. was best man. The bride's home is in Warren, Pa. and the bridegroom lives in Coffeyville, Kansas. He is at present a bombardier in a Flying Fortress serving overseas."

The Ladies Auxiliary extends its sympathy to Lt. Bernice Knowles at the news of the death of her mother, Mrs. S. R. Knowles.

We announce with regret the death of Mr. Ernest M. Ives on January 8th of this year. His daughter Miss Charlotte Ives is also a nurse in the 2nd General and we extend our sympathy to her at this time.

The latest news on the former head of the Unit, Barclay Parsons, is that he is now a full Colonel and has the position of Consultant in Surgery in the Pacific Theater.

We quote from a letter sent to Mrs. Paul M. Crawford, from her husband, Colonel Crawford, Commanding Officer of the Unit. This is the second war separation for Colonel and Mrs. Crawford.

"I think the mail to and from all fronts must be a big improvement on the last war. I have forgotten just how often I heard from you in the last fracas, but I am sure it wasn't regularly every ten days or so, and most of the time not regular at all. The little V-letters are performing a remarkable service because of the micro-films being flown across the seas.

"I will have some extra office work to get out for awhile, because even in war time there are reports to be made at the end of the year that we need not bother with at other times, but I don't mind much as there is quite a bit of pleasure in reviewing the work of this splendid Unit."

On February 14, 1944 one of the officers was kind enough to write the following resume of the activities of the Second General since September:

"The Second General is poised on the eve of its second anniversary as a unit and preparations are underway (or is it weigh?) for a fitting celebration on the 19th inst., though some of the more sceptical are a little in doubt as to what actually we are celebrating. In any case the unanimous theme song will be an ardent prayer that the next similar event will be in the form of a reunion in New York and to that end we pledge you a colossal toast,—or at least as large as the Toast Committee will permit. At the end of two years we find no advantage to be gained in increasing the age of the unit, and we are counting on 1944 to bring our job to a successful conclusion.

"Colonel Crawford has grown in stature in these two years and has done an amazing job, not the least of which has been to make a respectable military organization out of a group of medical individualists, which anyone will admit is the neatest trick of the age. How his West Point memories must have writhed and wriggled is a secret which he has kept carefully to himself, but he has gained the respect of all and has maintained an equanimity that has been shaken only momentarily by the searching inspections of numerous itinerant generals. Without smothering our professional idiosyncracies, he has led us down the military highway and through the wilderness of paper, and even though we are not always in step, we are behind him to a man.

"Margery Peto, with (or in spite of) the help of her hound Sooner,—of doubtful Baskerville descent—has brought her proteges successfully through three (or is it four?) complete changes of uniform and now has emerged with them triumphant in a devastating creation of brown striped searsucker with hats to match. This austere utility garment can scarcely be said to enhance the feminine form, but the new brown dress uniforms are very dashing. (Ed. Note: You criticize the material and we'll criticize your spelling. "Seersucker" henceforth. Not "Searsucker.")

"Rudi Schullinger has practically forsaken the operating theater for the lecture platform and has traveled far and wide spreading the gospel of penicillin. His latest triumph was achieved in London where he addressed the students and faculty of Guy's Hospital. Some irrepressible wag has suggested that on his future trips he carry a great white banner on which is emblazoned in letters of gold, "The Penicillin is mightier than the sore."

"Eli Kneeland, true to his usual custom, has gone south for the winter but when last heard from instead of basking in the sun, he was shivering in a sweater and combing the slums of a city not far from the battle front, studying the vagaries of the louse in its native habitat. No doubt he will find these studies vastly different from his somewhat more ethereal contemplation of the virus of atypical pneumonia."

Editor's note: Lt. Colonel Yale Kneeland received orders early in March after his return from this trip. Although his orders read "detached service" we are informed that it will be for an indefinite length of time and that he took all his belongings with him. Major Putnam Lloyd who has been acting Chief of the Medical Service has taken Colonel Kneeland's place and so he now has complete charge of that service.

"On February 12th we celebrated simultaneously both a sad and a joyful occasion, the former being the impending departure of Pete Rousselot to take command of another general hospital and the latter the promotion of Dick Wise to his majority. Pete left the following day and we all hated to see him go. He has done a splendid job as executive officer in this unit and has shown a flair for administrative detail which will carry him far in his new position. He richly deserves the wings which must soon sprout on his shoulders, i.e. the tips of his shoulders, not the dorsal aspect. As for Dick, he has worked diligently and expertly in his adopted field and most certainly merits his gilded foliage.

"John Robinson and Eli Kneeland have been made consultants in their respective departments and spend a large part of their time buzzing around the country-side. Just what they do on these protracted junkets will have to be made the subject of a future report. We can only surmise.

"Shortly before Christmas, David Moore left us for the Zone of the Interior. No other man in the Unit could possibly be missed more than Dave. He was the ever-ready wise cracker, the genial joker, the tireless musician, chorister, morale booster and rehabilitator, and aside from that he ran an officers ward which was famous in these parts. We were all sad to hear he was unable to return.

"When Dave left, Bob Patterson, the human tornado and indefatigable bone crusher from Athens, Ga., fell heir to his room in the Senior Officers Quarters, an opportunity for social and cultural advancement which any ordinary man would welcome. But not Bob. He was dejected and downcast. He felt that within twenty-four hours of his moving into his new billet he had progressed from blooming youth to blasted senility, and he spared no words to express this sentiment. However, after a short period of exposure to the refined atmosphere of his new surroundings and the wise counsel of the old men, he is beginning to see the light and is slowly becoming reconciled. It must be admitted, though, that the cloak of senility rests uneasily upon him.

"One other event of note should be chronicled. On Christmas Eve, when hardly a creature was stirring, Captain William Savoy, gallant and fearless ivory grinder, undertook a mission fraught with danger and risk. He set out on a reconnaissance patrol over poorly charted territory, i.e. that which lies between the Officers Club and his quarters, and the black-out enveloped him. Just what happened no one will ever know. Either a tank trap jumped at him or a fox hole tripped him, but in the brief struggle which ensued, Willie's ankle cried uncle, and the x-ray told the rest of the story. Willie is still encased in plaster, trying valiantly to develop a stance stable enough for pulling teeth." Editors Note: This event is corroborated by a letter we received recently from Mrs. Savoy. The following paragraph is quoted from her letter.

"On Christmas Eve, Bill, together with several other members of the Hospital staff, made the rounds and carolled to the patients. That piece alone was enough to startle me, for his vocal chords had never before produced anything in a musical vein. Evidently he too was surprised, for while "strolling" along on a flat surface, he suddenly stumbled and fell suffering a "Potts" fracture of the right leg. I have since been informed that the injured limb is mending nicely and in no time at all, he'll be able again to take his place in the Dental Clinic."

"Jo Turner left us January 31st to be chief of medicine at the 302nd Station Hospital, about thirty miles away. Authentic reports have it that he is leading a rugged life, working twenty-six hours a day and doing a wonderful piece of work. He is one of our most brilliant minds and we can ill afford to lose him.

"We are all in excellent health and spirits despite the colossal waves of nostalgia which break over us from time to time. As we eat our juicy red beef steaks, munch our crisp bacon, and spread thick layers of golden butter on our toast we think of the hardships you are suffering at home and we have only one wish, and that is that we could share them with you,—and soon."

Because we know you will all be interested in the latest news of Rich Moore who left the Unit last year after a successful operation, we are reprinting in full a letter we received in February from Modesto, California.

"I am only too glad to supply a few facts about myself which I think may be of interest to my friends in the 2nd General and 23rd Station Hospitals. After three months at the Hal-loran General Hospital on Staten Island (most of which time I spent on sick leave with my family in Virginia) I was discharged to the MDRP at the Brooklyn Army Base to await my orders of re-assignment. These orders did not arrive until September 2nd and in the meantime I worked at the Army Base Dispensary. This work was quite interesting at times, but not of great importance and I was delighted when my orders finally came assigning me as Chief of Thoracic Surgery at the Hammond General Hospital, Modesto, California. My wife and I drove out and arrived in Modesto on September 19th. I have been hard at work ever since and have the opportunity to do the work here which I am accustomed to do in civil life. My wife and I are living in Modesto and I drive back and forth to the hospital, which is located three and one-half miles out from the center of town. Needless to add, I am now well thawed out after my nine months in England and I wish I could share some of this warmth and sunshine with the members of the Unit over there. In the final analysis, old friends count for a great deal more than comfort and I find myself missing all of them more and more as the days go by.

"With kindest regards to you (Mrs. Lloyd) Mrs. Schullinger and the other wives, I am

Most sincerely,

(signed) Richmond L. Moore.

P.S. No. 1. I forgot to mention that my health is good.

P.S. No. 2. My wife and I wish to thank Mrs. Schullinger for sending us the September Bulletin. We enjoyed it very much and look forward to the next number."

Major David D. Moore returned to this country shortly before Christmas and joins the growing list of detachments from the 2nd General. He writes from Brentwood, Long Island where he is now Chief Medical Officer at the Mason General Hospital.

"Not meaning to criticize anyone in authority over here, I think it is only fair to apprise the old gang that the food here nowadays leaves something to be desired. For example, I have not been able to get any spam, powdered eggs, lemon powder or brussels sprouts, since I got home. Doubtless the powers that be know best, and want the warriors at Headington to have priority on these luxury items, so I shall not complain of the buckets of fresh orange juice, the shell eggs and all that sort of thing, that I have had to put up with here."

It is with great pleasure that we announce information received from our clipping bureau to the effect that the leading article in the December 1943 issue of Surgery Gynecology and Obstetrics, entitled High Altitude Frost-Bite, was written by Major Scarff, Major Neil Rogers, and Captain Dickinson. From Captain Ada Mutch:

"They have just appointed a section supervisor for England and I am the one for Northern Ireland. I don't know how many hospitals will be under my supervision, but probably enough to keep me busy . . . "Last night I got back from a three day inspection tour of some of the hospitals in this section. I went with the Base Surgeon. All the hospitals are different, and it was very interesting to see what each unit has managed to do. Some have been built as army hospitals and others are using large houses, or convents. I was able to meet most of the nurses and to find out the problems in each group. I will probably make a big round about once a month and in between times just visit when I have something particular to discuss."

Lt. Clara Batchelder Peery's husband is now Lt. Colonel James M. Peery and is stationed with the 98th Evacuation Hospital in the Dessert.

2nd Lt. M. M. Cadwell has also been detached from the nurses of the 2nd General. She is stationed with the 3rd Auxiliary Surgical Gr. and her new A.P.O. is 230. Some time ago she wrote in a letter home:

"Betty sent me some corn, which I planted this A.M. The pup thinking it was a game, dug it up again. Then she went into the Colonel's quarters and when she left, he couldn't pass inspection. One of the girls had an egg given her, and she put it on the shelf so the pooch couldn't get it. But the pup climbed up and knocked it on the floor. She might get away with ruining our last pair of nylons, but an egg!!!" . . . "I am now in a room that has thirty nurses, five stoves that give no heat, no place to hang your clothes, no tub, only a shower that doesn't work. If you want to go to town, you walk, I don't know how many miles. Buses are for civilians only. We are in the middle of nowhere. Not even grass, only mud. We saw some things for sale. Just to mention some—Cranberries are $3.00 a pound, Asparagus was $12.00 a bunch, about $1.00 a bite, and oysters in the shell are $3.00 a dozen."

On the other hand, nurses from the 2nd General write home of working hard and getting a tremendous amount of experience. Though their praise is all too often unheralded and unsung, the Ladies Auxiliary hears from all sides that the women of the Unit are holding their own with the men and our hats are off to them for doing a fine job constantly and continuously.

We do not mean to imply that the doctors are idle for one may be quoted as saying, "I am up to my ears in a gold mine of remarkably good and interesting medical cases—malaria, amoebic dysentery, coronary thrombosis, rheumatic fever, tuberculosis, sarcoma, asthma, bronchiectasis, pleurisy, pneumonia, infectious mononucleosis, peptic ulcer, etc."

With all they have to do we take notice with pride and a slight feeling of personal shame, of the words of one officer who wrote:

"Yesterday I gave a pint of blood. We're all doing that in order to keep an adequate supply on hand. I was quite interested to find how little it bothers one. I found myself a bit sleepier than usual and a touch light headed but that wore off in a few hours."

The Medical Officers have their own mess now and consequently are probably getting the best food and the best cooked food in the entire army. This is due to the fact that food can be cooked in very much smaller quantity and almost according to individual tastes.

We are still waiting for a sketch from the artist of the mural which Captain Don Hull has painted on one wall of the Officer's Club. The most we can report is that it is a coat-of-arms of the 2nd General portraying a mop and broom rampant on a field of soap suds.

SCOTLAND

"On Thursday, after making an appointment two days ahead, I had my picture taken all dressed up in kilts. All the soldiers do it and it is really what I went to Scotland for. Takes about fifteen minutes for them to dress you up. The colors are beautiful but the cards will be in black and white. Of course Edinburgh Castle is in the back-ground. I wanted to look serious but as I came out to have it taken I was surprised to find three strange nurses and two soldiers sitting there watching, so I'm afraid I will have that silly grin, as usual.

"Tried our best to fly back as it saves so much time and trouble. For this we left Edinburgh (what one trip to Scotland will do to a former southerner!) early Friday A.M. and after changing trains several times arrived at a large Army Air Field which is the place large trans-Atlantic planes also land. Failing to fly, however, the Air-force people were able to get us reservations on a train without applying three weeks in advance. The plane was grounded by bad weather and we had about six hours to kill before train time. We spent this in the wind and rain watching with amazement the enormous planes bringing in military people who had had lunch in Washington the day before. The amazing thing was the casualness of the trans-Atlantic hop. Was able, at dinner to talk to many of these people and pilots, and to learn a lot about life and conditions at home which we do not get in the papers. Incidentally, one of the passengers showed me one of the new pennies. You didn't tell me we had new ones. One pilot who flies a transport to Africa, India, South America, U. S. A. or any old place, hadn't been able to see his wife in Memphis in one week and he said he was getting homesick. Imagine it—One week!)"

23RD STATION HOSPITAL

We have been anxiously awaiting a literary masterpiece from the 23rd Station Hospital but the base censor seems to be enjoying it. Still we will now try to give our readers a picture of their outfit by combining excerpts that have come to us from letters of the various members.

September—After a dust storm that filled us and our things with sand yesterday it started to rain towards evening and has been pouring ever since; the first real rain since those desolate days when we waited at our last staging area during the first week in May. This time, however, we do have cots so, we, if not our things, are off the ground. I have just returned from helping Bill Sherman pitch his tent which got completely swamped before the danger was foreseen. Fortunately, we have only one or two small rivulets coursing through our tent and we have been able to divert them from our luggage. We have several leaks and one rent in the canvas almost two feet long so we await future developments with interest . . . As we have nothing but a field kitchen and our "chow line" takes about forty minutes to go through (officers always last) our lunch today should be well diluted with rain water. Still we will have a hot lunch you can be sure of that. These Army cooks are simply amazing and can feed a big outfit like ours from a few small field ranges under any conditions of weather and in the dark (it is still pitch black unless there is a moon, when we eat breakfast). We are all well and having a grand time and by now quite adept at making ourselves comfortable under any and all conditions. Thirteen months of Africa has taught us a lot.

September 24th.—In the evenings we have movies . . . 16mm variety projected on a screen set on a gentle hillside.

Most of the manual labor used in the construction is provided by Italian prisoners of war. They are a jolly lot, and are swell at building roads, masonry and plumbing jobs. Some are good cabinet workers and carpenters, so that our construction here has a real finish to it.

October—The hospital is running smoothly and I continue to be very busy. Our food has improved a lot recently, our laundry is well looked after, though not pressed, and we have a nice wash house for officers which is about to have a hot water heater installed. We have a single shower and there are now about thirty-five of us, but in this cooler climate we seem to survive on a bath a couple of times a week and not always that.

November—I am sitting at my office desk wearing a sweater, field jacket and trench coat—. These tents are not winterized and there are as yet no signs of stoves, so bed is the only really warm place after sundown. In fact, we dress almost as warmly to go to bed as we do in the daytime and the other night one of the boys remarked, "Well it's time to take off our fountain pens and go to bed." It is still warm for a short time in the middle of the day if the sun comes out, which is getting rarer and rarer. Our food recently has been tops and having hot water to wash in is a great luxury. The hospital runs smoothly and we are as busy as ever.

Last night Dwight Fishwick turned up completely out of the blue and we sat around all evening hearing his intensely interesting first hand tales, covering the period from last November through Sicily. He arrived with a bottle of whiskey hidden under his coat as a present for us. You can well imagine our joy at this sight. It was, however, short lived, for it promptly rolled off the table he set it on while taking off his coat and smashed in small pieces before our very eyes.

December—Our hospital grows more finished every day. We now have several prefabricated buildings in place of tents and our ingenious utility officer has just built us a one room cottage with a big open fireplace for a doctors and nurses recreation room. We are fast becoming so civilized we hardly know ourselves. Our tent which seemed pretty cozy with a floor, now has a fine front door which I think will be more efficacious against the driving rains than tent flaps and it means we will no longer have to go in and out of our house like a dog coming in or going out of his kennel. Our hospital area looks very neat and trim with gravel walks and a driveway with a flagpole in the middle. A tent hospital is a fine sight and looks much nicer than a cantonment job like our old friends at Fort George Meade and Fort Bragg.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

Less than a week to go till Christmas, but it doesn't exactly feel that way. Plans for a party are well in hand; we all appreciate the thoughtfulness and effort on the part of the Ladies Auxiliary no end.

With the coming holiday season we've been decorating the ward for Xmas with cut out stars and icicles which the patients made themselves from colored paper given out by the Red Cross. The men have made Christmas signs which we've tacked up on the walls, giving a very definite Xmas feeling. Then at ten tonight there is carol singing.

December 30th—My ward keeps expanding steadily and I try and keep ahead of the expansion by having a very rapid turnover, which I'm quite successful in doing. I've had 45 admissions in the past three days which has kept me humping no end. A lot were really good cases too.

Last evening we had a nice New Year's Eve party at the new Officers' Club with a good orchestra, dancing and punch. Before the party Ray Germaine one of our new docs served us hot Tom and Jerry's made with our new issue of liquor for our Officers' mess. The ration was our so well loved Barbados rum.

TRANSITIONS

Engagements: 2nd Lt. Maud Lyter to Capt. Francis Markunas, X-ray.

Promotions: The report on promotions is incomplete but we take pleasure in being able to report the following:

Capt. Daniel N. Brown to Major Brown.

Lt. Col. William Casey to Colonel Casey.

Capt. C. Dary Dunham to Major Dunham.

Capt. William H. Gillespie to Major Gillespie.

Capt. Vincent Iovine to Major Iovine.

New Faces: "The enclosed list gives you some idea of the new faces. They are a good bunch and it seems as if they had always been a part of the 23rd. Capt. McClay (Protestant Chaplain), Capt. Margoliash (Dental), Capt. Scialabba (Surgical). Riordan and Beckman are administrative officers. Styler is our Sanitary Inspector and was a N. Y. City Health Department Inspector right up in Washington Heights. Father Doyle is Catholic Chaplain. Perkins and Germain are new Medical Officers. Miss Peterson is the chief nurse. We feel like a big institution possessing three Red Cross workers, and a couple of dietitians in the bargain.

Major Charles Flood writes "I cannot explain my new functions fully. Was transferred alone and am acting as a medical consultant, seeing a moderate number of cases. Have office hours and either take care of people or send them to dispensary or hospital. Am not part of a hospital staff at all. It is quite a change . . . I have acquired a black bag and an office and feel like a private practitioner. Bag is not yet fully equipped . . . The old problem of availability, possibility of night calls . . . again comes up. One of the events of Christmas Day was the feeding of French war orphans by the American soldiers. There were perhaps a dozen of them, aged from four years up, sitting at Christmas dinner with the soldiers and eating turkey with all the trimmings, cake and candy. It was quite a sight to see the youngsters mop up the food—brings out the old fatherly instinct.

Major Vincent Iovine has been transferred to the 2nd Auxiliary Surgical Group which places him somewhere in Italy working with his old friend Major Fishwick.

EDITOR'S ENVOI

Now we must bring this Bulletin to an end.

For those overseas, and perforce, for us at home, it seems indeed a long time ago that we said "au revoir." We little realized then the extent of our separation, which has not been an easy one for any of us. However, we feel confident, that there is not a member of the Unit, nor a member of his or her family, that is not deeply thankful that they are in this war not to create suffering, or to kill, but instead to heal, and give solace to our fighting men who are doing such a superb job and to whom they are so helpful.

The reports of the splendid manner in which the Presbyterian Hospital Units have and are conducting themselves through this period of chaos are unbiased and justifiable, and we are confident that they will continue to bring honor to their hospital.

To conclude, we wish them good luck and God speed. May 1944 see the termination, once and for all of the work that they have undertaken in uniform.

1905

Sympathy is extended to Winifred Nye Haynes in the loss of her daughter in April.

1907

Martha Jones Anderson writes that she is night supervisor at Chautauqua Tuberculosis Hospital. She finds it busy, but reports that it agrees with her.

1913

Violetta Mercer Marbury represented the Alumnae Association on Miss Maxwell's birthday and visited Arlington Cemetery to place a beautiful wreath from the Association on the grave. Nancy Whitman Wadsworth and Phoebe Taylor Barclay accompanied her. They also had a wreath from Mrs. Lapham and one from Miss Brown. Mrs. Marbury felt that it added to the tribute to have as many graduates as possible take the flowers to her grave.

1915

The Private Duty nurses have given ten dollars to the Sick Benefit Fund in the memory of Anne K. Williams and have credited it to the Class of 1915.

1918

Louise Clark Bingham has returned from her position in Florida due to an emergency in her family. For a while she served as Assistant to the Superintendent of the White Plains Hospital. She is now taking care of her sister at home.

1919

Helen Harding visited the Medical Center one day recently. On her return home she wrote, "I did so enjoy my hours at the Center. It was very illuminating to see all the wonderful inventions since 1919. It is certainly a privilege for any nurse to take the training at P.H. and I wonder if they ever realize all the comforts that are given them."

Helen Harding is doing a very interesting piece of work in the New England Farm and Garden Association. One of her admirers wrote a brief description of her work for us. "Among the many organizations in and around Boston, there is one in which all the members take great pride, The New England Farm and Garden Association. Its purpose is to aid the farm women to market their home craft and food products through its philanthropic shop in Boston. These women are the consigning members and the other members are those who buy and sell the goods. Between these two groups is Miss Helen Harding, store manager, who is the presiding genius who for fifteen years has quietly and efficiently ruled over her domain. Coming up Newbury Street from the Ritz one comes unexpectedly on an open space with four steps dropping down from the sidewalk. Taking these with caution, you open the door and find yourself in a small gay shop, the walls lined with cases, which are filled with all manner of lovely and useful things, and at the back is the food counter. It is a busy place with the customers crowding in and the helpers attempting to serve everybody at once. Over all, however, one promptly sees the figure of the "boss" distinguished for her fine looks and dignity. No matter what happens, and a good deal does, she stands unruffled behind the counter or sits in her office, waiting on somebody, taking complicated orders for a birthday party next Tuesday, answering the telephone, and what must be the most trying part of the day, replying to the questions from members of the Executive Committee, who have such an affection for her and the Shop that they drop in all the time. Under Miss Harding the shop has grown greatly since she took over in 1917, and while undoubtedly the war shortages have greatly increased our food sales, those of us who have always been associated with the Farm and Garden Association, know that a large measure of the success of the shop is due to Miss Harding and her faithful unceasing thought for the best interests of all concerned. It is not at all possible to express the deep affection and admiration felt for Miss Harding by the members of the Executive Committee, nor can their appreciation of her work and ability be adequately told, but the Shop is the best answer to the question, "Who is Miss Harding?"

From the Radcliffe Quarterly we copy this news item, "The Arizona Republic brings the news that Katherine Key Baldwin, '16, has again returned to professional life as supervisor of the Salt River Valley Blood Bank, which she helped to organize. This 'bank,' one of the few community blood banks in the country, functions under the sponsorship of the Maricopa County Medical Association, and gives twenty-four hour service to the hospitals of the district. The newspaper story goes on to say that Mrs. Baldwin served as a nurse in France in the last war, after graduating from the Presbyterian Hospital, New York City. She also spent several years working with the Grenfell Foundation in Labrador. Of recent years she has been busy with Red Cross work as a staff assistant and as sub-chairman of the Maricopa County civilian defense medical department. She has a nineteen-year-old son in the Air Force, a sixteen-year-old daughter, a younger son at Culver Military School, 'and a very busy physician husband now taking up her attention on the home front'."

1924

Lieutenant Ella Sharrocks has finished her period of basic training at Atlantic City. In March she was still stationed there, but hoped to be sent to the Pacific Theatre of war at some time. She writes that the basic training was very interesting, "A vast amount of information was poured into our heads—it will take us a long time to digest all we have learned. I hope this knowledge will be in the most accessible pigeon-hole at the time and times that it is needed." Miss Mary Roberts spoke to the class at their graduation and Miss Florence Johnson presented the certificates. There were five P.H. nurses in the class and it did not take them long to get acquainted.

1925

Ella Postles Fog is with her husband in Little Rock, Arkansas. He is manager of the American Airlines restaurant there.

1926

Lieutenant Marion Nelson received her Christmas package from the Alumnae Association just as she was setting sail for foreign service. She is most grateful for all the surprising contents and assures us that she has put them away for use when she reaches a spot where those particular things are scarce.

1926

Captain Marjorie Peto has been promoted to a Major. We are all very proud of her.

1927

Lieutenant Ernestine Arnold went to the Rhodes General Hospital in Utica, New York, after completing her basic training at Atlantic City.

1928

Sympathy is extended to Rhoda Reddig whose father died in February.

Sympathy is extended to Grace Selle whose father died in March.

From Hawaii, Helen MacDonnell thanks the Alumnae Association for her Christmas package. She says that all the P.H. girls are in different hospitals except for her and "Jackie" Kohr. They are in the same place and always comparing notes on the news they receive from home and England. She says that they all like it in Hawaii but would like to see a "jolly old snowstorm" to break the monotony of the mild climate.

Margaret F. Pritchard has been appointed the Director of the School of Nursing at the Grace Hospital in Banner Elk, North Carolina. She is enjoying the work very much. The Grace Hospital is the largest rural hospital in America.

We are pleased to announce that Margaret Wells has been promoted to the rank of First Lieutenant.

In a brief ceremony in New York on January tenth, Dr. Tsune-chi Yu, Chinese consul general in New York, conferred army commissions on all members of the Chinese Blood Bank, now en route to China under American Bureau for Medical Aid to China. Among those so honored was Ruth Derr, who is now a first lieutenant. Lt. Derr was an American born in China. Also receiving a commission that day was Jean Chum Liu who had been on the general duty staff at the Medical Center. She is to be the Head Nurse of the Unit.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

Elizabeth Tweedie has watched with interest the development of a town gearing itself to wartime activity. She writes from Ottawa that some of the girls there and the young wives, and herself organized a second-hand shop for the Red Cross. They call it the "Re-Nu-It" shop. All stock is contributed and anything from a set of false teeth to a reed-organ is accepted, renewed, and re-sold. The shop has been a huge success for over two years and has made over $2,000, and has also been the inspiration, via a weekly news letter in two papers and two provincial and one national broadcast for the opening of at least twelve other shops in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and the Province of Quebec. She adds that it has been lots of fun.

Lilias MacDonald had a regular "Old-home Week" in January. In England she had seen Dr. Colmore, Dr. Fowler, and Dr. Joe Turner. She saw Gertrude Shelley Hewitt before her departure for the United States and received a telephone call from Marion Nelson on her arrival in England.

1933

Betty Louise Figgins has joined the Navy Nurse Corps and was stationed at the U. S. Naval Hospital in Sampson, New York, in April. She is in charge of a large general medical ward.

Lillian Davison Lockwood has told of her recent years accomplishments and they include a degree of Bachelor of Science in Public Health Nursing in August, 1942 from the University of Michigan, then followed employment as School Nurse for the Van Buren Consolidated Schools. Van Buren Township is in the Ford Bomber Plant or Willow Run Area. The work was delightful. She resigned after being there a year and a half. She is now married and managing a good-sized garden which supplies vegetables in season and home canned vegetables for the winter.

Lieutenant Elise Helfer is stationed at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

The army keeps up a continuous training program. We really have enough to do with the patients but everyone has to do what Headquarters orders. I have been "put to it" to find enough topics for this group. We have to have four hours a week. The Officer patients help out quite a bit. We get them to tell about their experiences. One patient who is in Psychological Warfare gave us a very good talk. At 4 P. M. today we Drill. Now that we are used to it it isn't so bad. Hope we can show off by walking down Fifth Avenue one of these days. Won't that be the day?

We have been having some nice Spring weather. We all reluctantly admit that Spring is nicer in England than at home. The early flowers, the clear sun with cool breeze, the many bright colorful and tuneful birds. They sing "Jeep, Jeep" this Spring. No telling what they will pick up by next Spring. Last Sunday was a wonderful day. Everyone was out sitting in the sun. The men were playing baseball and it was hard to believe there was a war. Our morale went way way up. And then to make it perfect a lot of mail came in. I hope you people get a nice day when you get this letter and then maybe you will write to me. On Sunday I had the good fortune to get taken to Sulgrave Manor. The home of George Washingtons family, built by his Great, Great Great, Great, Great Grandfather. The name at that time was George de Wassing-ton. It is one of the few museum places in England that keeps everything in view. Most of the places you go to they have removed things for safe keeping. Of course this is way out in the country in a small town so it is safe, or should be. It is just too beautiful for me to describe. George must have come from a very wealthy family. The quilts on the beds were wonderful and were some 200 years old. They were embroidered with a backhand stitch and then quilted. One was all floral and one had figures and animals and five monograms. The man who took us around kept referring to the Queen. He'd say "The Queen said that was the only childs pewter dish set in the world" (It was a beautiful set) "The Queen said this mirror was the only one of it's kind in the world." The mirror had a frame with animals and flowers all done in needle work and looking like the real thing. Three dimensions later we found the Queen he talked about so reverently was Queen Mary.

Outside he really had a fine garden. There were rows and rows of crocuses and one plateau was a mass of daffodils. The day was beautiful and the fields were full of cute little lambs with black stocking feet and black ears. Surely there isn't a war on?

One of our greatest joys lately is hearing and seeing people we knew at home. Emily Simonson's brother was here last week end and we had a good time. He brought some friends and was properly surprised at the nice way we had managed to fix everything. We have one of the nicest clubs in England. Tired of hearing how nice it is? Remember I qualify "In England." It is not nearly as nice as P. H. George stayed all night and the next day we took a long bike ride along the river. It was windy but a very picturesque ride and he enjoyed it.

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS

DEAN RAPPLEYE

MEMBERS of the Graduating Class and their friends: Another year has passed quickly since our last Commencement; a year filled with important events, of plans and anticipation of greater things to come in the world conflict as well as in the peace that is to follow. In our own institution we have been busy carrying the extra load of duties and looking forward to the return of our staff and friends for whom the University and the Board of Managers are planning needed facilities and more opportunities.

Shortly after the last commencement we suffered the loss of our President and leader, Mr. Sage. To him as to few men came the realization of a great dream, the creation of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center in which he played so important a part. His special interest in nursing education made possible the University affiliation which makes possible the joint exercises which we celebrate today. We pay tribute to his many contributions and shall always cherish his memory in what he did for us at this great institution.

We have been fortunate indeed in the willingness of Mr. Cooper to assume the responsibilities of guiding our policies and plans for the future. Already he has shown a remarkable grasp of the problems of not only the hospital but of professional education and research. His leadership is an inspiration to all of us. To him we pledge our whole-hearted support and express the hope that he may have every happiness and satisfaction in his great work. Mr. Cooper, we salute you!

It is no easy matter for you who graduate today to decide where and in what capacity you may perform your fullest duty. No one today worthy of the nursing profession is concerned with less. The Army and Navy are urgently in need of nurses. This service must be given the highest immediate priority for many of you. Nursing must and is eager to play its indispensable part in the liberation of the oppressed peoples and to make possible a permanent and sound peace. The hospitals on the home front are endeavoring to maintain their civilian health responsibilities under conditions in which every person is making his or her contribution. The public health, home and private duty and other nursing fields are carrying an enormous burden. In every area of professional activity opportunity is calling for the well trained nurse and may it be said emphatically that yours is not a preparation merely for the emergency but for a life career. In the world and national reconstruction there will be many calls from many lands for many special skills and knowledge which only a trained nurse can fill. For the young womanhood of America there is no greater opportunity for self-development and unselfish service to your fellowmen.

We are happy on this occasion, at a time so critical in the affairs of our country, to see another battalion of our finest graduates go forth to carry the high tradition and the honor of the Presbyterian Hospital School of Nursing. You will not fail nor falter in meeting the challenge, wherever or in whatever capacity you may serve. May success and happiness be yours.

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS

MR. THOMAS I. PARKINSON

MEMBERS of the graduating class, your friends and guests: For a moment, I thought it might be I who was about to be graduated.

I know that my duty here today, and a very pleasant one it is, is to welcome you graduating nurses to the outside world in which you will practice your profession. It is perhaps the oldest profession in one sense; the newest, or among the newest in an organized sense, and from any point of view, the noblest profession known to mankind.

I congratulate you because you have the courage, voluntarily, to select this career from all the others that were open to you, the courage to subject yourselves to the self-discipline and the training which this institution and its distinguished leaders have required of you before they certified you for graduation.

Those are noble virtues, and I congratulate you not only in that you had the courage to select such a career of unselfish service, but also the steadfastness to go through with the training. I know, while not knowing its details, that it is arduous training in which you acquire not only some experience of your own, but the opportunity to absorb the experience of distinguished leaders in your own profession and in the related medical profession.

I congratulate you, too, on the fact that the world awaits you and provides innumerable opportunities for the practice of your profession. Dean Rappleye has just said something to you of that. Not only the armed forces, the medical institutions, the homes of the country, but industry for which I have the temerity to speak for the moment, has expanded the need of your services. In industry, the work of the nurse is no longer confined to a little examination of the incoming employee and to an occasional finger wrapping of a disabled employee. Oh, no. There is much more in the field of industry and in the field of public health on both the curative and the preventive side of opportunity for you who are now graduating into the profession of nursing.

It is tempting to a layman on an occasion like this to tell you about yourselves, to paraphrase what he has read in the encyclopedias and other documents relating to your profession, to recount for you what he has learned since he accepted the invitation to talk to you about a development and evolution of your professional service and its importance in the world. Of course, that would begin with Nightingale, coming down to Edith Cavel, and end up by telling you that in those costumes and those tricky caps and with your education, it is a long way from them to you, and I am not going to try today to supplement your education and addressing any advice as to how you should practice your profession except in one thing.

I am going to give you one little bit of warning, drawn from my own experience. When you are nursing a man past middle life, with whitening hair and blue eyes, who just came from the operating room, don't try to induce him to take nourishment by that particular kind of English phraseology which we know as "baby talk." I tell you now that it will surely result in the death of a nurse and probably in the subsequent legal execution of the patient.

I believe that perhaps I should justify my appearance here by indicating some little relationship between the life insurance business, between our calling profession, and the nursing profession which you represent and practice. There is a similarity in the service which we life insurance people perform and in the problems which confront us. Both your organized mercy in the form of trained nursing, and our organized security applied to the individual through trained life insurance men grew out of very disorganized and inefficient neighborly helpfulness. That was the source of the evolution of your profession, and that was the source of the development of organized security in the form of life insurance.

We have to endure a very great deal of training before we can apply this service of ours with any such degree of competency as justifies our professing to give service, just as you have to subject yourselves to training and education before you are justified in professing to give your services.

We are alike again in that we face constantly recurring instances that are identical. We must be enthusiastic, all of us, if our service is to be efficient and effective. It is hard to maintain enthusiasm for an instant that is constantly recurring in much the same form. We must maintain that enthusiasm if our service is to be truly professional.

I know that the very qualities which have brought you to this point in your profession indicates that you have the capacity to maintain that enthusiasm for service in these constantly recurring situations.

We have other ways in which we are alike. We have difficulties confronting us which bring us, sometimes, almost to the point of despair, and we have those around us who then suggest that maybe it would be a good thing for the government to take us over and render the service in a broader field.

When that suggestion comes to you, or to the medical profession, or to us in our particular branch of service in the business world, we must remember that the best things in the lives that we lead in this country are the result of individual effort and the association of individual effort.

This great institution, this beautiful spot where we are now enjoying this occasion, is the result of individual effort and the cooperation of individuals. All the great learning and training which you have accumulated has been brought down to you by individuals who labored before you. Labored for what,—for power? No. They labored to perform service to humanity, and this is the result.

We are alike in many other ways. But above all things we are alike, your profession and mine, in that we try to render a service which is competent for the moment, which satisfies the individual's demand for the present, and at the same time takes into account in a common sense what is good in the long run.

The dentist who would pull every tooth to stop a pain would not be serving his patient best, and if you, for every pain in the neck that you have encountered, should recommend amputation, I expect it would be agreed that while the immediate was accomplished, in the long run you had not rendered a truly professional service.

And so it is with us. When a troubled policy holder of a life insurance company, or his beneficiary seeks some benefit under the policy, it would be possible for us, confining ourselves to the immediate, to give satisfactory service. If we are to give the service which is in the long run, we must give common sense consideration to the circumstances of the long run.

If I have established myself sufficiently within the realm of your professional activities, perhaps I may step forward to make some suggestions to you this afternoon with respect to your life in that outside world in which you are about to practice your profession.

Now,—I do not mean matrimony. They tell me that 37 percent of you graduate nurses marry within three years, and they tell me that in the long run 57 percent of you marry. That is a terrific mortality even to a life insurance man.

Perhaps there is some consolation to a man in the thought that, after all, you do not completely desert the nursing profession, and a certain number of men acquire good nursing in the process. No. I mean your life in the community not as nurses but as citizens. You cannot escape your part. You are young, and the future is yours.

We of the older generation have to admit that we have scored many failures. Those of us who have labored in the field of practical science, in medicine and in nursing, in chemistry and physics, have the satisfaction of having made tremendous contributions to human knowledge and human welfare.

We who have labored in the field of political science and economics have to admit that we have scored many failures at home and abroad. We of the past generation have not much to boast of in the field of national and international government.

And if, after this terrible strife is over, there are readjustments to be made in that which we call government, they will be better made in a democracy like ours if a large, rather than a small, number participate intelligently in the decisions which will underlie those adjustments.

You will have not only a patriotic duty to have a part, but you will have a selfish interest in taking part in those readjustments. The State is not something apart from you and me. It is our instrumentality for doing things cooperatively which cannot be well done otherwise. But the State, speaking abstractly now, is a pretentious creature. It will take on, without too much consideration of its capacity to perform, most anything that anyone will entrust to it.

It pretends to have immortality and omnipotence and it possesses neither. Indeed, it possesses no strength except the strength which it derives from its people. Is the State immortal? Is it so long-lived that it should be entrusted to accomplish things which poor mortals cannot be expected in the short span of their life to accomplish?

Cicero, the greatest orator of ancient times rhetorically and by way of admission to his opponent remarked, "Let us suppose that this Roman Republic should last for only ten thousand years." Well, the Roman Republic has lasted for about two hundred and fifty years.

And today, though we are generally described as being one of the youngest nations on the face of this globe, we, the United States, are in fact older than any other nation in the form in which it is now governing, except Great Britain. The Government of Great Britain, as at present organized, is just about two hundred years old, and we are a little over one hundred and fifty years old. There is no other government. I am not saying "Nation," but no other government in its present form which has existed for a longer period of time.

And when the State, to solve the problems of my business, and the problems of your profession, steps forward and offers to take them over, let us beware. Let us be sure that we are not surrendering the obligation which rests on us to carry on.

In the spheres in which we have been trained and in which we are the inheritors of what has gone before, security, as I said a moment ago, was once a matter of neighborhood help, and gradually organized by cooperation and association into sound economics which has served the public welfare well.

If the State should take it over, are we sure that there would be an expanded service to an expanded group? Well, I have only to remind you that in many states of the European continent, within the last fifty years, there has been the most systematic and pretentious provisions for organized security for their people by schemes, no one of which is able to function today.

Though the State, the Government of the State will often make promises or hold out expectations with little regard to its capacity to perform, will make promises or hold out expectations which, if they were made by me in the business world, or by you in your professional offer of service, might land us in jail for misrepresentation and failure to perform.

The State's intervention may expand the number who, for the moment, enjoy the benefit of security. But we have been for years improving our service of security as well as expanding the number who enjoy its service.

And you in this great institution which has nurtured and trained you and your associated medical profession have likewise been improving your service in the whole medical field, and expanding that service to greater and greater fields of usefulness.

Are you sure that if that curious creature called the State, which is nothing but the organization of all of us, were to take over what you have been doing, that there would be an improvement in that service and a continually increasing expansion of the people who are enjoying it? I am afraid that if we trust too much in our respective fields to the State in the future, there will be less and less security to more and more people, and in your particular field there will be less and less service to more and more people. That is the sacrifice which may be involved by surrendering our problems to the State. And the trend is towards the State.

It is for you who are young, trained, experienced and competent not only in the field in which you labor, but capable of making a real contribution to the intelligent decisions of the problems of the State to have your part and to see to it that you do not surrender that priceless heritage of freedom to labor, to serve, to excel, to perform and to contribute to the instant and to the general welfare.

I could go on talking to you for a long time because, at the moment, you are suffering from the fact that I do not have a prepared manuscript in front of me and, therefore, everything depends upon my terminal facilities.

We in the outside world welcome you. We need your services. We are proud of our nurses. And you who have gone before this class, and these graduating, we are proud of the service which you are rendering at home, and we are still prouder of the courageous and competent service which you are rendering abroad, and which you are rendering particularly at this moment of a frightful conflict in which our armed forces are engaged.

We hope that our appreciation will be a stimulus to you to carry on and to endure the hardships, the unselfish labor, the ceaseless efforts that are incident to your profession.

I only wish that in my own field of political science and of government and of economics and of business. I could feel that the nurses of the future body politic were as well trained and competent to perform their services as you are. Thank you.

ADDRESS TO THE GRADUATING CLASS

BY MR. CHARLES P. COOPER:
MEMBERS OF THE GRADUATING CLASS:

MAY I congratulate you on your graduation which is indeed a very happy event. Your class is the largest in number that it has ever been our pleasure to honor at a commencement of the Presbyterian School of Nursing. The successful completion of your training makes this a very happy occasion in which we are delighted to have a part. Graduations are always impressive, but it seems to me that yours is especially so. Nursing has ever been a fine and proud profession, but today it has a special significance. The need for nurses has never been so great, and as you cross this threshold, you will find unlimited opportunity for service. It is, therefore, not only with pleasure, but with real pride that we gather to honor you today.

You are now ready to join earlier graduates of this School who are doing such magnificent work on both the home front and in the battle zones. The Board of Managers is fully aware of the personal sacrifices made by our nurses serving with the armed forces on foreign soil and is even now working on plans to aid these nurses and doctors in reestablishing themselves upon their return to this country. We want you to know that we have your welfare very much in mind and even in war, believe in the wisdom of preparing for peace.

Mr. Alexander, Chairman of the Nursing Committee, and Miss Helen Young, Director Emeritus of Nursing, will now present you with your diplomas and pins.

A DAY IN ATLANTIC CITY

ON Thursday, July 27, Miss Lee and I were fortunate to be the guests of Lt. Col. Sara Stevenson at the England General Hospital in Atlantic City.

England General Hospital occupies five well known Atlantic City Hotels: Haddon Hall, Chalfonte, Dennis, Traymore and Colton Manor, the latter being the residence for women officers. The furniture has been moved out of the bedrooms, battle-ship linoleum put on the floors and as many patients beds as practical placed in each room. Some of the arrangements were excellent for patient care, i.e.: ice water, hot and cold water, baths and toilets available for every four or five patients.

The occasion for our visit was the exercises held at the completion of an induction course for graduate nurses enlisting in the army nurse corps in the second service command. One hundred and twenty nurses, five dietitians and five physiotherapy workers were awarded diplomas for the successful completion of this introductory course. When the Presbyterian unit joined the army in 1942 this introduction was given at a regular camp in the midst of all other camp activities. Since then certain military hospitals in each corps area have been designated to give this introductory course. A suitable four weeks program has been arranged with properly prepared teachers, including an army drill sergeant, assigned on a full time basis. On completion of the course regular tests are given to the students and grades awarded according to their performance. In addition a thorough physical examination is given before the diploma is finally awarded. During this four weeks intensified course the members of the group are free from any responsibility connected with the hospital but they are required to participate in a very strenuous "commando training" course which furnishes plenty of exercise. Other subjects on the curriculum are army records and regulations, recent methods of treatment of fractures and burns, new drugs, neuro surgery, etc.

The exercises were conducted by Lt. Col. Scott in the absence of Col. Chapple, commanding officer of the England General Hospital. After a short address and the singing of the corps song, each nurse was presented with her diploma. This was followed by dress parade in the street in front of Colton Manor after which Mrs. Chapple and Col. Scott greeted the nurses and their friends in the large reception room of the Manor.

The nurses looked very smart in their summer dress uniform which they were wearing for the first time. Those of us who have always been critical of the posture of the modern young woman could not but notice the splendid results from so short a training. Everyone was most complimentary about the parade and I overheard the commanding officer complimenting the drill sergeant on the perfect execution of some of the more difficult formations.

A very interesting and picturesque group at the exercises was the fifty cadet nurses in their light blue dress uniform with scarlet shoulder straps. These are members of the senior Cadet Corps who are receiving the last six months of training in a military hospital. Five were from our area.

About forty of the nurses had been recruited from the area covered by the New York City Nursing Council and the Red Cross Recruitment office, i.e.: Manhattan, Bronx and Staten Island. All the schools in this area were represented and in addition several nurses from other parts of the United States who were employed in this area when they enlisted. All were very enthusiastic about the army and the course which had just been completed, the universal comment being "I only wish I had enlisted sooner." Each one had received her assignment for duty, some of which were military secrets, but some of the camps in the second corps area were being freely discussed.

P. H. was represented by Charlotte June Keigh, '43, who ably upheld the best traditions of the school in her examinations. She was on the refreshment committee for the reception. After the reception Martha Adey Scharf, '40, who is on duty in the neuro-psychiatric department of the England General Hospital, acted as our hostess, showed us around the ward where she is on night duty and then invited us to dinner in the officers' mess. So ended an interesting and happy day.

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE COLLECTION

ON Commencement Day, June 8, 1944, Dr. Hugh Auchincloss presented 31 letters to Miss Margaret Eliot for the collection in Maxwell Hall. Fifteen letters were written by Florence Nightingale and sixteen others were written to her. Also included in the gift were sixteen cancelled checks dated June 11, 1860—December 17, 1860 drawn on "The London Joint Stock Bank, Western Branch—69 Pall Mall" and signed by Florence Nightingale.

St. Mary's Bayswater
April 22, 1861

To Miss Nightingale

Informing her, that her letter from last year did not reach him because he was in Rome. "I have letters of yours among my papers: and I will put them together. But be sure that the knowledge of your wish will prevent my giving them into any hand and at my death every letter, paper & journal of mine will be burnt unopened."

The rest of the letter tells about his fortune and misfortunes, especially with the church.

CARDINAL MANNING

—ANNUAL MEETING—

Report of the Alumnae Representative on the School of Nursing Committee

THE past year has brought about changes in the School of Nursing Committee due to the deaths of Mr. Dean Sage and Mr. Hermann Kinnicutt, outstanding leaders and true friends of the School. They will always be remembered with affection and admiration. The Committee registered its desire to carry on the traditions and responsibilities as outlined by these two great leaders.

For many years, Mr. Sage had sent a bouquet of red roses to each graduate and a bouquet of sweet peas to the members of the faculty to wear for the graduation exercises. Mr. Sage's children, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. McAlpin and Mr. Dean Sage, Jr. will continue this practice as a memorial to their father.

Mrs. Kinnicutt was welcomed as a member of the Committee at the February meeting and has established the G. Hermann Kinnicutt Flower Fund. The interest on $5000 is to be used for flowers in Maxwell Hall for occasions decided upon by the Director of Nursing and her assistant in Maxwell Hall. We are deeply grateful for the above mentioned gifts.

Mr. Henry Alexander was appointed Chairman of the Committee and presided at the January, 1944 meeting. Mr. Alexander is a member of the Board of Managers. It was the privilege of the Alumnae to meet Mr. and Mrs. Alexander at the February meeting of the Association at Maxwell Hall. Mr. Alexander is rapidly becoming acquainted with the various funds and activities of our association and, as a member of the Finance Committee, will be able to advise and direct us in the handling of our funds.

The Bailey Bolton Bill, passed in the latter part of June 1942 creating the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, provides for financial aid to individual students. The bill provides for signing of a commitment by each cadet placing her services at the control of the government beginning with senior cadet period for the duration of the war. In return, the government provides for:

Payment of tuition and other regular charges.

The schools accepting students on this basis must agree to concentrate the basic services required for registration into 24 or 30 months. The course must meet the regular requirements of the University and the State Education Department.

The Committee on Nursing Education of the Faculty of Medicine passed a resolution on September 30th, 1943, approving of the extension of our participation in the program of the United States Cadet Nurse Corps, to future classes and to students now enrolled in the school for whom the necessary adjustments in educational schedules could be made, provided the academic program of the University and the nursing services of the Hospitals at the Medical Center be preserved with the understanding that it was essentially a war measure and should terminate with the return of peace conditions. The Board of Managers of the Presbyterian Hospital and the Trustees of Columbia University approved this recommendation regarding the Cadet Nurse Corps at their November meetings. On January 1st, 1944, there were 32 cadet students enrolled in the school. Three have resigned because of ill health.

Students registered in the School February 1st, 1944, numbered 341:

Third Year Students .....	81
Second Year Students .....	115
First Year Students .....	143

The graduate nurses collected $325.00 for their contribution to the Auxiliary for the care of nurses at Stonywold.

Procurement and Assignment Reports were sent in November to the Local Council, classifying all nursing positions in the Center and rating the incumbents as essential or replaceable in the positions, or available for the Army or Navy Nurse Corps.

Miss Helen Young, Chairman of the Committee on Procurement and Assignment for War Service of the New York City Council, and Mrs. William Armour, Co-Chairman of the Committee on Nurse Recruitment in the New York Chapter of the American Red Cross, were guests at the May meeting and spoke of the problems that the Procurement and Assignment Service is encountering in its task of filling the New York State quota of nurses for the Armed Services. Mrs. Armour spoke in glowing terms of the achievement against heavy odds of Miss Eleanor Lee who has had a year's leave of absence and an extension of time to be Director of the Recruitment Center for Army and Navy Nurse Corps of the New York Chapter of the American Red Cross.

The members of the Committee are appreciative of the volunteers to the Nursing Service of the Hospital. Special mention was made of the contribution of Miss Mary Magoun Brown, a graduate of the Presbyterian School of Nursing in the class of 1897, who has for many years made an invaluable contribution as reader at the Eye Hospital, having given 1,784 hours of volunteer service during the year 1943. Miss Brown does not confine her contributions to reading to patients but assists in innumerable ways.

I am sure you know of the recommendation for increasing the salaries of the private duty nurses at a meeting of District No. 13, and of the Joint Committee of the Hospital Administrators' suggestion that nurses collect their own pay from the patients. What you do not know is the active part our chairman, Mr. Alexander, took in helping to solve this problem and influence the decision so desirable to the nurses, an increase in salary and no change in the way of collection of fees.

The Lyons Law requiring three years residence in New York City for applicants to the position of Director of Nursing in the City Health Department was discussed at the April meeting. Suggestions were made about possible contacts with the City Council regarding these requirements.

The following advertisement offering experience to nurses that would be desirable before joining the armed forces has been placed in the American Journal of Nursing: "Columbia University and the Presbyterian Hospital in New York City offer six months of instruction and practice in special branches of nursing to graduates of registered schools of nursing. Special services include blood bank, oxygen therapy, plastic and neurosurgery, and research wards for burns and venereal diseases. The program is designed particularly for those who are preparing for service with the Army and Navy Nurse Corps. A certificate will be granted upon satisfactory completion of the course. The salary is $110.00 per month with room and laundry."

A decision to combine the Nursing Committee of the Neurological Institute and the Nursing Committee of the Presbyterian Hospital was made at the May meeting. The Committee agreed to adopt the suggestion of Miss Conrad that the nine assistant directors and the five assistant professors of the School be represented in rotation at the Nursing Committee meetings so that they become acquainted with the members of the Committee.

At the February meeting, Miss Conrad told of the death of Miss Margaret Stevenson, a loyal and devoted friend of the Presbyterian nurses. Miss Stevenson was a graduate of the Massachusetts General Hospital under Miss Maxwell. She became a member of the Todd family at Innis Arden and acted as hostess to our nurses who have enjoyed so many delightful week ends at the Camp on the Todd property.

Time will not permit the mention individually of the Alumnae serving in the Armed Forces. Miss Marjorie Peto has been advanced to the rank of Major and Miss Ada Mutch to the rank of Captain. We understand the Unit has left the Churchill Hospital and is being made ready to accompany the invading Forces. The Committee welcomes news of their activities and follows with interest the bits of information that come through regarding them. Let us hope that another year will find them all present at our annual meeting.

MARIE C. BYRON, '17.

Report of the Alumnae Distributing Fund Margaret E. Conrad, '20, Chairman

The Alumnae Distributing Fund finished its tenth year with a total of $3,367.71 in gifts and income, with the unassigned balance from 1942 of $100.78. The Fund had $3,468.49 to distribute. Since this was a year of "promised rest" from drives following the 50th Anniversary pressure, the Alumnae may well be proud of this result.

The Helen Young Scholarship Fund is our newest project, and one about which all of our Alumnae are most enthusiastic. In accordance with the arrangements when it was established in 1942, $500.00 is to be assigned annually as a scholarship for graduate study during the year, and as large a sum as possible is to be assigned to the principle. This year we are adding $1,250.00 to the Capital Fund.

The donation to the General Fund is made in order to offset the deficit.

In the record of class gifts, the honors are widely distributed: for highest percent of living members contributing—1943 with 100%. This is a new record for the graduating class, and we hope that it will prove to be a real precedent! The class of 1901 comes next with 36%. For the largest total gift, the class of 1918 stands at the top with $286.00; the class of 1939 comes next with $160.00.

The Alumnae Scholarships of $50.00 each were awarded to the following students:

1944	Miss Virginia P. Stanforth
1945	Miss Marita Conroy
1945	Miss Artemis Georges
1945	Miss Mary R. Hazen
1946	Miss Elizabeth Brown
1946	Miss Betty J. Burden
1946	Miss Sylvia Carlson
1946	Miss Carol Cheston
1946	Miss Kathryn Eberbach
1946	Miss Ellen G. Smith

The 1920 Memorial Scholarship Fund was awarded to Miss Rosemary Ryan, '44.

To observe the tenth anniversary year for the Alumnae Distributing Fund, the committee is planning to publish a small booklet showing the growth and achievements of the Fund, to be sent to all graduates of the School, and to be given to future graduating classes.

In the ten years of its existence, the Fund has added $22,470.49 to the Association Treasury. This amount has been spent as follows:

Report on Alumnae Shop Committee
Helen Wood, Chairman

Since the last Annual Meeting of the Alumnae Association in June 1943, the Shop Committee has deposited in the Endowment Fund $7,000.00 of their surplus money—making a total of $46,428.36.

As a physical inventory is being taken but once a year, the value of the merchandise in the Shops will be reported at that time.

The sale of War Savings Stamps is not as good as that of the previous year, probably because of the 10% pay roll deduction plan.

Annual Report for 1943-1944 of the Red Cross Committee
Florence L. Vanderbilt, '27, Chairman

This year the activities of the Nursing Committee of the Red Cross have followed more or less the pattern planned last year, and I am sure there has been an increasing awareness of the tremendous job which is being done and will have to be done by the American Red Cross in a world at war.

After a busy year and a half as organizer and director of the Red Cross Recruitment Center at 139 East 36th Street, Miss Eleanor Lee will return to us July 1st to resume her former position in the School of Nursing and we are glad to be welcoming her back. During this period Miss Lee has interviewed many nurses for the army and navy and those interested in filling essential nursing positions.

To stimulate more interest in the great need of the armed forces for well qualified nurses, the Red Cross again held a city-wide rally on October 21st at the Waldorf Astoria, to which senior students and young graduates of schools of nursing were especially invited. A fine program was planned and the principal speakers were Mr. Charles Collingwood, War Correspondent of the Columbia Broadcasting System; Colonel Florence M. Blanchfield, Superintendent of the Army Nurse Corps; Rear Admiral Edward U. Reed, Medical Officer of the Third Naval District; and Lieutenant Henrietta F. Richardson, the first flight nurse to return from combat area in North Africa.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

The senior classes have followed the same plan for enlisting members in the Student Reserve of the Red Cross and several schools have shown 100% membership. Our own senior class of 1944 has enrolled 80% to date. Due to the increased load on the Red Cross, memberships at present are not being accepted except through the Student Reserve.

The students of Maxwell Hall have contributed a good share to the year's activities by their splendid effort in making the War Fund Drive a great success. In the latter part of February the class of 1945 (the Junior Class) conducted the War Fund Drive at the Medical Center. By the excellent team-work and co-operation of the class and the student body, Miss Helen Pettit as class adviser, and Miss Jane St. John as chairman of the drive were able to announce a total of $3,091.35 collected and sent to the Red Cross.

In April the class of 1944 (the present graduating class) contributed its share to the War Fund by holding a gay and colorful Bazaar in Maxwell Hall, with Miss Helen Pasco as chairman. An enjoyable and profitable evening netted $265.00 which the Senior Class turned over to the War Fund.

Mrs. Janet Reisert of the class of 1944 sponsored and is in charge of a new venture to help the war effort. One evening a week the Seniors sell war savings stamps in 10 and 25c denominations. Although this project is only two months old, $133.45 has already been collected from stamp sales. We commend Mrs. Reisert for the success of her venture.

We always eagerly await news of our unit abroad, and the most exciting promotions of the year have been those of Captain Marjorie Peto to Major Peto, and of Lieutenant J. M. Ada Mutch to Captain Mutch. Captain Mutch is now Supervisor of Nursing in the American Hospitals in northern Ireland.

We have received word that the unit has left Churchill Hospital and is now on maneuvers in preparation for playing their part in the invasion of Europe.

Two members have left the unit. Lieutenant Vera Johnson is now Mrs. Phillips, and Lieutenant Alice Beet is now Mrs. Ogilvie.

Knitters have continued to offer their spare moments, although these spare moments are few and the supply of wool has sometimes been low. The articles knitted from June 1943 to June 1944 have consisted mainly of sleeveless sweaters, navy watch caps, socks, and navy scarfs. A list of the articles knitted is attached to this report.

Final Legislative Report
Lillian D. Suess, Chairman

STATE LEGISLATIVE:

The legislature convened January 1, 1944 and adjourned March 19, 1944. The last bill to be considered in the Assembly was the Chiropractic Bill. No action could be taken because there was no longer a quorum in the senate.

The Van Duzer Bill: To take nurses out of the Junior Professional classification did not get out of the Rules Committee.

Long Range Health Program: To continue to March 31, 1945. Temporary state commission to formulate long range state health program and making appropriation for expenses of commission has passed and been signed by the Governor.

Compensation Law: There were 10 bills affecting the compensation law passed. Nurses handling compensation blanks are requested to get a copy of the new law when it is printed.

Scholarships: The bill passed to establish 1200 scholarships to returned veterans of World War II. Each scholarship is for $350.00 per year.

FEDERAL LEGISLATION:

H.R. 2976—providing actual rank for members of the Navy Nurse Corps for the duration of the war and six months thereafter passed both houses of Congress and was signed by the president on February 28, 1944.

H.R. 3761—providing permanent commission status for army nurse was introduced by Mrs. Bolton on December 1, 1943 and is awaiting action. Efforts to secure passage of the Army Bill are strongly supported by the American Nurses Association.

Mrs. Bolton has also introduced a second bill H.R. 4445. This bill is comparable to the Navy Bill which would "provide for actual rank for members of the Army Nurse Corps for the duration and six months thereafter." Mrs. Bolton hopes that one of these bills will be passed, preferably the first one (H.R. 3761).

The Wagner-Murray-Dingell Bill: This bill now before Congress has important implications for nurses and the future of Nursing. No action on it has been taken by the National Nursing Organizations.

Controversial section of the bill which was introduced in the senate in June 1943, is section II which by amending Title IX of the present social security act would set up a tax supported federal medical and hospital insurance plan, to be administered by the Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service and the Social Security Board.

Opinion among hospital and medical groups on the medical and hospital insurance features of the Wagner Bill ranges from unqualified opposition to qualified approval.

Disapproving the Bill as it stands although approving a national health program in principle is the Committee of Physicians for the Improvement of Medical Care.

Report of the Social Committee Margaret Eliot, '21, Chairman

Please don't think the Social Committee has "slipped" up on everything just because the Chairman, herself, slipped and hurt her ankle!

Again we have had to adjust ourselves to wartime conditions and give up our Annual Dinner for the graduating class. But we do want each of you to have a little remembrance from us, so, as you know, we have planned to give you your choice of one of our three publications. Miss Young and I are charmed that most of you chose "ours" (even though we realize perhaps it is because you have the other two!). Most of the books have been autographed but if yours has not please take it to the School Office and it will be completed. Thanks to Miss Vanderbilt, they are ready to be given out immediately after this meeting, if our new members will stop for them in the lobby and see Miss Gill.

With D Day over, we are looking forward to going back very soon to the former activities of the Social Committee.

Report of Private Duty Nurses Committee 1943-1944 Mary I. Hickey, Chairman

In the past year the Private Duty nurses' strength has dwindled some more. We have a few new members but still others have joined the military services. Letters from former "Specials" tell of several in foreign parts of the world.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

It has been a busy year with not a few deviations. About twenty per cent of the work done through the Presbyterian Registry is Floor Duty, with some of our nurses doing this continually. Also, when the occasion arises, a nurse may care for consecutive patients in one day, as this seems a better interpretation of the group-nursing arrangement. Eight hour duty is not general but would be preferred by the majority when conditions are favorable.

The Private Duty group is represented in the unit formed at P.H. to serve temporarily at the Extemporized Military Hospitals if needed, under the United States Public Health Service.

Although we have very little spare time these days, some of the nurses contribute in various ways to the Red Cross and other activities. Miss Conrad has called meetings with the group at regular intervals during the year, when subjects relative to our part in the war effort were presented and other problems discussed.

Due to the general opinion that the air-raid danger is less acute, our members in the Civilian Defense Nurse Corps have not been active recently.

Program Committee Report 1943-1944 Maria A. Look, Chairman

The first quarterly meeting of the Alumnae Association was held on November 18, 1943 at Maxwell Hall.

Dr. Allen O. Whipple had just returned from a most interesting trip to England and North Africa and he very kindly came to tell us of some of his experiences. Graduates crowded the Hall to hear first hand news of the Unit and their work. Dr. Whipple's comments seemed to give us all a closer link with our friends abroad.

On February 17, 1944, Lieutenant Lawrence Thompson, U.S.N.R., was our guest speaker. His witty and humorous account of a land lubber's first trip on a destroyer never really covered up the grim reality that is war. After being taken on such a thrilling voyage that evening we looked forward to a return trip.

It was our pleasure to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Henry Alexander at this meeting.

After each evening program Miss Eliot, as always, had prepared delicious refreshments.

May I thank our speakers and all those who helped to make our meetings such pleasant occasions.

Public Health Report
Theodora Sharrocks, Chairman

Your Public Health Representative, Miss Margaret Arnstein, having been sent to Cairo by U.N.R.R.A., I was requested to fill out her term and attended meetings of the Executive Committee of the Alumnae Association of the School of Nursing of the Presbyterian Hospital in the City of New York for the months of March, April and May. At the April meeting the difficulties of the Department of Health in appointing a Director of the Nursing Bureau were brought up. The Public Health Committee was instructed to communicate with Commissioner Stebbins as to the procedure to take to urge waiving of the Lyons Residence Law in order to open the Examination to non-residents and so procure a greater number and better qualified applicants than might be living within the City limits for the past three years. Upon the Commissioner's suggestion letters were written and signed by the President of our Alumnae Association to Hon. Newbold Morris, President, City Council, and to Hon. Frederick Schick, Chairman, Civil Employees Committee, and upon Mr. Morris' request, to Mr. Sharkey, majority leader in the City Council.

I am in favor of organizing a working Committee to further coordinate the Alumnae Association and public health matters and will endeavor to have such a committee ready for work by fall.

Annual Report of District Thirteen
Meetings of N. Y. County 1944
Annie M. Thomas, Chairman

The reports of the various officers and chairman of committees were given.

A total of twenty-two meetings by Board of Directors and Special Committees were held.

The Educational Courses had been very successful, as had been the lectures on Parliamentary Law and Obstetrics.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

The work of the volunteer workers was commended and greatly appreciated.

There are more vacancies in the Registries for Occupation Therapy and Oxygen Therapy workers.

The treasurer reported a small balance in the treasury.

An investigation of Alumnae Associations and their by-laws is to be made, on account of a discrepancy in the by-laws of our Alumnae Association.

A vote of appreciation was given Mrs. Stevenson for her untiring work on Legislative Committee.

untiring work on the Legislative Committee.

Ninety-six new individual memberships for the year, but the other memberships for 1944 have decreased, due perhaps to some of the members being in the Armed Forces.

Committee on Registries has met three times and the problem of placing nurses shows lack of coordination.

Public Health Section reported many meetings and discussions.

Of the Men's Nursing Section over half are serving in the Armed Forces. This section recommended a Men's Army Nursing Corps.

Private Duty Section reported personal practices met with disapproval and also of publicizing the fees until they have been decided. They also protested the small raise in fees approved by the Hospital Association.

There was much heated discussion over the fees to be charged by the private duty nurse, they wanting the following rates:

$ 8.00 plus 2 meals for 8 hour duty.

12.00 plus 2 meals for 12 hour duty.

15.00 plus 3 meals for 20 hour duty.

Miss Byron, Chairman of Judiciary Committee, refused to go to the Associated Hospital Association asking for another increase (one had just been approved) and put it up to the delegates whether she should still serve with her Committee or whether a change was wanted. The delegation voted for her to remain as Chairman.

The names of Miss Creed and Miss Falls were withdrawn from the ballot, at their own request.

It was recommended that only the members of the Board be admitted to the meetings of the Business Session.

Twenty-five dollars from the fund of the Advisory Committee be placed in reserve fund for graduate nurses was voted, also any surplus from Educational sources be placed in reserve fund.

It was voted to sell shares on War Bonds during the summer and returns placed in reserve fund.

Miss Wheeler, Chairman of New York City Council for War Service, reported a shortage of nurses signing up.

Nursing Bureau, Miss Reilly, reported that quite a good many nurses seemed willing to do general duty.

Staten Island Registry reported that a number of people having had nurses donated $1,126 to the Registry Fund.

An Emma Baker Kennedy Scholarship of $175.00 was awarded to Florence M. Barends, '37, for the spring term, February 1944. Miss Barends was granted a leave of absence for full-time study at Teachers College and returned June 1st to her position as Night Supervisor at Presbyterian Hospital.

Head Nurses' Convention Fund

Three head nurses went as delegates to the New York State Nurses' Association Convention in Rochester in October: Ruth G. Whitfield, from Vanderbilt Clinic; Vera Maguire, Gynecological Service Sloane, and Carolyn E. Trossbach (Mrs. Kenneth H. Fisher) from Babies Hospital.

The American Nurses' Association convention was held in Buffalo in June. The head nurse delegates were Beatrice Moore Brimley, Fracture Service, and Veronica Miller, Neurological Institute.

The profit on the sale of blue and white boutonnieres on Alumnae Day, June 5, 1944, was $370.00. Credit is due to Helen L. Scott for the success of this project again this year.

REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION OF THE SCHOOL OF NURSING

IT is an honor to present the twenty-ninth annual report of the Alumnae Association of the Presbyterian Hospital School of Nursing.

The Alumnae Association has suffered the loss of two great friends and Honorary Members in the deaths of Mr. Dean Sage and Mr. G. Hermann Kinnicutt.

Resolutions were adopted and sent to Mr. Sage's family, Mrs. Kinnicutt and to the Board of Managers of the Presbyterian Hospital.

The November quarterly was largely a tribute to Mr. Sage. In it are reprinted his addresses to the graduating classes of 1929 through 1943. These are very beautiful and we are glad to have this printed collection.

Mr. Kinnicutt was chairman of the Finance Committee of the Alumnae Association and we shall miss his wise guidance.

The Alumnae Distributing Fund totalled $3,468.48, collected as $2,006.00 in gifts from Alumnae and friends; $1,361.71 from the Quick Reference Book, and $100.78 as balance from 1942.

The first Helen Young Scholarship of $500.00 was awarded to Helen Elizabeth Tripp, '43. She is a student at Teacher's College in the combined college and field work program to prepare head nurses and assistant clinical instructors. Miss Tripp is the niece of one of our graduates and, with Miss Young, a native of Chatham, Ontario.

The Emma Baker Kennedy Scholarships for the spring term were awarded to Lillian Suess, '34, and Ruth Whitfield, '35, both of whom received their B.S. degrees in June from Columbia University.

Miss Phyllis Young, '27, received her M.A. degree from Columbia in June.

Twelve student scholarships were awarded, ten of fifty dollars each and two of twenty-five dollars each. This is an annual award.

The Surgeon-General of the United States Army has ordered 1,700 copies of Miss Young's "Essentials of Nursing" and 5,100 of her "Quick Reference Book" for use in Army Hospital. The income from these books goes to the Distributing Fund.

It was decided to dispense with the annual dinner to the graduates. Each graduate was presented with one of the books on nursing published by our Alumnae.

Two interesting talks were given at the quarterly meetings. In February Dr. Elliott discussed the new treatment of burns, and in November Dr. Whipple told of his trip to England and Africa and his visit to our Unit.

The officers elected at the annual meeting are as follows:

- President—Mrs. Martin DeForest Smith, '20.
- Vice-President—Miss Winifred Kaltenbach, '20.
- Corresponding Secretary—Miss Phyllis Young, '27.
- Recording Secretary—Miss G. Harriet Mantel, '33.
- Treasurer—Miss Helen Young, '12.

Miss Helen Young went as our official delegate to the Bien-nial Convention of the New York State Nurses Association held in Rochester, New York, in November. Eight other mem-bers of the Alumnae attended this Convention.

The Endowment Fund of the School of Nursing has been increased by the receipt of $5,500.00 from the Alumnae Shops in 1943. These shops are doing a steadily increasing business, notwithstanding the difficulty in obtaining merchandise. They maintain a staff of four full time workers and one for part-time. The Radio Fund income for 1943 was $5,100.00, which will eventually be added to this Fund.' Since 1930 the Radio Fund Committee has turned in $35,000.00.

To mention just a few of our members who are doing out-standing work for the war effort:

Miss Helen Young, '12, is Chairman of the Procurement and Assignment Committee of the War Manpower Commission to study the supply of nurses in our local area. She is also treasurer of the New York City Nursing Council for War Service.

Miss Eleanor Lee, '20, was granted a leave of absence from the University to take on duties of Director of Recruitment of Nurses for the Armed Forces under the New York County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Margaret Arnstein, '28, is holding a responsible position in nursing under the office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation in Washington.

Lt. Emily McMullan Norton, '30, has been appointed to Col. Blanchfield's staff in Washington.

Mrs. Penelope Georgala Kalergis, '41, sailed in September with a unit of the Near East Foundation to work with refugees in Syria.

Delphine Wilde, '26, has returned from Hawaii, where she set up and equipped a hospital under the O.C.D. in Kihue Kauae, T.H.

Marjorie Peto, '26, in charge of our Unit in England, has received her commission as Captain in the Army Nurse Corps.

Lt. J. M. Ada Mutch, '36, is Supervisor of American Hospitals in Northern Ireland.

Dorothy Davis, '40, returned on the Exchange Ship "Gripsholm" from the Phillipines, where she was a prisoner of war following her service in the Starburg Hospital. Sternberg

Miss Catherine Mulcahy, '41, was granted a leave of absence to serve with a unit of the American Red Cross Nursing Service on the "Gripsholm."

On December 31st there were 168 of our members in the armed forces. 1943 enlistments were: nine from staff, seven from Registry, and ten others.

Besides the above there are many holding defense "jobs" at home, both regular and volunteer.

We have lost through death seven of our members. They are:

Helen Avis Corwin, '15.

Mrs. Elwood Frost (Mildred Purvis, '12).

Harriet MacArthur, '95, who was buried in Arlington as a veteran of the Spanish-American War.

Ensign Caroline Landrum McGinniss, '39.

Mrs. Frederick Morlock (Jessie May Walsh, '04).

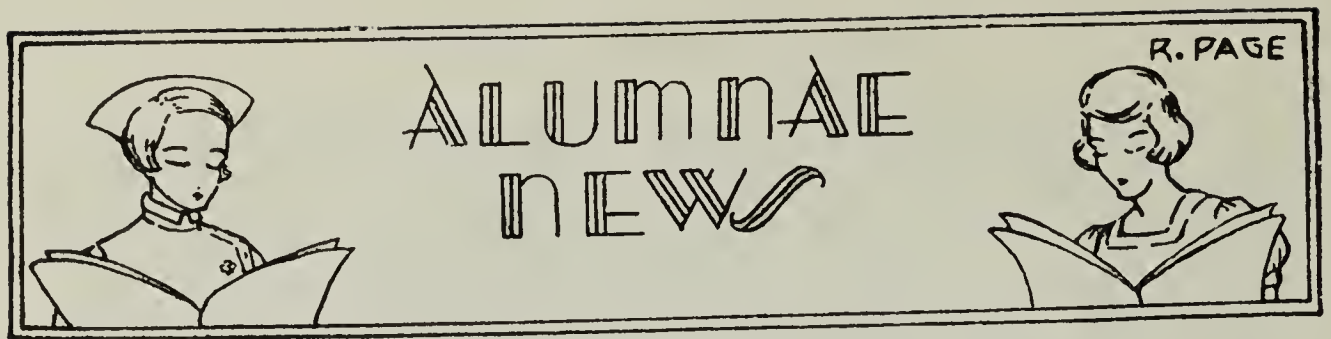

Maude Mary Strong, '14.

Mrs. Irene Fuller Vallette, '20.

Respectfully submitted,

MRS. MARTIN DEFOREST SMITH,

President.

Mary Magoun Brown read the following testimonial to the Red Cross at the Annual Meeting of the Alumnae Association in June:

"In the early days of our School of Nursing, twenty-five was the required age for admission. Miss Maxwell urged all graduates to join the Red Cross. My application in the American Red Cross was at first refused, I think on the score of age, but later I was allowed to enroll. I have done part-time work for the Red Cross for more than twenty-five years. I want to testify to the privilege of this service. It means everything when limitations prevent your doing the work you love, Nursing, to still have a small task related to it.

"My best wishes go to our large group so fitted to render a worthwhile service wherever you are working. And may I extend a heartfelt welcome to our new 'Neighbors' of the class of 1944."

Mae E. Breckon spent a few days at the Nurses' Club in July.

1918

Sympathy is extended to Grace Summers Helwig, whose mother died.

Iva May Haff has been an industrial nurse at the American Safety Razor Company in Brooklyn for the past year.

Mrs. Albert F. Blakkeslee (Margaret D. Bridges) has been doing volunteer work with records at local hospitals in Northampton, Massachusetts.

1920

1925

Isabel Waterhouse has been helping in the Out Patient Department of the Orange Memorial Hospital.

1928

Rhoda F. Reddig has been appointed to the Board of Regents in the State of Michigan.

1929

Priscilla Miles Ingles has been appointed Director of Nursing Education at Bates College, Lewiston, Maine, in the newly-instituted program in collaboration with the Central Maine General Hospital. The program covers five years, three at the college and two at the hospital, and leads to the Bachelor of Arts degree.

1930

Sympathy is extended to Miriam Platt Hadsell in the death of her husband.

1931

Sympathy is extended to Liliias J. Macdonald, a civilian nurse with the U. S. Army in England, in the death of her brother, who was killed in Normandy on July 13, 1944.

Marjory G. Hibbard, who is Director of Nursing Education at the Presbyterian Hospital in San Juan, Puerto Rico, has an imposing list of committees that she finds time to attend. She is secretary of the Puerto Rico League of Nursing Education, and a member of its curriculum committee; a member of the Puerto Rico Nursing Council for War Service, Chairman of its Committee on Supply and Distribution of Nurses, now making a survey on nurses in Puerto Rico; President of the San Juan District Nurses Association, and a member of the "Comite Pro Calegiacion" of Puerto Rico Nurses Association.

Lieutenant Patricia Whelan writes from Rhodes General Hospital in Utica, New York, that there are many familiar "P. H. faces on the territory, among them Ernestine Arnold, Dr. Gerald Jones, the assistant chief of Surgery, Dr. Danzig from Dermatology, Mary Wark, a former Sloane dietitian. Like all Army folk they are anxious for overseas service.

Christine MacDonald writes from Honolulu that she is now an anaesthetist on the staff of St. Francis Hospital in Honolulu. She likes the work very much. In her letter she also pays tribute to the very fine job Charlotte Kerr, '36, is doing at the Queens Hospital. Within the past year they have erected at the Queens Hospital a modern class-room building which Charlotte herself designed, even to the very last cupboard and electric light socket.

1933

Ruth Keil Egenhofer has been appointed to the State Board of Nurse Examiners in New Mexico.

1934

Elizabeth Schafer Lapham is working at the Red Cross Blood Donor Service in New York.

Clarisse La Framboise Donaldson has for the past year been nurse in the Executive Offices of the Pan American Airways System in the Chrysler Building in New York.

Lieutenant Ellen Mundhenk Haycock writes from England: "We are operating as a Station Hospital, half in tents and half in Nissen Huts. We are quartered in pyramidal tents with cots and a stove, with a coal box being the only furniture. It is quite an experience, very difficult from anything I've done since being in the service—as we work in fatigues and leggings, wade through mud from and to work, I have visited the 2nd General and saw all the familiar faces. It was wonderful to see steam heat and such beautiful quarters, as well as a grand hospital. They certainly deserve it being over here as long as they have." This letter was written in April, 1944.

1938

At the time this Quarterly goes to press we have received word that our Unit is in France. They report very exciting and interesting work, under real war conditions. The plea for mail is as urgent as ever. The present address is 2nd General Hospital, A.P.O. No. 350, U. S. Army, c/o Postmaster, New York, New York. Be sure to address all mail with the complete number of each individual to whom you write.

May 18, 1944.

Dear Miss Conrad:

This may be the last letter I will be able to write for a while. When I can I will write as much as allowed so that the people "holding the fort" at home can share our experiences.

We got moved from our last place in such a hurry that we had little time to think. It was harder to pack than it was when we left the U.S.A. Probably because we didn't have an attic handy. The new Unit moved right in and inventoried everything, including the furniture given to us by the Ladies Aux. They didn't offer to buy anything. I managed to get $150 by telling them I was going to sell the Hair Dryer to a Beauty Parlour. You can't buy them anymore and any Beautician would have given me at least $220 for it. We also sold our bicycles. At the last minute we got mad and took some of the pictures, mirrors and irons. The Unit that "took over" had only been in England two weeks so we thought we had better let them find out how difficult it is to buy things over here and then they would appreciate the things we left them. We gave them at least $4,000 worth of property—paid for by us—not the U. S. Gov't.

The hardest part of the moving for me was parting with Sooner. As you probably know he is in a Dog Guard Training School. So you can add another star to the flag. I'd love to know how he is getting along. Col. Crawford said he would write and find out. The place I took him to was not the Guard School. He has to go to a kennel to have any bad habits broken (such as sleeping with me, etc.). After three weeks he is sent to the school and trained with a guard who is to have him. There are dogs guarding the place where we are now. They have a wonderful time and when we walk past them they keep their eyes on their master and watch for his orders. The guard who gets Sooner will be lucky because he is "sweetheart." When we left Sooner the trainer asked me if Sooner had, had any training. I said "no" but Laura Smith said "He can shake hands." But Sooner wouldn't, there were too many interesting smells.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

At the Staging Area where we are, there have been groups coming and going. Several P.H. nurses have been in them and I should remember their names but I don't. Perhaps you will hear about them in other letters.

As to our comforts, as they say over here, "We've had it." We are still cold. Two woolen shirts, two long woolen pants, 100% woolen socks, overcoats and four blankets sometimes fail to keep us warm. Poor Col. Schullinger feels it the most. He has his bed lined with newspapers. The food is here but not very interesting and we still long for hamburger stands, ice cream sodas, etc. One of the nurses who specialised a General to the Z of I has just returned. She said the first thing she did was buy a hamburger with all the trimmings then she went to another stand and bought an egg sandwich and a third and bought an ice cream sundae, then she telephoned home. The operator in charge of the booths asked her for 36 cents. She gave him a quarter and a dime and waited for a penny change.

One Month Later.

June 20, 1944.

We have finished an intensive course in hiking, drills, athletics, tent pitching, gas training, etc. A few things have happened that I long to tell about, and will one of these days. We are now living in tents without lights, water or heat, but the food is excellent. We hope to have our hospital working soon. At present it's in boxes. We had to reduce the number of nurses so new Units could be formed. I had to recommend a Chief Nurse so chose Mary Swallen. Then I had to send a good instrument nurse so I chose Mildred Quackenbush. Then I just plain had to send 15 nurses. The only P.H. people were Mrs. Margaret Finn Vocelle, Mrs. Marion Whitfield Malone, Mrs. Florence Farrington Ingram and Arnot Todd. The other nurses were nurses sent to me as replacements since we've been over here. They were very good nurses and I hated to lose them. I don't know what their fate is to be but I dare say you will soon know.

My nephew has visited me three times. He has knocked down Nazi planes, pilotless planes, blown up railroads, etc. He's very calm about it but I don't know why. He was in the air 10 hours on D Day and flew 18 sorties in 4 days. He's a nice boy and trust he will keep safe and well.

Wish you could see us in our tents. The grass is our floor, we have hay in mattress covers for mattresses. I miss not having light but it stays light until 11 P.M. so it isn't too bad. I don't mind not having heat because I can't start a fire anyway. The stoves over here came over with Columbus or did Columbus go in the other direction? Anyway, they are very small and dinky.

I get so many interruptions I just can't write. Besides, the wind is blowing the tent and chalk is flying around getting into everything. The doctors are playing volley ball.

Next Day.

I don't think much of this letter but will mail it anyway. Maybe some day I can write a better description of our life. The Unit Diary has been confiscated.

I put my PX cookies in my suit case along with moth balls and I'm not sure I'm not poisoning myself.

Mary Ann Delaney and Dorothy Reichling just came back from the coast where we sent teams to help operate on casualties. We have six nurses still out but I guess they will return soon. We have great big Red Crosses on everything. I hope it works. My nephew (who flies a Thunderbolt) said he was chasing a German tank and it pulled up between two ambulances. He prefaced the remark with "The Nazis don't play fair," which amused me no end.

All the nurses hold up very well no matter what we have to put up with. They really are good sports and have been, right along. I haven't counted lately but I have about 65 PH nurses or maybe only 63. I started out with 72 PH.

I don't like these pilotless planes but I guess they will conquer them soon. Perhaps they can change the wave and send them back.

We still wear two woolen shirts and pants, sleep under as many layers of blankets as possible and I even wear a woolen cap to bed. I'll never be able to take New York heat again. But I'd like to have a try.

It will be day light until 12:30 A.M. tonight as it is the longest day in the year. Please keep writing. We all appreciate news from home.

Love,

PETE.

Excerpts from a letter from Faith Oldham to Miss Conrad:
July 16, 1944.

The perils we face are still purely pastoral. Field mice in the tents, and the eternal rain dripping down through the stove pipe hole. Of course every one is still clamoring to be a field soldier—as if our present setup wasn't primitive enough! D Day found we ANCers still members of the mop and bucket brigade, and our male contingent were still mixing cement and all of us were swearing at lend lease but miraculously enough, by the time the convoys started rolling in, our miscellaneous collection almost resembled a hospital—inside at least—and we pulled off the fatigues, draped on the seersuckers and have been caring for casualties ever since. We are not operating to capacity yet, thank goodness—but are sufficiently busy. As we're one of the first Yank outfits the men reach in the chain of evacuation they think we're pretty wonderful. So who are we to gripe/

We have very excellent American equipment. I'm still a head nurse on surgical service. "K" block consists of four ward huts grouped around a central duty hut with our water supply, etc., in another hut "out back." It makes a bit of running around, and there are no connecting ramps—but we're all hoping this will be a summer set-up, although this summer has strangely resembled New York in November!

Traveling about is still permitted to a 25 mile area. Last week I actually had a 24 hour leave, blindly picked a town on the map in said area and set forth hopefully with another lucky colleague. The town we picked turned out to be quite mossy with King Alfred legends and Thomas Hardy atmosphere. By a minor miracle we obtained a room at an old coaching Inn, had a terrible dinner served with many flourishes and much silver. But the beds were wonderful—sheets for a change—and the Boots put a wonderful shine on our shoes. The Inn was full of elderly escapists from the flying bombs. We had to start back at noon—strange feeling to lunch along twisty lanes in a double decker bus, with tree branches smacking the upper windows and poppy fields on each side. Shades of Fifth Avenue!

I met Janet Hopkins in the Red Cross Club in Salisbury a few weeks ago. She was then on detached service but may have rejoined the Unit. We almost joined the 2nd General nurses for our so-called training program in May, but I imagine they enjoyed the same trials and tribulations that we did in the reshifting process that took place prior to the invasion. We all felt slightly superfluous during those weeks. If the Alumnae Bulletin ever catches up with me I may find out what did and is happening to them.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

Life in the ETO continues to be pretty much as it was before June 6th—our patients are wonderful and its really fun pouring on a little T.L.C. before sending them on for speedy return to the United States—or back to duty again. We personally have done nothing at all dramatic—but I think we're doing a good job, and may the Russians reach Berlin first!

Please give my regards to all the faculty—I get a bit nostalgic for 168th Street now and then, but on the whole enjoy army life immensely.

Sincerely,

FAITH OLDHAM.

PROCUREMENT AND ASSIGNMENT SERVICE WAR MANPOWER COMMISSION

IN 1941, when the world was becoming more and more conscious that a tremendous struggle for freedom would develop in the very near future, the leaders in nursing and their friends took steps to clarify their thinking and provide a coordinating organization for the emergency. From this rather nebulous beginning early in '42, the National Nursing Council was formed with State and Local Councils. The National Nursing Council for War Service is composed of professional and lay members with representatives from the following: American Nurses' Association, National League of Nursing Education, National Organization for Public Health Nursing, Association of Collegiate Schools of Nursing, National Association of Colored graduate Nurses, American Red Cross Nursing Services, Council of Federal Nursing Services, Division of Nurse Education, U. S. Public Health Service, War Manpower Commission, Sub-Committee on Nursing, Health and Medical Committee, National Association of Practical Nurse Education, International Council of Nurses, American Hospital Association and Members-at-Large.

One of the standing Committees of these Councils was the Supply and Distribution Committee. The responsibility of this Committee on the local level was to collect and classify information concerning nurses and the nursing situation in the community. During the summer of 1943, when it became apparent that nurses were not volunteering in sufficient numbers to meet the requirements of the Armed Forces the War Manpower Commission asked that this Committee be reorganized as the "Procurement and Assignment Service for Nurses" similar to the other Procurement and Assignment services. This Service was to be in the Council office and the War Manpower Commission offered to provide stationery, postage and a limited amount of clerical assistance for each state. In sending out the directives emphasis was placed not only on the need for nurses in the Armed Forces but also on the need for nurses to meet civilian needs. To meet this latter need, retired nurses not eligible for the Armed Forces were encouraged to return to their profession, the public was beseeched to forego all unessential nursing and hospitals were asked to use as much volunteer help as possible especially the American Red Cross Nurses' Aides.

In this area the first thought was to organize on a Greater New York basis especially since the Department of Hospitals and the Department of Health is on that basis. Later it was decided that this was not practical, so after several preliminary meetings the New York City Nursing Council for War Service was incorporated in December 1942 to include Manhattan, Bronx and Staten Island. The membership included all groups interested in nursing both lay and professional. The first officers were: Mrs. Langdon Marvin, Chairman; Mrs. Charles S. Brown, Vice Chairman; Miss Bernice Knowles, Secretary; Miss Helen Young, Treasurer; Miss Mary Burr, Ex-Secretary.

The present officers are: Mrs. Langdon Marvin, Chairman; Mrs. Charles S. Brown, Vice Chairman; Miss Isabel Byrne, Secretary; Miss Helen Young, Treasurer and Miss Dorothy Wheeler, Ex-Secretary.

The Supply and Distribution Committee: Miss Helen Young, Chairman, Miss Grace Warman, Vice Chairman in November '43 became the Procurement and Assignment Service of the War Manpower Commission. As such, its main responsibility has been the classification of nurses in this area in order that those eligible for military service may be put in touch with the Red Cross Recruitment Office. This has been very difficult because there are many nurses who have come to the city to earn their living but have not identified themselves with any professional organization and consequently are unknown and have little responsibility to the community as a whole. An outline of the classification of nurses and the procedure to follow will be found elsewhere in this issue. This is published by the Nursing Information Bureau of the American Nurses Association.

The Nursing Profession is in a very difficult position at the present time. Its members have received a preparation which makes them both essential to the Armed Forces and to the civilian needs when sickness is present. Add to this the fact that while receiving this preparation there has been developed a very keen personal feeling of responsibility for the care of the sick and the picture just becomes more complicated. However, I know that nurses are all agreed that we are going to win the war, that there is still a long road ahead, that we cannot fail the men who are fighting for us and that because of our preparation we are the group best prepared to give them the care they must have. That divides nurses into two groups—those who go to war to nurse the wounded and those who stay at home to take care of the civilian needs. Our Alumnae has done their part as a group and are giving a fine account of themselves as is shown in the letters from the front but it remains for the individual to examine her own situation and decide whether or not she is making her best contribution. If she is eligible for the Armed Forces there should be only one answer until the war is won.

CLASSIFICATION OF NURSES

If you are in Class I—Available for Military Service, not essential in your present position and potentially qualified for military service. (Depending upon your marital status and family responsibilities, you will be class 1-A, 1-B1, 1-B2 or 1-B3.)—You should apply to your Red Cross Chapter or write to the Surgeon General of the Army or Navy . . . or if you feel you cannot accept military service, consult your Procurement and Assignment Committee about an essential position.

If you are in Class II—Available for Relocation (11-A outside the community; 11-B, within the community.)—You should consult your local Procurement and Assignment Committee concerning an essential civilian position which you are qualified to fill.

If you are in Class III—Essential in your present position for limited time. (111-A, for hospital service; 111-B, public health, 111-C, industry; 111-D, nursing education; 111-E, other.)—You should stay in your present position until you are replaced by a qualified nurse, then report to your local Procurement and Assignment Committee for reclassification.

If you are in Class IV—Essential in your present position for unlimited time. (IV-A, for hospital service; IV-B, public health; IV-C, industry; IV-D, nursing education; IV-E, other.)—You should remain in your present position willingly, knowing that you are serving where your skills are needed most.

If you are in Class V—Not available for military or civilian Service, because of age, physical disability, health or other reasons.—You should if possible, assume some responsibility in which your knowledge of nursing will benefit your community.

TWO NEW COURSES FOR GRADUATE NURSES

NO doubt many of you have read the announcement in the July 1944 issue of the American Journal of Nursing offering a "course in special branches of nursing" to be given here at the Medical Center.

The course covers six months of instruction in rotating services with a certain amount of time spent in the blood bank, oxygen therapy, plastic and neuro surgery and on the research wards for burns and venereal diseases. Thirty hours of classroom instruction will be given by the teaching staff.

No academic credit is given for this period but a certificate will be granted upon satisfactory completion of the course.

The salary is $110 monthly with room and laundry. Meals are not provided but may be purchased at the hospital cafeteria.

Recent graduates of our School are not eligible for the course nor are graduates of the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps accepted, since they supposedly have no deficiencies and this course does not represent specialization in any field.

The course is designed primarily to give added experience to the graduate of a smaller school to better prepare her for service with one of the armed services or to supplement deficiencies in the basic nursing educational program.

Up to October 15th there have been 290 inquiries about this program. The first candidate to enroll began the course in August and a class of twelve graduates is expected to be accepted the first day of every month.

The second course to be started this fall is a nine months one of instruction and practice for registered nurses interested in operating room supervision. The time for this course is divided approximately as follows: the first month is spent as a general duty nurse on one of the surgical floors to introduce the graduate to the Medical Center, to familiarize her with the hospital equipment and to teach her the methods of post-operative care being practiced here. In the next two months she receives the regular basic student course in operating room instruction. The last six months are then spent in a rotation assignment including all the special services. These specialties include fracture, gynecology, neurology, nose and throat, ophthalmology, urology and plastic surgery.

This course is limited to six students accepted four times a year. No academic credit is granted for this course.

The salary for the first three months is $110 with room and laundry and $120 for the last six months.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

There have been many requests for this type of experience and the classes are already filled up to July 1945.

Application blanks for both courses and more detailed information may be obtained by writing to

GENERAL KIRK APPEALS FOR NURSES

MAJOR GENERAL NORMAN T. KIRK, Surgeon General of the Army, announced today that there is a critical shortage of nurses in the Army and that there has been a disappointing response to the call for 10,000 additional nurses who must be recruited within the next few months.

General Kirk said the Medical Department had expected to recruit at least 4,000 nurses during September, but that only 500 nurses had applied for commissions.

There are now 209,000 civilian nurses exclusive of 112,000 student nurses in the United States and General Kirk suggested that to reduce the number by 10,000 would not 'cripple nursing services for the civilian population.'

"Surely there are 10,000 graduate, registered nurses who are willing to join the Army to help out in this emergency," he said.

Army nurses now number about 40,000. Because of the ever-growing demand for them to care for casualties overseas, the number in the United States has been reduced to only about 13,000. Almost four thousand of these are assigned to the Air Forces and are not available for use in the General Hospitals where all casualties returned from overseas are being cared for. The Medical Department, General Kirk said, does not feel that it can safely order any more nurses from hospitals in this country without replacements. Many Army hospitals in this country already are using nurse's aides, senior cadet nurses who cannot yet qualify as registered nurses, and WAC's who are relieving enlisted men on hospital wards. Nurses, however, are needed to supervise these non-professional workers.

The need for more nurses is heightened by the fact that the Medical Department will be required to activate in November, hospitals it had not expected to organize before next March. This is due, the General said, to the activity on all three war fronts and the ever-increasing number of casualties.

Organizations interested in the Nurse Procurement program met recently in Washington to discuss the recruiting problem. Organizations represented at the conference were: Office of War Information, War Manpower Commission, American Red Cross, National Nursing Council for War Service, U. S. Public Health Nursing Education Division, members of the Nursing and Personnel Divisions of the SGO and the Army's Recruiting Publicity Bureau around which the campaign centers.

The following letter was received in October following the visit of Major General Kirk to many of the hospitals in the European and African theatres of war:

ARMY SERVICE FORCES
Office of the Surgeon General
Washington 25, D. C.

29 September 1944.

Dear Mr. McCormack:

I have recently returned from my second overseas inspection trip this year to the North African and European Theatres of Operations. During these inspections I had the opportunity to review every phase of the medical service overseas from the work of the first aid man at the front all the way back to the loading of hospital ships and airplanes on which the most seriously wounded are returned to this country for definitive treatment.

The entire country has good reason to be proud of the fine work which our doctors, nurses, and corps men are performing. Time and again, the wounded called this to my attention, and I had many opportunities to judge of their splendid contributions myself.

You have particular reason to be proud of this work because your Hospital contributed so much to the high standards of medical care which the Army is now, in this hour of need, able to make available to its fighting men. Time and again, the superior work which the affiliated medical units are performing was there for me to see and what I was unable to observe personally was related to me repeatedly by the theater surgeons and their consulting staffs.

I realize what a serious deprivation it has been for your Hospital to meet its manifold responsibilities with so many of its ablest members in the 2nd General Hospital. I do want you to know, however, that your contribution has been of inestimable value to the Army Medical Service, particularly to our soldier patients.

Sincerely yours,

Norman T. Kirk (signed)
Major General, U. S. Army
The Surgeon General

MAXWELL HALL EXPANSION

MANY of our older graduates know that the original plans for Maxwell Hall provided for two wings to the east, toward Harkness Pavilion.

All of our recent graduates know that with the war-time expansion of our own and our affiliating schools, our students have overflowed into the main hospital housing floors as well as Babies Hospital and the Eye Institute. The plans for post-war expansion of our Medical Center necessitate removing students from the hospital buildings. Hence the enlargement of Maxwell Hall is a logical first step in the process.

The plans which have been drawn by James Gamble Rogers, Inc., Architects, provide for a library and faculty offices on the first floor of the northeast wing, with student rooms above; and for reception rooms in the southeast wing with faculty apartments above, and enlarged infirmary facilities. The total capacity will be 475 students and twenty faculty representing an increase of 110 students and ten faculty.

While it is impossible to forecast the date for the actual building, we are encouraged to believe that this need will have a real priority in the very near future.

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY PUBLICATIONS

Essentials of Nursing by Helen Young, R.N. and Associates of the Presbyterian Hospital. Edited by Eleanor Lee. G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York 1942.

Essentials of Nursing is proving its worth in these troubled times and certainly has a great future. Its use as a textbook in nursing arts in schools of nursing is somewhat curtailed at present since it requires more work on the part of the instructor, now busier than ever. However several schools of nursing have adopted the book this year for the first time. The present trend toward simplification of nursing procedures and development of new techniques gives this book added importance. It will be gratifying to the Alumnae authors to know that a revised edition after the war has been recommended.

History of the School of Nursing of the Presbyterian Hospital, New York 1892-1942, G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York 1942.

Alumnae will be interested to hear that only 125 copies of the 1,500 published in June 1942 are on hand October 31, 1944. Upon recommendation of the Executive Committee of the Alumnae Association, an additional twenty-five copies have been set aside for special future requests. The remaining copies of the History are kept in Maxwell Hall and sold through the Alumnae Shops. During September and October 100 copies were purchased—many by student nurses. The proceeds from the sale of both the Essentials and the History are turned over to the Alumnae Scholarship Funds.

Excerpts from news item in "THE NASHVILLE TENNESSEAN," Aug. 10, 1944: "Miss Margaret Liston returned to this country last week from the Belgian Congo, where she was a missionary nurse from the Southern Presbyterian Church since 1924. She is undergoing treatment at Vanderbilt Hospital for sleeping sickness, which she contracted while stationed in Central Africa. At first she was sent to Luebo where the natives came to them with minor cuts and ailments, but still carried their serious sicknesses to the witch doctors. She was stationed later at Lubondal, then Mutoto, where she relieved a missionary nurse, stricken with sleeping sickness. They were the only white women there. Miss Liston was in complete charge of the entire station, acting as doctor, nurse, and general supervisor.

Miss Liston plans to take a laboratory technician's course at Tulane University, then return to the Congo, when she recovers."

OUR U. S. CADET NURSE CORPS

WHEN the Bailey-Bolton Bill was Passed by Congress in 1943, creating the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, all Federal aid for the basic course in nursing was diverted to that channel.

Our School of Nursing had benefitted by the previous government grants in financing our share of the Summer Schools of Nursing at Bryn Mawr College in 1942 and 1943. In the second it was assumed that students who attended the Summer School on Federal scholarships would become members of the Cadet Nurse Corps in case the Bolton Bill became law, and this is what actually occurred.

The question to be decided in the fall of 1943, therefore, was whether or not we should extend our participation in the program; and if so, to what extent. This was a decision to be made by both the Trustees of Columbia University since it concerned our educational program, and by the Board of Managers of Presbyterian, who had a stake in the potential nursing service of the Cadets. The resolution passed by both Boards reads:

“RESOLVED: That . . . the present participation in the program of the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps should be extended to future classes and to students now in the School for whom the necessary adjustments in educational schedules can be made, provided that the academic program of the University and the nursing services of the Hospitals at the Medical Center be preserved; and . . . that this is essentially a wartime measure and should terminate with the return of peace conditions.”

Acceleration of the curriculum to provide for the completion of required services within thirty months was impossible for any but first year students. An additional block of junior classes in the summer was necessary to accomplish it. Enrollment was therefore opened to the first year class, thirty-two of whom eventually joined. With four resignations because of health, the class of 1946 now has twenty-eight Cadet nurses. The present first year class (1947) has forty-six members of the Corps. Our enrollment in the Cadet Nurse Corps this year is therefore seventy-four students.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

One of the strong points of the Bailey-Bolton Bill is the provision that the Cadets must meet the requirements of the individual school, for admission, promotion and graduation. There is no question of accepting students with inferior qualifications, nor of providing a different curriculum for the members of the Cadet Corps. Our curriculum provides for division of the Senior Cadet period between psychiatric nursing and public health preparation. The first group to become Senior Cadets will complete their basic services in December, 1945.

We have every reason to be proud of our representatives in the Cadet Nurse Corps,—of their appearance in their uniforms, of their attitude to nursing and of their records in the School. Their outdoor uniforms are the only mark of distinction between them and the other students in the School.

MARGARET E. CONRAD, '20.

THE ENTERING CLASS

THE Class of September 1947 registered on September 9, 1944 with a total of one-hundred-eleven students (46 of this number are members of the United States Cadet Nurse Corps). Seventy-four of these students are degree candidates, fifteen of them having completed college before entrance here. There are 48 colleges represented in the degree group. Thirty-seven students registered for the diploma only, twenty-four of these students having come to us directly from high school.

IN September Maxwell Hall welcomed one hundred and ten new students to its proverbial fold; since then there has been an amazing amount of activity around the nurses' home! "Big sisters" have been entertaining, and "little sisters" have been studying.

Everyone was impressed by the challenge which the Honorable Frances Payne Bolton offered to nurses on October 20, when she addressed a large gathering in the Hunter College Assembly Hall. The program was under the auspices of the National Nursing Council for War Service, Inc., and similar groups of New York City and Long Island. Mrs. Bolton described in vivid terms her recent trip to the hospitals of England and France. The meeting was opened by a procession of student nurses, from the greater metropolitan area, in their respective school uniforms. Our student body was represented by Miss Mary Dickey and Miss Lee Wilkie in the processional. Many cadet nurses were present, and Mrs. Bolton particularly emphasized their responsibility to their country.

Socially Speaking:

Hallowe'en was celebrated in Sturges with a "Probie" Party. A group of seniors put on an amusing skit, and presented a new song which you may be hearing around the Medical Center.

On November 14, Dr. Darrach, senior class advisor, is to be the guest of honor at a tea in Maxwell Hall.

On November 25, the first dance of the year will be given. This time it includes box suppers, which will be auctioned off to purchasers of war stamps!

The Glee Club in full swing on Monday evenings heralds each busy week of meetings and activities in Maxwell Hall.

So, until the next time, we shall be collecting more and more news and Maxwell Hall views.

To: Miss Helen Young

From: Major Marjorie Peto
2nd General Hospital
October 5, 1944

Dear Miss Young:

I was very sorry to hear about your fractured ankle. I trust by this time you are up and around. Captain Savoy fractured his ankle when we were in England but he's all right now. We admitted an enlisted man with a compound fracture of ankle caused by slipping in the mud. The rain is amazing in its quantity these days.

We are having a permanent building made for our operating room. I got stuck in the mud, when I made rounds last night. It was dark and I didn't realize they had ploughed the path to make a base for the operating room. I thought someone would have to throw me a rope. We have stoves in all the tents (except the officers and enlisted men) now so I trust fewer nurses will get sick. I think 20% illness rather high. We are all going to buy men's underwear because it's beginning to look like a winter in an orchard to us.

I hear from Miss Conrad but it is hard to imagine life in the U. S. A. anymore. I wish I weren't so stupid when it comes to learning languages. Miss Hagner, Sandman and Delafield speak German very well. Miss Conner and Bedard speak French very well. The rest of us use our hands. When we get Russian patients we are at a loss.

We think of you and home often.

France, October 12th, 1944.

My dear Miss Young:

It has been a good many months since I have written to you or heard from any of my friends at Presbyterian. I hope you are all alright and not having too hard a time back home.

My team was active in Italy during the push thru to Rome and on up the coast. During that time I had some interesting trips to Rome and the neighboring country but we were also kept pretty busy so that most of our sightseeing trips were sort of piecemeal. It was pretty in that section of Italy and I would have really loved to have gotten to Florence and Pizza but there were bigger and better things for us and I wouldn't have missed coming over here for all of Italy. We had been there almost a year.

Our trip over was on a new Hospital ship and was more like a cruise than a jaunt to war on an early D day. Landing was just as calm—in fact our entire first two weeks was like a camping trip thru Southern France. We are attached to a Field Hosp.—the only Platoon following a whole Division—so that we moved frequently, setting up the Hospital and tearing it down almost every second day. Our casualties were extremely light which was a most gratifying thing—we hadn't expected it to be quite so easy. The section of France we have come thru has been beautiful—right near the Swiss and French Alps and often it was breathtaking. This easy going didn't last all the way as we hoped. About three or four weeks ago we began to get very busy and we made up for our lazy days by working all and more of our twenty-four hour schedule—even our twelve hour off period was often cut considerably. It wasn't so much the number of casualties that kept us busy, it was the severity of them—some of the worst cases I ever hope to see—A great many were caused by small arms and it was surprising to me to see the amount of damage a small bullet can do—we are not moving as often now, in fact two weeks is about our average stay.

There are four teams in this one platoon right now so that our schedule is 16 hours on and 16 hours off but most of the time we have only been three teams and that meant when we moved part of a team had to stay behind as a holding company—but we managed and have really gotten along famously. The weather lately has been bad—lots of rain and some very snappy days. One morning early, about 4:00 a.m., I was coming to my tent after some work and I was surprised to see everything all white outside—thought it was snow but on touching the ground I found it was just a very heavy frost—I'll admit I don't think too much of that sort of weather under these living conditions—we are going to have floors put in our tents and hope to get a bigger and better stove (—this one is about two feet high and six inches in diameter—) because the natives say it gets to 10 or 15 degrees below zero with lots of snow—!!—I've really gotten used to this outdoor living and often wonder how I'll ever sleep in a steam heated house again—a little steam heat pumped around my bed some nights however would feel pretty good—!

I don't know if you read about the death of my father in July or not. I heard just before coming over to France and it was quite a blow to me in spite of the fact that I knew he hadn't been well. After hearing from "Mom" however I feel it was a great blessing to have it happen when and as it did—he just went to sleep one night—and he was still able to be up and around without too much discomfort. I'm sure he wanted it that way and it makes me happy for him and for mother—it is hard to realize but I have been very fortunate in having such a grand father for so long.

Major Wylie is now a member of our unit—that makes about five that I knew at P.H.—Fishwick, Jorgensen, Giddings, Iovine, Wylie.

There is a chance that somewhere along the line I might run into the 2nd General. At present we are in different sectors but if they don't sit too far back there is a chance and one I'd love to have.

Will you give my best to all my friends at Presbyterian and if you find time I should love to hear from you someday.

Sincerely,

ISABEL.

Excerpts from a letter from Louisa Kent which was written in Normandy on August 19.

. . . I was having a regular orgy of letter-reading under one of these twelve million apple trees you must have read about when along comes our favorite Major and the next thing we knew, we were dispersing ourselves (the nurses) in various ambulances on various roads toward various but definite Evacuation hospitals. It all happened so fast that you were somewhere else before you knew you had really gone. At any rate, there ensued for most everyone the most interesting, worthwhile, stimulating, and really wonderful episode that we've yet had, and I fear that we will have. I landed at the 41st Evacuation hospital, along with Margaret Peters and six others, and our experiences were pretty typical of everyone else's. There was so much to do that at first it was like a nightmare. We got there about ten p.m., as I remember, and we just piled on duty. I landed on a ward which consisted of 60 post-op seriously wounded . . . There were five ward men, and they were wonderful, and three nurses, and we all ran all night. The tents were pitched, as it happened, on a very uneven and bumpy piece of ground, and I spent half of the first night falling into holes and fishing the sulfa pills out of the long grass. (Shades of learning medicine on G floor!) We gave penicillin, sulfa, plasma, blood, oxygen, etc., etc., on and on and over and over, to all these dirty, tired, exhausted, soldiers, practically all of them with such a heavy growth of beard that you really wouldn't have recognized your own brother. This went on for seven nights, and may I say, I learned plenty and did plenty. By that time, the front was so far ahead that we might almost as well have been in England, so, a move was in order. Move we did, with an efficiency and apparent ease that was appalling. For miles and miles and miles through devastated towns and cities, and country that was sometimes chewed in pieces, and other times looked as though the cows had never been interrupted in their grazing. We arrived at the designated spot all looking like coal miners from the dust and dirt of the roads. Everybody just made for a nearby brook, scooped out helmets of water, pulled out soap, scrubbed, and then proceeded to set up the hospital. Two hours later it was receiving patients and going full tilt. This time both Margaret and I got on the day shift. She continued on the shock ward, and I continued on my post-op ward. We were plenty busy and had plenty of excitement. We worked from 8 to 8, and the heat was just like dear New York City. In fact, Normandy has been plenty hot in the daytime ever since we arrived and the fatigues, high shoes, and leggings of England are just about on a par with all those layers of starch we used to wear at P.H. Again we had a week in which we didn't stop. Our little brook was just a godsend, and the first thing we did when we came off duty each night was to fall in it, and proceed to take our laundry along. It was the simplest way of living that we've struck yet. That left just about enough time to pull yourself together for the next day, and then climb between your blankets and DIE. I won't say everybody slept all night, because we didn't. Golly, what nights those were. It would always amuse me to pick up a magazine and find somebody remarking on the absence of the Luftwaffe. Well, that climactic period seems to be over for us, and I sometimes wonder now if I dreamt it. Just a couple of days, then late in the afternoon, our truck arrived for us, and we came off duty, packed yet again, piled in, and started back. Circumstances and roads being what they are, we were fortunate to reach here by midnight. We woke up the next morning to find our great, vast place in a great bustle of confusion, and wards "opening" one by one or two by two or something. I may as well confess that it's an awful let-down, and with very few exceptions, all who went out to various Evacs. wish they were back. There's so much to do there, and you were just so busy using your hands, and what little brain you had left that you didn't have time to think either.

Here I really don't know what is going on. There's a great vast mess of tents, dust, apple trees, bees, yellow jackets, mosquitoes, confusion, fox holes, bomb craters, concrete both dry and wet, more dust, more yellow jackets, and still more yellow jackets. There's a large cow pasture between our quarters and the hospital which the cows apparently have the lease on for an indefinite time, but which are to be our quarters anytime the farmer moves them out. Yesterday when we came back from breakfast, four of them had come through the hedgerow and were in our tent doorway, so Margaret and I undertook to chase them on, to their confusion but to some eventual success. We live somewhat primitively, to say the least, but no one who has seen or known what our men at the front have to endure and how they have lived for months now would dream of complaining. It was a big day when our carpenters finished a real Chic Sales with three seats, and it succeeded the most unsatisfactory and unhappy slit trenches that we'd had at first.

The wards seem to be getting into shape, and the patients are as thrilled with sheets and mattresses as we will be when we get home to them again. We have Jerry Keefer, Evie Elwood, Betsy Baker, and Margaret Mearns as patients on the very nice female ward. The first two are in bed, awfully glad to be back "home." Betsy and Mearnsie are up and getting stronger each day . . .

We are somewhat encouraged about the war, but nobody kids themselves into thinking it is going to be over tomorrow, and I'm glad Eisenhower came out with some solemn statements the other day. The headlines make it all sound so glamorous, but the side of it we've seen since we came to France is so utterly heartbreaking. All most of us think about is just getting it over. I wouldn't (or won't) have the slightest regret about not seeing Paris or southern France, if we can just get it finished, pack up, climb aboard any old ship, and start back.

Excerpts from a Letter from Lt. Mildred Quackenbush written from England Feb. 3, 1944.

One thing I did which really impressed me was to attend a Session of the House of Commons. They meet in the House of Lords, for their chamber is no more, having been completely demolished.

Prime Minister Churchill arrived back from Africa the day I went, so had a good view of him and heard him speak. Mrs. Churchill and their daughter Mary were in the balcony.

Lt. Mildred Halligan writes from England, July 27th, 1944.

I thought you would be interested in hearing about some of our problems and how we have and are trying to solve them in the Operating Rooms.

Gloves—the autoclave has no gauge so they are an expensive item. We use them cut across for rubber bands; wrists for large bands and fingers for small when the gloves are beyond repair.

Stools and standees are unknown. One of the carpenters made some four legged square topped wooden stools and there is a box for the short nurses to use—just a plain wooden box.

We do not have enough instruments so we try not to use too many for any one case and everyone understands. The scissors which need sharpening go back to a depot, so it takes a long time to get them back.

English suture sizes and our own vary so much that it is a surprise every time one opens a tube of catgut. Silk comes in various brands and also vary according to brand—as do the needles.

We have some excellent surgeons, among them Captain Beakes.

Letter from Lt. Katherine Reeves, 2nd General Hospital, as of July 12, 1944.

Am back with the Unit again, at last. As you probably know, a group of we "Surgicals" were out on Detached Service as operating teams. As luck would have it, the team I was on (Al Levy, Beano Dickinson, Hoppie and I) was the only one not to be called out; consequently, we worked on the wards. But it was good experience and very gratifying to take care of those grand boys wounded in France. I'd like to shout to the world the attitude of those youngsters, lying there minus arms, legs, etc.,—never complaining, grinning from ear to ear and only sorry that “Jerry” got them so soon. Others able to go back itching to get at the Nazis again now that they’ve found by painful experience how to deal with their manner of fighting. The ones of us who were called out to various hospitals as surgical teams after “D” Day gained a wealth of experience as they operated day and night for the first few days.

LETTER TO DOROTHY NAYER FROM JANE PATON '38

Hot Springs, Arkansas.

October 22, 1944.

Thank goodness I’m off night duty again! It’s one of those things which rolls around every three or four months. Although it’s only for two weeks it seems much longer. As night supervisor one needs to be a bedside nurse, administrator, operating and delivery room nurse, secretary, and M.P. Besides making rounds in the main hospital where there are six night nurses for more wards, the entire Eastman Hotel Annex with nine wards of ambulatory patients falls to the night supervisor alone. The cases I encountered during those two weeks ran all the way from a newborn infant and her diabetic mother to a 3 yr. old with a broken arm, to a boy receiving nembutal narcosis, to many boys with malaria, fractures, arthritis and polio, to World War I Veterans with cardiac ailments, to a Spanish War Veteran 80 years old, who came here all the way from Chicago by riding a bus day and night. This time I was even called as a witness for a court martial.

It’s a relief to be back and in charge of only my own ward. However instead of straight cardiology we have a generous smattering of general medical cases. The personnel is varied. There are besides two ANC’s, one civilian (civil service) nurse, 2 WAC’s, 2 regular army corpsmen, 2 civil service civilian ward men, one Red Cross (ex-volunteer) nurses aide, and one contrary colored maid in the kitchen. This sounds terrific but it may decrease by as many as four on one day. I’ve almost learned to be nonchalant when finding someone giving a morning bed bath with bathing solution (alcohol for rubbing), or an oxygen tank attached to a stomach tube while the patient miserably hiccupped! Perhaps I came here too late. The 80 year old gentleman says that in the good old days there was only one nurse for the Civil War Veterans and about all she did was fill their pipes and light them. And maybe she addressed a letter once in a while.

Hot Springs is beginning to resemble Little Rock in number of Army personnel. However it could never reach the Saturday afternoon in which there were 59 salutes in 2 blocks. After nursing my own arm the next day, I've steered clear of the big city on a Saturday. Had I known what was in store, probably my equanimity would have gone undisturbed one day early in my career when there was a question of throwing six bottles of coke to the winds or not saluting.

The girls who leave here for the front dream of these comfortable quarters and those who have returned can't believe their eyes. This is a permanent building and my room is twice the size of a room in Maxwell Hall and has 2 closets. I won't enlarge on the description, but there are all the comforts of home and an innerspring mattress.

To-morrow night there is a bowling tournament. Although our scores are breath taking (in the wrong direction) we have hopes that the girls from Camp Robinson will be more so. Anyway we'll have fun and if my score is worth mentioning I'll let you know.

FAREWELL TO

January 24th, 1945.

The retirement of Mr. John F. Bush at the close of the year 1944 caused us to feel that we were being separated from one of our dearly beloved members. An honorary member of the Class of 1926, he was an upholder of the traditions of the Presbyterian Hospital School of Nursing. We shall always be grateful for the opportunity to have worked under his guidance. Doctors and nurses alike surrendered to his earnestness. His naturalness in converting a plaint into a humorous statement saved us many a pitfall. The planning and organization of the Medical Center, the sloughing off of antiquated notions in hospital administration and the complete unity between the medical and nursing staffs with that of the Administration were only a few of his outstanding achievements.

We miss you, Mr. Bush. We shall always expect you to appear in uniform, cap and pin at our graduation exercises.

For the Alumnae Association.

SELECTIVE SERVICE FOR NURSES?

AS the Quarterly Magazine goes to press, the question of drafting nurses is still a matter of heated debate. Perhaps by the time this number is distributed, the answer will be known. In any case, it seems wise to mention it, for it is one of the most important and far-reaching questions with which the nursing profession has been confronted in years.

The disastrous turn of events for the Allies on the Western Front in December necessitated enrolling many more nurses in the Army Nurse Corps than the original schedules had called for. The enrollment of nurses in both the Army and the Navy Nurse Corps had been lagging for some time, partly because of the general optimism about the end of the war. The suddenly increased need, following on the accumulated failure to meet previous quotas caused a serious deficiency in military nursing personnel.

The first publicity campaigns to meet the situation gave the general impression that American nurses had failed miserably, as a profession, in meeting the needs of the war. The true picture is emerging slowly but definitely: that 75,000 registered professional nurses have volunteered their services since the beginning of the war, including those rejected on physical examination and those who have been discharged from service; that 51,000 of them are still in service; that while there are estimated to be some 240,000 registered nurses in the country, not more than two-thirds of them are probably eligible for military assignment, so nearly 50% of the eligible nurses have already volunteered. Their record in service has been one of inspiring courage and devotion under all circumstances. The unexpected need for the additional 14,000 nurses required to meet quotas at once, should not distort the true facts.

The threat of drafting this profession whose services are so necessary in the war, was made concrete by President Roosevelt in his analysis of the state of the nation on January 6th. The National Nursing Council for War Service and the American Nurses Association at once responded with promises of full cooperation in any national service act which would include all women. The necessity and practicability of such universal registration seems doubtful at this time. The question now arises of extending the Selective Service Act to include nurses.

The care of wounded service men is the most vital possible concern of every citizen, not merely the concern of the Army and Navy. No one needs to tell nurses what skillful nursing care means in serious illness: we know better than any spectators can tell us. Yet, there are many reasons for hesitating to endorse the May-Bailey bill,—reason which seem valid to thoughtful leaders in nursing.

Miss Stella Goostray, President of the National Nursing Council for War Service, has made the following statement:*

“At least minimum staffs must be maintained in schools of nursing that in 1944 admitted 76 per cent more students than in 1940. These students not only offer the only assurance the armed forces have of an adequate pool from which to draw nurses in the years ahead, but are actually doing a large share of civilian nursing today.

“Procurement & Assignment Service has striven as one part of its task to classify as essential the key nurses in home-front institutions until they could be replaced. Meeting military needs is a first necessity. But military needs can and must be met with a minimum disruption of civilian services. Maintaining civilian services is important to keeping up war production and the very morale of the soldier himself.

“The National Nursing Council for War Service believes that the need is for more power to the sort of work being done by the Procurement & Assignment Service. The pool of nurses declared available by the Procurement & Assignment Service must be increased as military needs grow, and many changes to that end are already in effect.”

The response to better publicity about the urgency of the need has been fine: 8,246 registered nurses volunteered in three weeks. It is to be hoped that the present quotas may be met by voluntary enrollment, and that necessary replacements for the civilian services, day and night, may be found among qualified graduate nurses who are not already in essential positions.

CHRISTMAS

CHRISTMAS at the Medical Center was very gay in spite of a few wartime and fire regulations. Miss Campbell, Superintendent of Babies' Hospital was in charge of the arrangements and provided us generously with Christmas trees, greens and pine cones—(all duly flamed-proofed) together with many other decorations including lights for the trees. When the wards were decorated we found we had many artists in our midst and they painted the windows and glass doors with beautiful pictures—all the way from animals to angels! These paintings done with Bon Ami combined with poster paint were very much admired and added a new note of color to the wards. Attractive little scenes were very effectively arranged on some of the large ward tables.

Christmas Eve we sang carols, marching through the ward floors in the traditional manner. We were allowed fifty candles (a great boon from the fire insurance authorities) and we made the most of them—about one hundred nurses marched and we were most fortunate in having Miss Kaltenbach and Miss Carvill playing their violins in masterly fashion. The singing was very much improved by the addition of the voices of twenty or more of the interns. We were delighted to have them join us and they added greatly to what many said was a very successful performance. After this everyone was invited to Maxwell Hall for ice cream, cake, coffee and candy around a lovely Christmas tree in Sturges.

Christmas morning Chaplain Russell turned into Santa Claus for awhile and thrilled the children in Babies Hospital with his festive appearance and many presents. Later he conducted a very nice Christmas service for the wards and I am sure it brought great comfort to many of our patients.

We were delighted to have Mr. Parke and his son come in during the morning and their thoughtfulness was much appreciated. They "made rounds" tirelessly and helped us admire the wards and the lovely Christmas dinner trays. The Nutrition Department and the Steward's Department certainly did themselves proud for the trays never looked prettier or more appetizing. The turkey and cranberry sauce, pumpkin pie, etc. were very tempting. Lovely white angel cards amply covered small cups of hard candies and there were snappers to pull and beautiful paper napkins. We all had an equally good dinner and I'm sure no one was forgotten. In Maxwell Hall some of the tables were arranged so that larger groups would eat together, thereby making it more of a party!

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

That evening and for several evenings anyone walking in the vicinity of 165th Street and Fort Washington Avenue could have seen two lovely large Christmas trees brightly lighted, one in the Hospital garden and the other in front of Maxwell Hall. They were most effective and I am sure cheered the entire neighborhood.

We thank Miss Campbell for her part and we thank everyone else who helped. We missed all those who were away from us at this time and we hope that next year all our nurses and doctors now in the armed forces will be with us again and we will have a more peaceful and a much "merrier" Christmas.

MARGARET ELIOT, '21.

THE ALUMNAE SCHOLARSHIPS

THE EMMA BAKER KENNEDY SCHOLARSHIPS

IN 1931 a legacy of $15,000 was left to the Alumnae Association of the Presbyterian Hospital School of Nursing from the estate of the late Mrs. John S. Kennedy. At the annual meeting in May of that year a committee was appointed to consider the best use which could be made of this gift.

This committee, of which Miss Eleanor Lee was chairman, reported at the annual meeting the following year, 1932, that it had been decided to use the legacy to establish a scholarship fund to be known as The Emma Baker Kennedy Scholarship Fund in memory of Mrs. Kennedy. The committee had further decided to invest the legacy and to use the interest from it each year to award two scholarships of $350.00 each, any unused income to revert to the principal of the fund, and the first award to be granted in September 1932. It was estimated by the committee that this sum of money, $350.00, would cover the cost of tuition at any of the leading universities or colleges.

The Emma Baker Kennedy Scholarships are awarded annually to an alumna of the school for the purpose of full time study in preparation for "educational or administrative work in schools of nursing or in the field of Public Health." Preference is given to those graduates who have already completed some graduate study.

To be eligible for the scholarship the committee set up four requirements as reported at the annual meeting in May 1932, as follows:

A candidate must:

1. Be able to meet college entrance requirements.
2. Be a registered nurse.
3. Be an active member of the Alumnae Association and of the American Nurses Association.
4. Have had one year of experience after graduation as an instructor or administrator.

In 1935, because of the financial depression in the United States and the decreased income from all invested funds, it became necessary to reduce the scholarships to $300.00 yearly. This year the scholarship has been returned to the original amount of $350.00.

The Finance Committee in 1941 recommended that all alumnae funds begin to accumulate income, so that expenses could be paid out of the last year's accumulated interest rather than from the current income. The Emma Baker Kennedy Scholarship Fund has not yet reached this goal. The year of 1944 has been started with $550.00 on account toward the estimated need of $700.00.

The original gift of $15,000 was decreased by almost $1,000 before the Alumnae Association finally received it due to the necessary legal proceedings. The Distributing Fund very generously then assigned a donation each year to the Emma Baker Kennedy Scholarship Fund until the principal had been brought back to the original amount of the legacy. Since the publication of "The Essentials of Nursing" all royalties from that book have been added to the principal of the Fund amounting to $991.06 up to October 1944.

The total invested principal in The Emma Baker Kennedy Scholarship Fund as of October 1944 was $16,833.04. The Education Committee hopes in the future that this principal will continue to be increased by gifts to an amount which will yield sufficient annual income to grant two scholarships of $400.00 each. Such a scholarship award would more adequately cover the present day cost of tuition which has been so increased in all the educational institutions during the past decade.

THE HELEN YOUNG SCHOLARSHIP

At the Executive Committee meeting of the Alumnae Association in October 1942 it was voted to establish a scholarship as a memorial to Miss Helen Young who, that year, had resigned as Director of Nurses, this scholarship to be an award of $500.00 annually to be known as the Helen Young Scholarship.

Because of Miss Young's intense interest and concern for the young graduate, The Helen Young Scholarship is to be given to a recent graduate who needs financial aid to begin her graduate studies.

It was decided that a total fund of at least $50,000 should be the goal for this project and the Distributing Fund once more came forward and undertook to start the fund by assigning $1,000 to it each year, $500.00 to the principal of the fund and $500.00 for the annual award.

Helen Tripp, '43 was chosen as the first recipient of this scholarship. She received the award for a full year's study at Teachers College, Columbia University in 1943-44 in the combined course of college work and field experience given for head nurses.

This year the Helen Young Scholarship has been given to Evelyn Hess, '43 who is also doing full time study at Teachers College, Columbia University.

Members of this year's graduation class, 1945, or members of the class of 1944 or 1943 may apply for this scholarship for the coming year 1945-46.

The Alumnae Association is most fortunate and privileged to have three scholarships, two from The Emma Baker Kennedy Scholarship Fund and one from the Helen Young Scholarship, to award each year for graduate study. The Education Committee hopes that, after the war is over, these scholarships will again be fully used.

Application blanks for all scholarships may be obtained by writing to:

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE COLLECTION

A CHRISTMAS gift of letters, books and a bible for the Florence Nightingale Collection in Maxwell Hall was presented to Miss Conrad by Dr. Hugh Auchincloss with the following note:

"Dear Miss Conrad:

We are fortunate to be able to add these rather remarkable items to our collection. This addition was made possible through the generosity of Dr. and Mrs. Rufus Cole. I am sure they will contribute toward the inspirational value of your collection.

Yours very sincerely,
Hugh Auchincloss."

Autograph Letter Signed "Florence" to Henriette Wyvill, written on the same sheet as a letter of her sister Parthenope to the same, and one of her father, William Edward Nightingale to M. Wyvill and M. Wyvill Jr. Together 4 pages, 4to. Genoa, 22-3 January, 1838.

Written when 18 years of age, and giving a long and descriptive account of the travels in Italy of the Nightingale family, the letter by Florence occupying two full 4to. pages.

Two Autograph Letters (both incomplete) one to "My dear Joanna" sending 26 lines of Sir John Herschel's poetry commencing "Whither, whither shall I flee" the other to "My dear dear Susan" praising Adelaide (?Risori) in Semiramide, mentioning Dickens &c. Both early letters to Joanna and Susan Horner.

Together 7¼ pages, 8vo. One dated from Embley.

Autograph Letter Signed to Mlle. Bunsen. 2¾ pages, 8vo. London, n.d. c. 1852.

30 Old Burlington Street

" . . . I write one line to beg Mr. Bunsen to do as he likes about his good little Bristol printer who is quite welcome to the poor little Pamphlet. I have hitherto sold it for the benefit of the Institution.

I have heard from Fliedner who is recovering. It takes a good deal to kill those kinds of men. And poor Madame Fliedner has weathered the illness of 8 children & her husband & the care of the whole Institution. . . .”

(On her way back from Egypt in 1850, Florence Nightingale paid a visit to the Institute of Protestant Deaconesses at Kaiserwerth on the Rhine. The institute had been founded in 1836 in a very humble way, for the care of the destitute by Theodore Fliedner, protestant pastor of Kaiserwerth, and had since grown into a training school for women teachers and for nurses of the sick. A very brief experience of the Kaiserwerth Institute convinced Miss Nightingale of the possibilities of making nursing a ‘calling’ for ladies and no mere desultory occupation. Next year she spent some four months at Kaiserwerth and went through a regular course of training as a sick nurse. On her return she published a short account of Kaiserwerth.)

Autograph Letter Signed to Miss Frere, concerning a German nurse. 8 pages, 8vo. Embley, 22 May, n.y.

“ . . . I have a German widow, who appears to me of high promise as a nurse. . . . She speaks English well, she was indeed employed for 2 years as a Sister without salary in a Hospital in the United States. I went round all the Hospitals in London with her to get her a situation as extra nurse for 2 or 3 months till I could take her in at my place. . . . I am, above all, anxious that she should be in real hard work till I can take her, as she is like most Germans inclined to be dreamy, unless her sympathies are strongly excited by the sight (& I was going to say the smell) of the sick.” &c.

Two Autograph Letters Signed to Mrs. Sutton, advising her of the death of the writer’s grandmother, whom she nursed.

7½ pages. 8vo. (1853) With addressed envelope.

Autograph Receipt Signed for two packets of newspapers from the “Resolute.” 1 page, narrow ob. 8vo. General Hospital, Balaclava, 25 April, 1856.

7.

Autograph Letter Signed. 3 pages, 8vo. London, 21 November, 1858.

Mentioning her report on the workings of the Army Medical departments in the Crimea.

"Although I can scarcely suppose that you will remember me, yet I venture to hope that I may be allowed to send you a copy of my report to the War Office?"

It is an old story now. But the good sense, the unalterable patience, the heroic simplicity of our men can never be an old story.

If you have not time to read it yourself, which perhaps I can hardly expect, may I ask you that you will not let any one else read it? It has not been laid on the table of the House, and therefore it must not lie on any other table. It is indeed in no sense a public document but strictly a confidential one." &c.

Autograph Letter Signed to T. H. Tanner the physician. 2 pages. 8vo. Hampstead, 23 August, 1864.

"I know not how we can thank you for your invaluable attention to poor Phebe Burton.

I fear she was a troublesome patient; & sometimes disobedient to her kind physician. This she was thro' life to every one, but withal a woman of the strongest & warmest affections I ever met." &c.

Autograph Letter Signed to "Dearest Helen" thanking her for a memorial of her father Leonard Horner, geologist and educationalist "whom I was so proud & glad to call my friend.

You must not judge of my interest in it by my delay in telling you so. I often feel like the poor washerman who said that heaven would be to have one hour a day to sit still & do nothing." &c.

3 pages. 8 vo. Norfolk Street, 24 January, 1865.

Six Autograph Letters Signed and Two Autograph Letters (incomplete) to Charles Benson. 28 pages, 8vo. London 1881-2.

A very fine series of eight letters almost entirely dealing with the question of introducing agricultural implements into India, and the development of agriculture in that country.

"... It seems that agricultural affairs in Madras are 'looking up', & prospects improving. Surely the Stipendiaryship in the College for each Collectorate in the Presidency must do good. We have long wished for an Agricultural text, as being quite essential for Revenue Dept. Candidates, and this, it seems, we are to have. And also agricultural classes in the High Schools of the Presidency. . . .”

“ . . . A pupil of Howard’s of Bedford told me that there should be steam threshing machines for threshing rice (Like wheat) for Bengal. (One threshes as much in a day as 60 men, he said).

Could you kindly tell me whether steam threshing machines are among those which you think suitable to India & of which you purposed to take back models? . . .”

“I assure you that I am quite as much distressed by the character of the “Resolution” of the Govt. of India on the new Agricult’l Dept. as any one can be. To connect Agricult’l ‘improvement’ with settlement operations is completely to close the door on all possibility of ever helping the cultivator of India.” &c.

Three Autograph Letters Signed (in pencil) and One Autograph Letter (incomplete) to Dr. Evatt, referring to Army medical organization, teaching at Netley, &c. 9 pages, 8vo. London 1882-3.

10 Smith Street
Parklane W.
May 20/82

. . . “It is 9 or 10 months since I have heard from you and I do not even know whether you are in England.

I think the time is near when something might be done about matters you are interested in, if only you are within reach to be communicated with.”

10 Smith Street
January 23, 1883

“You have talked much & wisely about the necessity of teaching if the A.M.O.S. are to have all the administration in their hands (to them) administration.

Could you write me a few lines suggesting what questions should be asked to elicit what administration is or can be taught at Netley, including, Nursing, Cooking, Washing, Ward Management, &c. &c. and suggesting what & how the ideal course of administration should be taught & could it be taught at Netley. . . .

The Field Hospital course would have to be taught at Aldershot. How? . . .”

10 Smith Street

Feb. 27, '83

. . . "I think your scheme of the 'Army Hospital Flower Mission' most admirable. . . . It will do a great deal of good. I wish I could see my way to doing as you ask: but I never like to give my 'name' where I cannot give my work. . . .

Do you think that you would be so good as to send me a copy of the list of Military Hospitals at the end?"

10 Smith Street

June 13, 1883

"What constitutes a Corps? (referring to the future 'Royal Medical Corps') in the sense of the other Army scientific Corps . . . &c."

13.

Autograph Letter Signed (in pencil) to "My dear Joanna and old friend" (Joanna Horner) 3 pages. 8vo. 18th, July 1883.

"Thank you for your most kind letter . . . wish to know where I was born. It was at the Villa Colombaja near Florence. . . . I never see more than one person a day if it can be helped. And this is almost always on the most exhausting business talk. . . . With best wishes for your Florence life, dear noble old Florence, her renewed life, yours & Susan's for auld lang syne loving old friend. F. Nightingale."

14.

Autograph Letter Signed to Miss Ada Bland Rees, ward sister, Charing Cross Hospital, granddaughter of John Rees of Killymanlloyd, Llanelly. A letter of condolence on the death of her father the Rev. Arthur Augustin Rees of Sunderland.

2¼ pages, 8 vo. London, 10 South St. W., 19th June 1884. With envelope.

Conclusion of Autograph Letter Signed. 1 page. 8vo. Scutari Hospital. 7 Jan. 1856.

. . . "of an aged mother in distress who sent her three sons to the Crimean War, of whom one only survives (who is now her only child) the other two having been killed in the trenches . . ." &c.

Conclusion of Autograph Letter Signed, apparently part of a testimonial. ½ page. 8vo.

Autograph Note Signed (Initials) describing three types of roses. 1 page 8vo. 3 November, 1881. Leahurst.

BOOKS

Bible presented by Florence Nightingale to Alice Munday with Autograph Inscription "Alice Munday with the most affectionate good wishes & earnest prayers for her best happiness, both here & hereafter of her friend Florence Nightingale. London, 1875."

8vo. morocco with metal clasp.

Mackenzie (G. Muir) and Irby (A.). Travels in the Slavonic Provinces of Turkey-in-Europe.

2 vols. cloth. 1877. With autograph inscription by Florence Nightingale in each volume as follows:—

Vol. 1. "Offered in the ardour of our friend Miss Irby's good cause to Mr. & Mrs. S. C. Hall who have done so much for so many good causes, with the warm regards & thankful heart of Florence Nightingale. Whitsuntide. 1877."

Vol. II. "Mr. & Mrs. S. C. Hall offered by Florence Nightingale. 1877."

We acknowledge with thanks another gift of three publications for our collection from Dr. Arthur E. Neergaard.

1. A Contribution to the Sanitary History of the British Army during the late war with Russia. Illustrated with Tables and Diagrams. London. John W. Parker and Son, West Strand 1859. This book is of particular interest and contains diagrams representing the mortality in the hospitals at Scutari and Kulali. The mortality rate of the sick treated in these hospitals was reduced to 2% per 1,000 June-Sept. 1855.
2. Subsidiary Notes as to the Introduction of Female Nursing into Military Hospitals in Peace and in War. Presented by request to the Secretary of State for War. London. Harrison and Sons 1858.

LT. RUTH DERR'S EXPERIENCES WITH THE CHINESE BLOOD BANK

Excerpt from "The Red Bank Daily Standard"

November 28, 1944

THE only American woman to hold a commission in the Chinese Army is Lt. Ruth Derr, a registered nurse on the staff of China's only blood bank now operating in Kunming.

Ruth Derr, born of missionary parents in Chenhsien, Hunan province, where she lived throughout her childhood, came to the United States to attend college, then the School of Nursing at Presbyterian Hospital. Returning to China in 1934, she was Superintendent of Nurses at Wilkinson Hospital in Soochow and held that position until war-time conditions forced that hospital to close. Early last year, eager to serve China, Miss Derr joined the Chinese Blood Bank, which included a group of Chinese doctors, nurses and technicians, trained in this country for the specific purpose of setting up and operating a blood and plasma bank for the Chinese Army.

All members of the blood bank staff, having been commissioned as officers in the Chinese Army Medical Service, were able to travel to India via an American Army transport. At the urgent request of Gen. Stillwell, the staff and 25 tons of equipment for the bank were flown over the Hump to Kunming, where they established a blood bank in the Kun Hwa hospital. The greater part of the plasma supply is being sent to the Chinese troops on the Salween river front. The original supply of plasma, furnished by American units, is replenished periodically by blood donations from Chinese soldiers stationed in army camps near the base hospital, secured by the bank's mobile unit.

The Chinese Blood Bank faces many difficulties unknown to similar units in America. The electric current is too weak and intermittent to operate all the needed machinery, and there is no running water.

Although she has spent so much of her life in the Orient, Ruth Derr remains a typical American girl who finds it difficult to start her hard-working day without a cup of hot coffee. In a recent letter she wrote "I do not like Chinese breakfasts, so in Chinese money I buy butter at $800 a half pound, rolls at $15 each, jam at $200 a jar and coffee at $600 a pound. Sometimes I get extravagant and buy a peach or a pear at the price of $15 each or a couple of eggs at $18 apiece. My other two meals are Chinese and we really eat very well. I am learning to cook Chinese food and am fond of it, which is very lucky. I did bring lots of vegetable seeds with me and we

FROM LT. ISABEL HARRELL IN FRANCE

(Ed Note: Lt. Isabel Harrell's account of her experience with The . . . Surgical Unit in France has been sent to us by her sister, describing the background of her encounter with General Devers.)

Monday, October 16th. Yesterday we were on first call from 4 to 12. We began right after supper and continued through until 10:30 A.M. This morning everything was all cleaned up, patients as well as the O.R. It was a rugged night. One patient died just as we got him on the table. I am scrubbing now for all cases and manage all right except in the suture line; there I have troubles.

Later: After supper it began to rain and rain and our tent sprung a leak.

Tuesday, October 17th. It has stopped raining but is cloudy and somewhat windy,—a little chilly, too. One roommate is up and has made some coffee. The new one is just beginning to stir. When she moves into another tent, I can move my head away from the leak. We are definitely spoiled living with only two or three people in a tent, if there are four we really feel crowded. I imagine the rain slowed things up a bit; anyhow there are no patients in now.

Wednesday, October 18th. We went to work right after lunch starting in the ward with chest aspirations and dressings. We only got a couple of them finished when some patients came in so we adjourned to the O.R. where we worked until midnight. The doctor told us to be up and ready for dressings (changing a cast, opening some colostomies, and putting a tube in a chest) at 8 A.M. We were supposedly off duty until 4 P.M. but the cases had to be done regardless so I went to bed about 1 A.M. Now it is 8 A.M. Thursday.

Friday, October 20th. Our day off until midnight. After Chow one of the doctors and I took off for a town about 90 miles behind us. He wanted to talk to one of our neurosurgeons who is working there as he is interested in doing some of that sort of work. This is at the same General Hospital where some of my friends are working. I was quite cold on the way down so when we passed thru one town we saw a sign "Red Cross truckers lunch and hot coffee" (this is where the supply route starts and it is a wonderful thing for those truck drivers). We stopped and had some coffee and warmed up and were on our way. We also picked up a couple of G.I.'s from the Conv. Hospital who were out for a day of fun. We arrived at our destination about 12:30. The doctor (my friend) dropped me and the two boys in town and went on out to the Hospital. All the stores were closed until 2:00 as always. So

I found a restaurant and had some lunch and then decided to get my hair cut. The little French girl thinned it and shortened it a bit then she got the curling irons and really curled and waved me up with a high front and sides—very glamorous! I did a little shopping, got a vest of some tan material that looked like wool, anyway it was warmer going home because of it. I also looked at some lace. It was pretty but certainly not worth $6.00 for one little piece, so I guess I'll forget about lace. Saw a few pretty silk printed handkerchiefs but they again were very expensive. I think our products at home are just as pretty and better quality really, so for Christmas presents I'll depend on you all. We picked the same boys up and started for home about 4:00 P.M., stopping on the way at the "coffee house" and arriving here about 8:00 P.M. I enjoyed getting away a lot, even if I didn't find anything to buy. Some of the kids are getting this lace and stuff but I don't guess they have been spoiled by New York City stores as I have.

Saturday, October 21st. We did no work last night and I am off call at 4 P.M. today. After breakfast we did dressings, aspirations, etc. While we were in the ward some "big shots" came to look around; General Devers smiled at me and almost made me feel that he knew me or something. He presented some Purple Hearts and then he came up and spoke to me while I was standing waiting to see if we had any more dressings to do. He asked me how long I had been over, etc. and the photographer then said he would take our picture. So look out for a picture of me and General Devers! I have on a rubber apron over pants and sweater, boots, and little "beanie" sitting on the back of my head! Such glamour! I was really thrilled at being the one to be picked out. I must have looked like someone—that is usually the story.

Tonight we are going out on a visit to a friend, and I'm all in the mood for a celebration. My hair still has a little curl and I am just raring to laugh and be gay!

STORY OF THE RED CROSS BLOOD DONOR SERVICE

To date, there have been 25 of our Presbyterian graduates on the Nursing Staff of this Chapter.

The project is of especial interest to us also because of the major role played in its early days by Mr. John F. Bush as President of the Blood Transfusion Betterment Association.

In February 1941, at the request of the Surgeons General of the Army and Navy, the American Red Cross inaugurated its program for the collection of blood for the Armed Forces. According to the agreement reached, the American Red Cross recruits volunteer donors from the civilian population, collects the blood and transports it to laboratories designated by the Army and Navy for processing into dried plasma and serum albumin. Since the original Army and Navy request was for only 15,000 pints of blood, this service was started out on a very small scale. In New York, space was provided by Presbyterian Hospital in the Surgical Diagnostic Clinic on C Floor. The staff consisted of four nurses and two doctors. At that time a schedule of thirty donors a day was considered a good average. As the demands of the Army and Navy increased, the Blood Donor Service moved to a small building on East 36th Street and subsequently to its present site, the old Tiffany Building on 37th Street and Fifth Avenue. The present quota of the New York Chapter is 10,000 pints of blood a week which includes the New York Center and its four Mobile Units. The staff has grown to seven doctors and approximately eighty nurses. There are now thirty such centers throughout the United States and the yearly quota is 5,000,000 pints of blood. The technical staff is highly trained since the procedure of bleeding donors requires a thorough knowledge and skill. All technical aspects of the service are under the direction of the National Research Council and rules and regulations set by this organization must be strictly adhered to.

To date over 11,000,000 pints of blood have been collected, the majority of which has been processed into dried plasma and the remainder into serum albumin.

The red cells which remain after the plasma is utilized were formerly discarded. During the past year a service was inaugurated at the New York Center to resuspend some of these cells and distribute them for transfusion purposes to military and civilian hospitals in this locale. In the preparation by fractionation of albumin from blood, certain by-products have resulted. The best known of these is immune serum globulin which is used in the prevention and modification of measles. Other by-products, the use of which is limited chiefly to the Armed Forces, are thrombin, fibrin foam, fibrin film and isohemagglutinins.

The long realized need for whole blood transfusions, in addition to plasma for battle casualties, was met in August 1944. At this time again, at the request of the Surgeon General, a program was instituted whereby type "O" whole blood could be shipped directly to the ETO by air. The request was made for 1,000 pints of blood per day to be provided from three Centers, Washington, New York and Boston. The selection of type "O" donors is simplified by the use of dried "O" serum which shows agglutination with a drop of the donor's cells in approximately 60 seconds. The blood is collected under rigid technique into a special vacuum type bottle containing a preservative solution. The bottles are kept refrigerated while awaiting shipment which takes place within 24 hours of the collection. An expiration date of 21 days has been set. The bottles are typed and kahn-tested by military personnel. Five Red Cross Centers, Boston, New York, Brooklyn, Washington and Baltimore are now collecting whole blood for the European Area; five West Coast Centers, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, San Diego and Portland for the Pacific. To date, over 155,000 bottles of whole blood have been flown overseas.

The whole field of blood transfusion and blood substitutes has advanced rapidly in the past few years. Investigative studies are continuing along these lines constantly and it is difficult indeed to visualize or contemplate all the various uses to which a single bottle of blood may some day be put.

REPORT OF THE 35th ANNUAL MEETING OF THE NEW YORK STATE LEAGUE OF NURSING EDUCATION

The State Advisory Council met in Albany on October 24th and 25th. The report of the Officers and Committee Chairmen and Chairmen of the District will be placed on file with the Alumnae records.

The Board of Directors reported that their program of the last year had the following objectives:

1. To promote cooperative relationships with other organizations.

2. To aid and support the Council in the recruitment and classification of nurses.

3. Post-war planning.

4. To encourage section and committee programs.

5. Consideration of redistricting in the state.

Future planning included the continuation of the above and the subjects of:

1. Legislation.

2. How to meet war demands.

3. Personnel practices.

4. Increasing of membership.

Members accorded honors were:

1. Miss Sheahan appointed President of the National Organization of Public Health Nurses.

2. Three members appointed to the Board of the American Nurses' Association.

3. Three members appointed to the State Medical Commission.

Sections:

1. By-laws:

Mr. Nash gave a report of the extensive work on the By-laws of the Alumnae Associations of District 13 and recommendations for changes to conform with the State and National Association By-laws. Presbyterian was one of three Alumnae Associations in the District whose by-laws are in order.

2. Practical nurse:

It is hoped that cooperation and help in direction may be extended to the Practical Nurses' Association. Miss McLoughlin represents the Registered Professional Nurses on their Board.

3. Social Security:

A talk on present laws and proposed law to help independent work or nurse.

4. Registries:

A meeting of the American Nurses' Association on Registries is being held in St. Louis in November.

Private duty:

Fees in the districts vary from $6 to $7 for 8 hour duty, $8 to $11 for 12 hour duty, and $9 to $14 for a resident nurse. The fee for group nursing is usually $5 per patient for 8 hour duty.

State membership is now 18,420. District 15 received both cups for membership. It increased from 91 to 161 members, an increase of 75%.

Miss Elizabeth Hall was reappointed Assistant Executive Secretary for the two year period.

Insignia (metal) of State Nurse can be purchased from the state office. Uniforms are no longer available at Lord and Taylor's.

The Biennial Convention of the State Nurses' Association is to be held in New York at the Pennsylvania Hotel the week of October 22, 1945.

The New York State League of Nursing Education met October 26th and 27th in the Ten Eyck Hotel, Albany, and Miss Florence Wilson, president, presided. Statistics were quoted showing that New York State has 122 Schools of Nursing, and the League should have 125 sustaining members. These members should include not only heads of Nursing Schools but also heads of Visiting Nurse Associations. Membership was encouraged for sustaining members, head nurses as junior active members, and lay people. Total membership was 1,127.

Miss Mary Burr, Dean of Wagner College School of Nursing, spoke on "The Role of the Head Nurse in the Educational Program," and the practise of having daily student—head nurse conferences in several hospitals.

Miss Isabelle Stewart, Director of the Division of Nursing Education, Teachers College, discussed "Leadership in Nursing for the Post-War World" at the luncheon meeting.

Miss Mary Brackett, Vice President of the State League, spoke on Graduate Education, followed by Dr. Esther Lloyd-Jones, of Teachers College, who gave a stimulating discussion on the "Problems of Student Guidance and Counselling." This was followed by a Round-table discussion of the practise of counselling and guidance by members of the Samaritan Hospital School of Nursing.

Mr. J. Hillis Miller, Associate Commissioner of the New York State Department of Education, spoke on "Education of the Future." He stressed the necessity for more education for our youth saying that New York State was next to lowest in amount spent per capita on education. Plans are afoot to try to give scholarships to the upper 10% of scholars and to have a series of institutes to reach 85 to 90% of the youth in larger cities.

Miss Marion Sheahan, Director of Public Health Nursing for New York State Department of Health, spoke on this same subject of Future Education. She said that we must accept and give training to the "second level" of nurses to reach the needs of the public. This meeting was ended as it was begun, with the lovely voices of the Russell Sage Choir.

The other programs included in the annual meeting were: Round-table discussions on the Educational Program in:

The Operating Room

Medical and Surgical Nursing

Obstetrical Nursing

Pediatric Nursing.

Public Health in the Educational Program

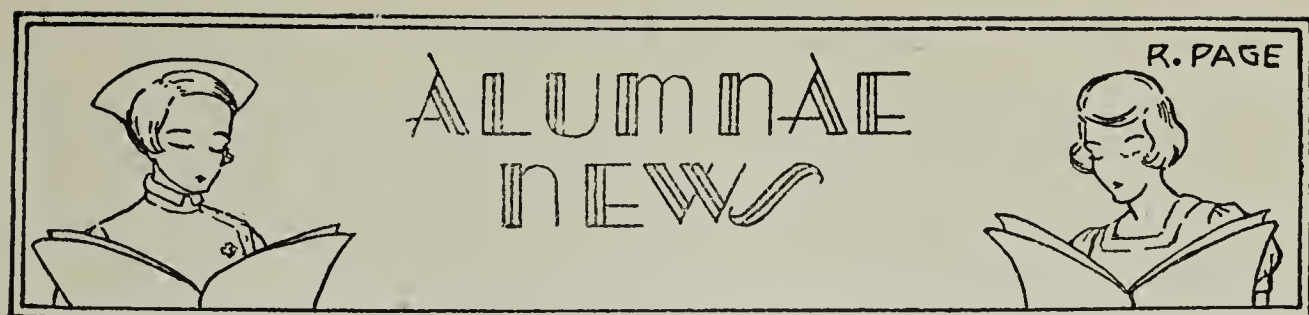

Procurement and Assignment and Its Effect on Schools of Nursing

Preparation of the Student for the Role of Head Nurse

Opportunities of the Senior Cadet Period for Students Enrolled in the United States Cadet Nurse Corps.

Those who attended from the Medical Center were: Miss Conrad, Miss Scott, Miss Covell, Mrs. Martin deForest Smith, Miss Lee, Miss Pettit, Miss Mulcahy, Miss Jansen, Miss Hefernan, Miss Dorsey, Miss Mickiewicz, and Miss B. Jones.

TO MOTHER

Sometimes our life time seems to us
As if it had no end.
A lot of work and worry too,
No sunshine round the bend.
Then suddenly the warning comes,—
A change is near at hand.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

We must leave all we have behind
For a far and sweeter land.
And our mind runs back so quickly,
Thru' the long, long past
And it seems there's yet so much to do
But life is closing fast.

If I could live just long enough
To try my hand again;
I'd do my best to alter things and Strive to ease the pain
Of the One whose been so faithful, loving,
Trusting to the end.
That is the only wish I have,
Dear Soul, my greatest friend.

A very interesting account of the Bath Iron Works Hospital, Bath, Maine, appeared in the "Portland Press Herald," where Esther Hanscom Gregory, superintendent, and her assistant, Henrietta Meriam Bonney, were invited aboard the Destroyer, U.S.S. Higbee at the launching ceremony. No nurse had ever previously been granted this honor. The Navy honored our profession when this destroyer was named for a Canadian nurse, Mrs. Higbee. Mrs. Gregory has been very active with the New England Industrial Nurses Association, writing articles and speaking for the Association. At the present time they are trying to bring university courses in Industrial Hygiene into the local college curricula.

Second Lieutenant Gertrude B. Henchel graduated with 17 other nurses from the School of Military Neuropsychiatric Nursing at Mason General Hospital, Brentwood, New York. Before her appointment to the Army Nurse Corps in December 1943 she was working in the doctors' private offices in the Institute of Ophthalmology at Medical Center.

SCHOOL NEWS

CHRISTMAS, 1944, sounds like an event of ancient history, but to the preliminary students of Maxwell Hall (now freshmen!) it remains a vivid memory. They had their first vacation at that time, and, oh, how nice to be home for the traditional family celebration. The other two classes, left at the hospital, managed to have a good time at the Dramatic-Glee Club program, and also enjoyed the yearly carolling on Christmas Eve. Plans for a holiday dance were cancelled because Bard Hall was having a "furlough," but there will be a Valentine Formal instead. Other social activities looming up for the student nurses include several informal tea dances, to be held at Bard, with Maxwell Hall girls as hostesses. This series of dances comes as a result of the formation of a social committee composed of medical and nursing students. It is a new idea, and therefore, not definitely organized, but so far it has met with wholehearted approval and enthusiasm. The first year students are to be in the limelight, because they do not have the same opportunity for meeting one another.

Since the new year rolled in our main serious topic of conversation has been that of drafting nurses. The talks given by Lt. (jg.) Tabacchi stationed at St. Albans and Army Lt. Murkin, now stationed at Ft. Jay, surely had a good influence on those who heard them. They spoke at one of the Professional Problems' classes before Christmas. Lt. Tabacchi may be remembered as a member of the staff in the Eye Hospital. On the whole, the student nurses do not seem to favor a draft; rather, they seem to be eager to join up as soon as they complete their work here.

The class of 1947 was welcomed, and capped, on January 26, in the traditional candlelight service. Dr. Fordyce B. St. John was the speaker of the evening. The processional of faculty members, alumnae, "big" and "little" sisters was an impressive one. New stripes, new caps—the great day for over 110 students.

As a parting note, we would like to call your attention to the fine article, published in the Christmas issue of Student Prints, by Dr. Hugh Auchincloss. Entitled "Bad News for the Patient," it is graphically written, and expresses the views of many in a manner in which we could not possibly express them.

JEAN GRIFFIN, '45.

13 December, 1944.

To: Miss Conrad.

From: Miss Margaret G. Arnstein, '28, Chief Nursing Branch, UNRRA.

Dear Miss Conrad,

I was lucky enough to spend a week recently in Athens and I saw two of the P. H. alumnae. I thought you might be interested in hearing about them. There were very eager for news from P. H. and wanted me to write to you.

Miss Papasaphiropoulou, is working at Evangelismos Hospital and helped to show us through the hospital. She seemed well and enthusiastic and full of life and spirit, as are all the Greek nurses that we met. Miss Metaxa, matron at Evangelismos and her staff gave us tea in the nurses' home after we had seen the hospital and so we had a little chance to talk to them and get acquainted. Miss Saliari is at present on sick leave, but came to see us at the hotel. She hopes to come back on duty quite soon. They both send greetings to you and to Miss Young and to the other members of the staff. I do not know where to reach Miss Young at the moment, so I wondered whether you would be good enough to transmit this message to her.

It was an extremely interesting week in Athens and I only wish it could have been longer. Miss Baggallay, of course, has stayed on and is in the midst of present troubles.

I am sorry that I do not seem to be able to have time to write more news home, but if I ever have a few consecutive spare moments, I certainly will write to you.

Thanksgiving Day

Dear Miss Young,

Believe me we had real turkey, dressing and everything that goes with a Thanksgiving. We had white tablecloths (sheets) and flowers. It was delicious, and this morning we had a fried egg for breakfast. It was my day off, but we all get up for eggs—breakfast is at 5:00 A.M. It is very hot here and rains almost every day (the censors let us talk about the weather). The birds are beautiful but darn noisy; they awaken us around about 4:00 A.M. We work from 5:45 A.M. to 1:00 P.M. or from 1:00 P.M. to 6:15 P.M. Too hot to work longer hours, unless we have an emergency.

We wear slacks and high boots all the time, on and off duty, take atabrine and sleep under a mosquito net. You should be here. It is all very exciting and interesting. It is worth all my efforts to get in. Tell Miss Lee and give her my best. Do have a happy Christmas. My best to all.

England, December 9th, 1944.

Dear Rieta:

One month today and still alive. Am getting rugged. Am afraid I won't be able to stand steam heat when I return—but not too afraid. I dress in so many layers—no air gets near me but am beginning to get acclimated.

Had a note from Mary (Brundage) today saying that she is on Detached Service with another unit but expects to join her own when they get set up—a long way off! Darn it and I expected to get in touch with her in a week or ten days as we are not staying here.

No word from any of you people yet. Went on a visit to another unit last week. They are quartered in an old castle formerly occupied by Henry VIII. The old devil! It is enormous; huge rooms—several big staircases—winding around stairs, wells reaching to the roof about five stories. Beautiful but ornate ceilings and carvings, huge fireplaces, beautiful grounds, yew trees five or six stories high covered with red berries and holly bushes and trees all over the place.

Saw my first wounded, fresh from Germany. Very pathetic but very inspiring too. They gripe so little and are so happy to have a nice clean bed. Am anxious to get started working.

I'd like a resume of all the P. H. dirt. Somebody must be married or engaged or something. Mary Pembleton has gone on to active duty, she was here on this post. Gordon Stevenson is still here, but not for long.

Excerpts from a letter from Lt. Georgia E. Foster, '31, to Helen Bovee Brown, '26.

Merry Xmas and Happy New Year. This should arrive somewhere around one or the other. Still in England—Happy me! At present we are playing the waiting game—one of the hardest in the world. We fill in the days playing bridge, making decorations for our tree out of strips of tin cans, cellophane and cotton and old XMAS wrappings. Not bad, either—one girl made an angel out of cardboard, drew a cute face, pasted a lock of her own hair on the head and dressed it in cotton with cellophane stars and it is really beautiful. I made snowballs out of "cotton" and hung them with red cord. Anyway mine was the greatest sacrifice. Can't write much as yet but I will. Wish I could see all of you. I often think of the past and hope it won't be too long.

Say hello to Edna (Dugan) and any one else I know.

December 15, 1944.

Dear Boots:

I can't believe it but I'M in Paris on detached service. It all happened very suddenly. Awaiting our move from Normandy we nurses found ourselves on a train Paris bound.
How long—I don't know. We were on the train about a day and a half. At one large city Jan and I had always wanted to see, we dashed off and got two friends in the station to take us on a ten minute tour (jeep ride) of this city, but Bud caught up with our idea and said "no." He was in charge of us all, one man against so many women. So we called Ada Mutch and she dashed down and had a quick chat with us all, which was fun. At 3 A.M. they pulled us off the train in Paris, so sleepy! we were then divided into different groups and sent to various hospitals on D.S. Jan, Kay Edwards, another girl and I arrived at a swell hospital, the American Hospital of Paris and a wonderful place to be. Luxuries that we had forgotten about after Normandy and had to get accustomed to again. We must have looked funny coming in in our fatigues and boots to all this swank. It is near Paris and Jan and I have been getting around quite a bit. I went the other day to see Jeannie B. Smith and Jordie who are with others at the largest most beautiful modern hospital, all working hard. But we're convinced that we are the luckiest.

There is so much to do, when I have a breathing space I'll fit all this into a story. Tonight it is the Opera.

DITTO.

Excerpts from a letter from Lt. Clara Batchelder Peery, '38, No. 722795, 2nd Gen'l. Dispensary, SHAEF, APO No. 757, c/o P.M., N. Y.

December 13th, 1944.

For a quick tour of me and my whereabouts, we'll have to start back last February when Maggie Cordes Dey and I left the Second General Hospital to join a dispensary. Spent a week keeping warm in a Nieson hut about 30 miles from Oxford. Came orders, we left there for a small town outside of London where we found we were part of SHAEF, met our C.O. who is a wonderful man—middle-aged, from Idaho and thoroughly swell. Had been Battalion surgeon for the 3d division—was in the landings in Africa and Sicily and from there had joined Allied Force Hqs. dispensary in Algiers where he worked for some time, with our Major Flood. Also our chief nurse, now a Capt., Ethel Westerman, a charming and very capable person who has turned out to be a very dear friend to both Maggie and me. She was Asst. Supervisor at Englewood Hospital, knew a lot of our P.H. nurses, and came over with the Harvard unit almost 4 years ago. She and the Colonel were the only 2 from Africa, the rest of us from various places in England—only 2 other nurses both from the 5th General.

It was interesting and certainly a much different life from that in Oxford—we watched SHAEF move in—watched our buildings being built, and generally felt much a part of things since we were among the first to arrive—I still remember the first time I sat in the chair that was to be General Ike's—Clara Emma—freckles and all!

We were busy opening the dispensary—one main one with a small ward, capacity 18, and 2 small sick call dispensaries in nearby areas with 10 beds each. We're completely set up with 3 dentists, ENT specialists, down to having ultra violet and infra-red lamps. The main purpose of our organization in addition to sick call which lasts all day—is to take care of as much of our personnel as possible thus relieving Gen. Hosp. Lack of X-Ray equipment and of course operating facilities make it impossible to keep everyone here—but particularly since being in France we've done a rushing business.

Socially it has been fun—We have not had any dormitory life since joining the dispensary. In England we billeted with English people and here we have a cute little apartment reminiscent of N. Y. The people have been fun meeting—There are so many fine men in SHAEF—Maggie and I have been terribly spoiled all the way round—so many people who formerly we had read about, we have met and found out that they are real personalities, interesting to know and fun to be with.

We had a short touch of tent life, when there was an advance post established in the wards near the coast pre-invasion. Maggie had more of that than I but I managed a few weeks of it.

When I heard that 2nd general hospital had left for France I was most unhappy but we followed shortly after. We were on the coast of Normandy for a while and then moved up here—not too far from the big city where we've been since the beginning of September. Here we have 34 beds—in the upstairs of a lovely old house and downstairs is the dispensary—also three other branches scattered about. We have many more casual outfits here to take care of—Signals—Railroad operators and boys making their way back to the front, from hospitals in the rear. In addition we have many French accident cases. The French walk, ride bikes and drive willy nilly—cross roads mean nothing to them and they are always getting banged up and good.

“BATCH.”

Letter to Miss Allanach

From Ada Mutch
Hq. Loire Section
CZ. ETO, APO 573
New York, N. Y.
6 October 1944.

Dear Al,

I started to write you a V mail and then realized I hadn't written to you since I had been in France and so I decided to give you more details in a letter.

I have made several moves in this country but I seem to be settled here for a while now with the above address. It is a wonder I ever get any mail because I change my address so often.

I had never been in this section of France before and so it is very interesting to be in a new location. I am billeted in a hotel which has been taken over by our officers. I have a very nice room and bath, very nicely furnished. Of course there are some inconveniences such as no hot water or heat and at first we didn't have any electricity. We now have some of the latter and it is a great improvement; however, I always keep my candles and flashlight in a handy place. I am now able to use my radio and I can get the news and some good programs. Last night I listened to the World Series and so that really makes us feel closer to home. My room is just like an ice box in the evening but I wrap up in a blanket in a chair and manage to keep warm. At first I had to take cold tub baths but now I can get a hot shower twice a week down at the enlisted men's barracks. They have set aside certain hours for ladies and I can really get clean and warm.

I have been to Paris once on business but I managed to get around a little while I was there. I went with the General and he had to stay an extra day, which was very nice for me. I managed to have a small P.H. reunion with Pete Rousselot, John Nelson and Rocky Keith. Pete is in charge of a beautiful hospital. It is similar to the Medical Center. It was only built in 1938 and has been used mostly by the Germans. They left some wonderful equipment.

None of the buildings in Paris have been damaged and so the city is still very beautiful. The gay life is gradually returning to normal. The people are well dressed and the women's hats are really something. I wonder if they are the same in New York. The city is very different from London, which has taken such a beating. I did not go to any of the night clubs or theatres but hope to on my next visit there.

The small theatre in this city just opened last week. I went last night to see a comic opera. It was in French and although I did not understand everything, I enjoyed it very much. The acting and singing were both good. I plan to go again soon.

My French is slowly improving. I take lessons from a Frenchman three evenings a week and I am really learning a great deal about French customs and conversation. I have also become friendly with a French family and they have been helping me with my French. The mother and daughter can speak a little English and so I help them with English. I usually visit them one evening a week. Last Sunday they invited me to dinner and I had quite a time. They are not wealthy people but they certainly got out their best for me. We sat down to eat at 12 and finished about 3:30. Everything is served in different courses and that is why it takes so long. We had hors d'oeuvres of radishes, minced pork, sardines and hard boiled egg with French bread and butter, then roast veal and lima beans, lettuce salad and dessert was cake with chocolate icing. Along with the meal we had the proper wines consisting of an aperitif before dinner and then five year old cider and three different kinds of red wine of ancient vintage with the meal. We had white wine with dessert. The French coffee just now is very poor and so they added some calvados to the after dinner coffee to improve the taste. It reminded me of the cafe brulée in New Orleans. After the coffee we had two kinds of liqueurs. I had planned to go back to the office for a couple of hours but I changed my mind and went home and slept instead.

I don't have many hospitals under my supervision at the present moment but we expect more. We are so far behind the front line we are not getting many of the casualties at the present time.

The St. Luke's unit was located nearby a few weeks ago and I saw some of the nurses. They were having a few weeks rest but they have not moved further front.

I haven't seen the P.H. nurses except for one visit just after I arrived in this country.

I wish I could drop in for a good chat with you.

Love

ADA.

Letters from Lt. Aileen Hogan, '40.

France, Dec. 20, 1944.

Dear Kitty:

This is just a note to keep the mail box full. I had intended devoting this entire week to letters. But somehow a children's Christmas party got under way and I found myself on a committee of two to trim the tree. Then it turned out that the kids should have "a few candies each." It all sounded so simple. The party turns out to be for 103 children. So I'm busy getting 103 packages ready. It really is fun, especially if you know the Army. A poster must be made and posted but before the poster can be made, permission must be obtained from the 1st Sgt.'s office. The permit is made—signed and posted on the bulletin board. Poster is then put up. Daily I make rounds and collect the candy. Each child is to get a chocolate bar, a small bag (one handful) of mixed candies, hard; one package of life savers, two sticks of gum.

Before worrying about the candy you make the little bags from collected writing paper. Then brown paper must be collected, and paper being precious, it is like prying gold away from them. Eventually it will all be ready. In the mean time our room looks like nothing on earth. I have to go out and leave it all every once in a while. Living from under one's bed is bad enough—but when you add the turmoil of a children's Christmas party it is bedlam.

Major Sloane is to be Santa. Colonel Schullinger started the ball rolling for the party but we hear he is going home. We will miss him very much. He does things so smoothly.

On the 16th your package arrived with Nescofe—sausage—hard candy—E. M. soap—tea—sardines—kleenex—soup. I thank you very much.

We hope to be settled sometime. Liz Habif is back with us—the first to return. Dave was to have been here but I guess he is jumping too.

Robbie is much better—up and around, but tires very easily.

We have to make all the trimmings for the trees. There are none here. No toys—not a candy for five years. The kids have never tasted cocoa or coffee. Everyone is cutting out angels stringing red berries, slicing “cycles” from quart tin cans, stars cut from cans, snow made from excelsior—white paper.

Christmas eve the party is for the men—Christmas day for the children.

I won't be able to write coherently till it is over and then we may be throwing our own things together.

My French class comes on apace. I now have the French family at a point where they talk to me without embarrassment. At first they folded their hands and silently waited for me to carry on the conversation in French. It is marvelous what you can do in an emergency.

Christmas Eve—France, 1944.

Dear Kitty:

All our many plans for the nuit de Noel have gone awry, but we still have a good fire and are capable of enjoying it. So Robbie and I are scribbling away the hours till time for midnight mass.

We worked like Trojans all week getting things ready for the children's party tomorrow and the men's party tonight, our own private "crepe" party in town and various other small plans. But we have gone military over night, and all fetes are off.

The French are doing a good job of rounding up the parachutists. As the parachutists are in American uniforms, speak English and carry American identification it simplifies matters for the French if we keep out of town and off the roads.

Robbie and I have had a busy day. We had invited the school teacher from across the road to the military High Mass in town, with us today. As it was not being celebrated in town we dashed across the street and asked them over to our Mass here. They came.

Just at dusk a long low khaki Packard drove up—we expected at least a four star general. It was Joyce Connors' sister—who is working in the Red Cross a few hours (by Packard) from here. It's the first time they have met in 2½ years.

We had another re-union. One of our nicest sergeants received word that his Father had died. It was the first break in the family and he took it pretty hard. Our Red Cross arranged for his brother, who was up at the front, to come back here and spend Christmas with him. It does a lot just to see someone you know, much less a "blood relation."

No word this week from Judy's team—but we feel no news is good news just now. Field hospitals are so mobile that they must be all right. Captain Lamb and Major Province being on their team is a great relief to our minds also.

Downstairs the choir is having a last practice—the strains of "Silent Night—Holy Night" float up to us—all the pauses filled in by the drone of planes overhead.

At the last minute yesterday permission came through for Miss Peto to go to Paris—all the girls in different hospitals there have been frantic for news, so she was so happy to get there before Christmas with their mail and packages and "good cheer" rations. It will help them over the Yuletide season. I can just see Anne Waldvogal and Westie and Marie sitting down to an evening with their letters and packages and a glass of champagne.

It was a hectic day for Miss Peto.

Robbie and I were supposed to go to Paris to help out somewhere and we are still keeping our fingers crossed. We do not want to be sent back to Paris at this time. However it is all in the book, I suppose.

I can just see Miss Peto getting around Paris with all her packages. There probably isn't another Chief Nurse in the Army who would do it. She hopes she doesn't get arrested—the Army is not accustomed to Majors acting as mail clerks—and distributing champagne.

It was seven o'clock when I finished the above. It is now 10. The fire must have heard me saying we still had a good fire. At the above point smoke started to pour out from every crevice in the stove. For half an hour I tried every known device. Still the smoke came. So it was doused with water—all coal and ashes removed and started from scratch. Worse than ever—the smoke just billowed out. This necessitated opening the windows which meant all lights out. It is freezing outside and in no time at all we were freezing inside, too.

About this time a stray German plane decided to pass overhead and a few guns went off and the plane, just to let us know he was still there, let off a round of rat-a-tat-tats. Sounded like a Chicago gangster film.

At this point I heaved a pail of water into the stove and decided to do a little sulking myself. However it was too cold. I turned on the lights and looked around—there was soot on everything—you couldn't see the writing on this paper.

I suddenly remembered Judy's little stove and hauled it out and got it to go long enough to heat a basin of water—so at least Robbie and I have clean faces for the midnight mass.

The annoying part is that Robbie and I just moved up to take over Bun's apartment and we've spent hours getting everything polished up. There were five of us downstairs in a small apartment and only two up here in a much bigger one. Miss Peto goes around and gets everyone settled and never thinks of her own place, so she found herself in a tiny 2x4 with Laura, Robbie, Judy and I in the 2x4 next door to her. She should have an apartment for herself and some service—but she would never ask for it, and our doctors would never think of arranging for it for her.

I've peeked in all my packages but haven't really opened them. Just fished down a minute ago for Nescafe and Honey and made myself a piece of toast (Robbie has succeeded in getting a tiny grate fire going in her room).

It is a clear cold brisk night out. Christmas carols will be sung at 11:30 and mass at twelve. The children's tree really looks lovely, it seems such a shame they can't come. At least we can send their packages to the Mayor so he can distribute them.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

Miss Peto has just come back. Now that we are eight, it is easier to keep track of each other. The water system, including the Lister bags are frozen solid—I'm glad I'm not a water drinker. If this sounds as bad in the morning as it does now it won't be mailed.

A letter from Jessie Kohr, '29.

2210 Kalia Rd.
Honolulu 20, T.H.
June 17, 1944.

Dear Miss Conrad:

Time flies! It seems such a short time ago that I said "Good-bye" to everyone at P.H., but almost two years have gone by. We thought about you all on graduation day, and hope the Alumnae Association received our cable all right.

A letter from the Red Cross came yesterday. After July first our unit here will not be under the Red Cross, officially, as they are closing the Emergency Hospital. But the Red Cross has advised us all to stay over here although some of the girls are going back to the mainland as soon as transportation is available. I wrote to the Red Cross and told them I wanted to do further work with them as soon as things opened up further west. In the meantime, probably a matter of months, I am to stay here and "shift for myself" so to speak.

The Red Cross surely has been wonderful to me. Before I was here a month I was asked to do some teaching for them. So the first summer I was here I spent on the island of Maui, and the second summer I went to Hawaii, both times to teach classes of Volunteer Nurses' Aides. Both islands are very beautiful—almost beyond description—high mountains, lovely green valleys and then the blue Pacific. I have never seen such beautiful natural scenery as I have seen in these islands. Most of the girls have not been off Oahu.

Last spring I taught two classes of Nurses' Aides here in Honolulu but since last October I have been teaching student nurses in a non-accredited school of nursing which is trying desperately to raise its standards to become accredited. The girls are all of Japanese parentage, but American citizens and high school graduates.

People over here expect a Red Cross Nurse to know everything, and be able to do anything! It is amazing! I have been teaching Practical Nursing, Drugs and Solutions, Materia Medica, and History of Nursing, and I am sure I have learned much more than my students. I have had plenty of headaches but on the whole have enjoyed it very much.

I have been asked to stay on here as well as teach at both St. Frances and Queens Hospitals, the two accredited Schools in the islands, but I am going to Queens, only temporarily of course, as I am on call for the Red Cross. Anyone from P.H. rates very high here because of the excellent work of Miss Kerr at Queens, so I am trying to keep up that high standard.

I am living with Miss Kerr in a cute little house in Waikiki. Every night I am lulled to sleep by the surf on the beach. However I go in swimming very little—I get home too late for it.

I am very envious of the girls in England, they are really doing things, but someday I hope to be in the thick of things too.

Please remember me to all my friends in P.H. Very best wishes.

January 1, 1945.

Dear Miss Conrad:

A hasty note to let you know the candy and the bed jacket arrived in time for Xmas. We ate some of the candy at our Xmas dinner which I'm afraid was a cold and dismal affair. We had to use mess gear and the lights were poor and we had been strafed and only about 1/5 of the Unit was together. There were only eight nurses at the bivouac area. The weather was so cold that the water froze. In spite of it all, some managed a little cheer. I stayed up all night with Skippy Reeves, two P.T. Aids and a member of the Red Cross. We had real eggs for breakfast. Everyone worked very hard during the German push but things are a little lighter now. We felt badly about not having a hospital at that time but none of the nurses were wasted as they all went to other hospitals to help. I had to spend my time trying to teach new men to be nurses. The American Hospital in Paris is the 365 U. S. Army Station Hospital now. K. Edwards, D. Hastings and J. David are there on detached service. Several packages came from P.H. Contents distributed as needed.

Sincerely,

M. PETO.

Excerpt from a letter dated January 2, 1945.

The packages arrived wherever the nurses were at the time, and they were in fourteen different places. The gifts were distributed to those needing them. It was impossible to see that each person got a gift but no one in the outfit went without some Christmas Cheer.

They are always glad to hear from anyone at home and wish everyone a Happier New Year.

Much love.

MARJORIE PETO.

Excerpt from a letter from Mrs. Robert C. Locher (Elmira McDermott, '39, 1812 Bremen St., Austin, Texas.

December 26, 1944.

I plan to stay here in Austin with our two youngsters, for the duration.

It will indeed seem strange to stay in one place for awhile. At the risk of sounding like a vagabond, I'll relate briefly where we've been—We started in Louisiana, and then to Iowa. From there to Texas, back to Louisiana. Then for a change to Texas again. Then to Pennsylvania, and California next. We went back to Texas after that. New York was our next stop, and now here we are in the Lone Star State again. Our little boy was born in Louisiana and our girl in California. Both children are veteran travelers, and both have been in more than half the states. They have surely thrived on it, and I can never complain of having had a dull moment.

Excerpts from a letter from Lieutenant Ernestine Arnold, '27 written in New Guinea, November, 1944:

Am I glad I brought my iron and washboard. The board certainly saves my knuckles. We wear slacks all the time on duty and at 6 P.M. we add leggings to our uniforms. Atabrine and leggings are a must in New Guinea. It is hot and the mosquitoes are bad. We are up at 5 A.M., have breakfast at 5:20, and are on duty at 6 A.M. That may sound early to you all, but we get used to it and like it.

It is amazing what has been and is being done here. I believe that after seeing all this that the Yanks can do anything they make up their minds to do. We were glad to see them. When we landed, they met the boat. We all got into one of the "Ducks" and rode miles and miles. The "Ducks" can do just about anything, climb hills, cross water, and bring one home without a scratch.

Excerpts from a letter to Miss Conrad from Jean Clark Murray, '37.

40th Station Hospital
A.P.O. No. 366 c/o Postmaster
New York, New York
November 26, 1944

Dear Miss Conrad:

Two Quarterlies finally arrived here after wandering around for an unknown period. I was so happy to hear all the news though it made me feel quite homesick. It is a peculiar thing but in years overseas I have not seen anyone who was really from P.H. and whom I knew. . . . We had hoped to be sent to France after D-day but instead we merely moved to another location in Corsica. . . .

Our new set-up is quite convenient. There are 4 ward tents connected endwise with an office between the 2nd and 3rd. It makes a 60 bed ward. We were still in the process of construction when we had a terrific wind storm during the night. I was on night duty in the . . . section which held up pretty well as it was heavily reinforced inside with planking for the individual confinements. We did lose a door, a window and part of the roof but the day men had come over as soon as the wind began to blow and they managed to put it back together before the rain started. Ours was the only stove still working in the entire hospital. . . . The storm occurred between 8 P.M. and 10 P.M. and literally blew down about half of the hospital. One of the night nurses moved her patients (120) three times, each time getting out just before the tent collapsed entirely. Our tents are framed with 2 x 4 beams and 1 inch planking but the whole business was just one mess of beds, records, canvas, tent poles, stove pipes, and electric wiring. The amazing thing is that no one was hurt except for superficial scratches. Several neighboring outfits came to help us and the next day the engineers got busy and really tied us down. They have threatened that the next hospital they build for us will be in dugouts with rocks on top!

Our quarters are known as "The Stockade" because of the burlap fence which gives us a small degree of privacy. They are pyramidal tents which have at the most three occupants and in several there are only one or two. I am one of the fortunate ones to have a whole tent. Only those who have lived in a pyramidal tent with three other women and their belongings can appreciate the blessed luxury of being able to spread out.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

. . . Our chief worry at present is rats and mice. We are having an extensive poisoning campaign and we are all afraid they will get in under something and die. I keep a close eye on my ceiling as it would be just the place they would be likely to choose. . . .

It would be good to see the states again but I think I would prefer to be overseas when I'm in the Army. I'm hoping to see my husband before he gets sent to the Pacific but I'm afraid the chances are slim. . . .

Couldn't you publish a list of those in the Armed Forces giving their unit and A.P.O. I think if we had such a list we might manage to see one another once in a while. I'm sure there must be some P.H. girls in Italy and if I knew where, I might manage to see them when I get to the replacement depot.

Excerpts from a letter to Miss Helen Young from 2nd Lt. Isabel Harrell, '35.

December 20, 1944.

My dear Miss Young:

I enjoyed your "visiting letter" tremendously. It arrived almost two weeks ago and I have wanted to answer it in time to send you my best wishes for your happiness at Christmas and during 1945, but we have been very busy and moving frequently, therefore, not much time for letter writing.

About a month ago we broke away from our "settled state" which had lasted for about five weeks. We went out with a brand new outfit. . . . At this time we also had floors put in our tents and walked to and from the Hospital and Mess Hall. If you wanted to go any place else you fought the elements, mainly mud! We were quite busy there at first, especially as we only had three teams and that meant working 24 hours on and 12 off. Seventeen teams from the first Auxiliary Surgical Group were then attached to us and two came to our hospital, but my team was not able to enjoy all this help as we were sent out to . . . one night about ten o'clock. A 1st Auxiliary team and one of our other ones came with us and we arrived to find a horrible mud hole with half a hospital set up and another new clearing station to contend with—all this on Thanksgiving Eve.

We had a good Thanksgiving Dinner in spite of the turmoil and later we got to be very fond of our new edition. From this spot on we have been in buildings, the first being with the same outfit and our home being a Ski Resort Hotel on top of a hill. It was lovely and living was super-duper with steam heat, hot and cold water, attractive and comfortable rooms and after the first four or five days our time was spent in enjoying the luxuries and beauties around us. We hated to leave this spot but ten days was about all we could have of such luxury and it was probably a good thing as we all began to realize how much we missed that sort of thing. We next were set-up in a Catholic School where the Nuns were able to speak some English, informing us that they had looked after the Germans when they were there. This was the "hottest" spot we have encountered since coming to France—it got so hot that we had to be evacuated one afternoon as the chief nurse got very worried about our lives. It was in shelling area and some hit the roof but the three of us from the 2nd Auxiliary had no idea of deserting our post and were terribly upset at being recalled. The whole hospital came back the next day. In this move I had tough luck in that some how my camera, overcoat, combat jacket and a barrack bag full of shoes, soap, stationery, and all my field equipment got lost. I was hoping that when we came up here the other day we would locate these things but so far they have not come to light. C'est la guerre!

We are now in another nice set-up—a former children's hospital. Once again we have nice rooms, a meager supply of steam heat, electricity and running warm and cold water and so far no patients. We are hoping to stay here through Christmas and New Year's but if we don't get some patients I imagine there won't be much chance of that. We are using the hospital personnel beds, etc., and they have the wonderful down foot warmers so common to this part of the country. It's like having a soft, warm cloud over you!

I am scheduled to go to Paris for a two days leave some time in early January. I'm most anxious to go except for the ride there and back which is a 12 hour ride in a 2½ ton truck. If I do get there I'm hoping to get in touch with some of the Unit.

I visited an apartment of a former Nazi agent the other night and you have never seen such "Heil Hitlers"—even the blankets on the bed were decorated. The occupants had fled so we had a time rumaging around, and I must say from the looks of the furniture, dishes, etc., that they were not lacking in luxuries.

A patient has arrived and my team is on so I must stop this letter and go to work. I should love to hear from you again, my best wishes.

RESIGNATION OF DR. WILLIAM DARRACH

ON February 1, 1945, Dr. William Darrach resigned from the Medical Board, as Attending Surgeon and Chief of the Fracture Service of the Presbyterian Hospital.

His distinguished career has made vital contributions in many fields:—to Medical Education as Dean of the College of Physicians and Surgeons; to Nursing Education, as Chairman of the Committee on the Grading of Nursing Schools; and to Surgery, since his Internship in 1901—with service in World War I, Chairmanship of the Committee on Fractures of the American College of Surgeons, and the Directorship of our own Fracture Department. During the years of planning for the establishment of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center, his position as Dean of the Medical School made his counsel and judgment important constructive factors.

Throughout his professional life, Dr. Darrach has been an inspiring friend of nursing, with high ideals for its achievements.

We are happy to know that he is remaining as a Consultant at the Presbyterian Hospital.

“MAMIE”

NOT to many of us is given the privilege and satisfaction of serving an organization without interruption for 50 years; and when that organization is one committed by incorporation and tradition to the care of humanity the contribution is all the more remarkable. Mamie came on duty as a ward helper on Miss Maxwell's pay-roll, in the old hospital at 41 East 70th Street, on March 8, 1895. She later married Mr. John (Jack) Clegg, but continued her connection with the hospital. When Florence Nightingale Hall was opened as a nurses' residence in 1905, Miss Maxwell put her in charge of the desk. It was in this position that Mamie had the most to do with the students in the school and since these students presently became Alumnae, Mamie has many warm friends and admirers among them. In this position she was really unique. She "kept track" of all the visitors, including the beaux, in such a personal way that you not only got your calls but she often had all the "inside information" and the boxes of candy. She helped the beginner to avoid some of the pitfalls of the ignorant. She took care of the reception room and whisked her duster so energetically that it was said she brushed the offending probationer not only off the chair but right upstairs. At the Medical Centre she was given a similar position in the graduate residence.

To the Alumnae Association forty years seemed a long time and so on March 8, 1935—Mamie's long service was recognized and she received a check hiding in a box of spring flowers.

At the end of fifty years the Board voted to so honor her again. Individual members in the City contributed fifty dollars and the Association gave a like sum. It was decided that as many as possible would send a greeting card through the mail to start the day and Mamie was to receive a crisp new hundred dollar bill hidden in a blue and white bouquet. But Mamie planned differently. At 7 A.M. the telephone operator called to say that no one was answering 212 on Floor D. Investigation proved Mamie was not there. A neighbor in her apartment house was asked to waken her only to find that she was very ill with bronchial pneumonia. She was immediately admitted to the hospital with a temperature of 103°. By evening she had a temperature of 105° and was very toxic. A single room, oxygen tent, penicillin, family and the priest were all indicated.

At eleven o'clock on the morning of her admission Mr.

John S. Parke, Executive Vice-President, Miss Margaret McCurdie, Administrative Assistant, Miss Winifred Kaltenbach, Assistant Director of Nursing, Babies Hospital, and Miss Margaret Eliot, Assistant Director of Nursing, Presbyterian Hospital, went up to her bedside and although she was far from interested, the presentation, intended to be made at the tea, was made at the bedside, the flowers left with her and the hundred dollar bill placed in the safe. We all felt very sad and subdued—thinking what an anticlimax our celebration had turned out to be.

The following morning immediately after the night report, Miss Eliot went up to see for herself how Mamie was—to find her temperature was 99° and she was much more alert. After greeting Miss Eliot she said “Do you think one of those ‘girls’ could comb my hair before the doctor makes rounds?” Penicillin is getting the credit for Mamie’s rapid recovery, but we all think, knowing Mamie, that she had something to do with it herself. She is well on the way to recovery and before this goes to press will be out at Mary Harkness Home for Convalescents among the birds and blossoms. Her rapid return to health is a great source of satisfaction to the Alumnae and we are hoping she will comfortably enjoy many more years of activity.

Mamie’s home address is:

515 West 168th Street
New York 32, N. Y.

COBBLE COURT, INC.

Auxiliary To Nurses' house

SOME of our Alumnae will remember that during the depression of 1932 Cobble Court, Incorporated, came into being. It began in a quaint 150 year old house on York Avenue opposite the new buildings of the New York-Cornell Medical Center near 70th Street. The little house which boasted a Cobble Court (a small back yard paved with cobble stones) was used for a shop and a tea-room where some nurses were employed and others sold their handiwork—the shop acting as an exchange. Cobble Court at this time opened a beauty shop in the Nurses' residence of the then New York Hospital, which still functions as a source of revenue.

All this was made possible by some New York City nurses, many of whom were connected with the A.I.C.P. and Nurses' House at Babylon, Long Island. Realizing the plight of many of their associates they wished to do something to relieve the situation. Over $10,000 was raised by the nurses from contributions and with the help of the Emergency Work Bureau.

When the tea house closed in 1935 there was over $2,000 in the treasury and on April 11th of that year the Board of Directors voted to contribute this sum to the Nurses' House Service Fund. At this time they also voted to offer the facilities of Cobble Court, Inc. to Nurses' House as an auxiliary committee to the Committee on Management. It was felt that this was the most effective way of reaching those for whom these funds and activities were intended. The articles of the corporation as well as the Beauty Shop were retained. All this was made possible by two nurses well known to most of us, Miss Alta E. Dines and Miss Florence M. Johnson, whose efforts and thoughtfulness have given to Nurses' House its incomparable charm and friendly atmosphere. In this connection I should like to mention Mrs. August Belmont, Chairman of Nurses' House Committee who for many years has been an inspiration to nurses everywhere and a devoted friend and benefactor of Nurses' House.

Since this reorganization, Cobble Court has made contributions to Nurses' House with three main purposes in mind—to pay the expenses of nurses for convalescence at Nurses' House who otherwise would not be able to use it, to assist in the operating costs of Nurses' House as needed, and to help in financing expenditures to maintain the buildings and grounds. These contributions are raised through one dollar memberships, yearly gifts from Alumnae Associations and proceeds of benefits.

1945 marks the Twentieth Anniversary of Nurses' House and the Board of Directors of Cobble Court, Inc. will be hostesses at a tea to be given there for its members on May 30th. One dollar will make you a member of Cobble Court and we would be glad to have you come and see and feel for yourself the charms of Nurses' House.

MARGARET ELIOT, '21,

NEW CHANGES IN PROCEDURE

It may interest our Graduates to know that the old method of giving infusions, clyses and transfusions at the Medical Center has been replaced by a new system. The Fenwal System has been put into use this month for the administration of parenteral fluids. This offers a very simple, practical and scientific method of giving fluids. The solutions are made and sterilized in the Solution Room and the sets, packed in a small tray with a cover, are autoclaved in the Surgical Supply Room.

PAYROLL PLAN

A weekly pay-roll plan for all non-professional groups on the hospital staff was instituted on April 1, 1945. The wage progression scale, which provides for increases at regular intervals, went into effect in June 1944 and has proved satisfactory. Both of these changes are accepted modern personnel practices.

GRADUATION

GRADUATION will be held on Thursday, June 7, 1945 at four o'clock in the garden of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center. The speaker will be Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, well known to our alumnae through his long association and devoted friendship with everyone connected with the Presbyterian Hospital. Dr. Coffin is retiring as president of Union Theological Seminary this June.

Twenty-five years ago the graduation exercises were held for the first time outside of Florence Nightingale Hall in the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church and Dr. Coffin was the speaker. The Class of 1920 numbered 58 graduates, the largest graduating class in the history of the School up to that time. The Class of 1945, graduating this June numbers 107.

No reunions or class luncheons will be arranged this year because of war-time restrictions on travel and food. However, alumnae should welcome this opportunity to show their loyalty to their school by contributing to the Helen Young Scholarship Fund, for graduate study.

The annual meeting of the Alumnae Association will be held in Anna C. Maxwell Hall on Friday afternoon, June 8th at three o'clock followed by the usual social hour with tea on the lawn.

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE'S MASTERPIECE

A NNOUNCEMENT was made in the February 1945 issue of The Quarterly Magazine (page 20) of Dr. Arthur Neergaard's gift of books for our Florence Nightingale Collection.

The following description of one of these books has just been received. "NIGHTINGALE (Florence). Notes on matters affecting the health, efficiency, and hospital administration of the British army, founded chiefly on the experiences of the late war. Presented by request to the Secretary of State for War. Printed by Harrison and Sons, 1858.

First edition, 2 vols., original wrappers, uncut and unopened, thick 8vo. Sir Edward Cook, Miss Nightingale's biographer, writes of this book that it 'is, I suppose, the least known, but it is the most remarkable of her works. It is little known because it was never published.' It was the threat that she held over the head of Lord Panmure that, if the Royal Commission was not appointed she would publish it. Cook goes on 'But at her own expense she printed the NOTES for private circulation among influential people, and upon all who read it the work created, as well it might, a profound impression. Kingslake describes it as 'a treasury of authentic statement and wise disquisition, affording a complete elucidation of the causes which had brought about failure, whilst also showing the means by which in future wars, our country might best hope to compass the truly sacred task of providing for the health of the troops.' . . . The wide range of the book, and its mastery of detail on a great variety of subjects, are as remarkable as its firm consistent grasp of general principles.'

'Notes on Nursing,' published two years later, was merely a popular abridgement of the detailed study which had gone into the earlier, privately printed book, and only the extreme rarity of these two weighty volumes has made possible the great reputation which the comparatively insignificant little book of 1860 has acquired among collectors. It was the 1858 volumes which formed the basis of the subsequent report of the Royal Commission and of all the administrative reforms consequent upon it, and is the foundation of all the sanitary and nursing reforms in the Army which are associated with the name of Miss Nightingale."

ELEANOR LEE, '20.

RESEARCH ON MALARIA

The following is an account of a recent malarial research program carried on at Bellevue Hospital, New York City. The author, Veronica Kish Goddard, '41, was Head Nurse of the Malaria Unit there.

When Japan seized Java which produced ninety per cent of the world's supply of quinine, it became imperative that the Allied Forces find some substitute for the drug. Atabrine at that time was considered to be too dangerous. Plasmochin was known to be too toxic; with the tremendous increase in the incidence of malaria, and the sudden removal of the supply of the one drug which was considered the only one of value, an enormous problem arose. The United States had some quinine in reserve but not enough to meet its needs. A Malarial Program directed by the National Research Council was organized. In various laboratories and hospitals throughout the country, chemicals were examined for anti-malarial activity, tested for toxicity and then tried on experimental animals. When, after exhausting research too long to mention in this brief article, a drug was shown to possess anti-malarial properties in animals, it was given to human volunteers. These volunteers, scientists, conscientious objectors and penitentiary prisoners well realized the risks they took.

It has long been known that malaria has been beneficial at times in treating schizophrenia. A coordinated program for studying the effects of malarial fever on schizophrenia and other psychiatric conditions, and the effects of certain new drugs on artificially produced malaria, was instituted at Bellevue Psychiatric Hospital in the beginning of 1944.

Negroes, former inhabitants of or travelers in malarial endemic areas (South America, Africa, China, India, the Caribbean and Mediterranean areas) and patients who had suffered from malaria, previously, were excluded from this study; the latter two because it is known that some form of immunity is established during an attack of the disease, and the former because the negro race possesses a degree of immunity. Such pre-established immunity would make questionable any beneficial effects of the drug. Excellent physical health was a necessity because of the debilitation caused by malaria, several other criteria were important in the selection of the patient.

For purposes of control, the amount of malaria given, the length of fever, the amount of drug and the time the drug was given, and the period of observation after clinical and laboratory cessation of malaria, were approximately the same in each patient. If after a second re-inoculation of malaria, the patient showed clinical and laboratory symptoms of the disease, the potency of the drug is terminating the first attack could not be questioned. Any previous unknown immunity would have prevented a recurrence.

Laboratory infected malaria does not recur as does mosquito infected malaria. The reason for this has not yet been fully explained. However, since this is true, there was no danger that these patients would suffer from recurrences of this infection nor would they be capable of infecting mosquitoes and thus spread the disease.

In April 1944, Miss Conrad sent four Presbyterian Hospital nurses to Bellevue to organize a unit and maintain nursing care for the malaria patients. Later senior students, pre-military nurses and nurses whose appointments to the Armed Services or the Visiting Nurse Service were not effective for several months, aided in this program.

Although the capacity of the unit was fifteen patients, the census never reached that total. The necessary rigid selection of patients, the dread of both family and patient to the disease, the thirty day limit of hospitalization, and other reasons contributed to the usual census of not more than five or six patients.

Much was accomplished in those eight months at Bellevue Hospital. The nature of the drugs used and their effects must for military reasons be kept secret until after the war. The nurses who helped with this project have been greatly benefitted. The student nurses in particular gained an excellent insight into the problems of administration and the difficulties of research. All can view with deeper appreciation the results of past medical research and the discoveries of the future. They know the symptoms, causes, and treatment of the many malarias. They know that atabrine is the present drug of choice and that even if quinine should become plentiful again, it will not be used when atabrine is available.

The Bellevue Hospital Research Unit closed in November 1944, but the search for a better drug is still being carried on in other hospitals.

ELECTRIC SHOCK THERAPY

In recent years electric shock therapy has been gaining favor in the treatment of certain psychiatric disorders. The following article, describing the work done at Neurological Institute was written by Ilona L. Szabo, '35, who is Head Nurse of the Electric Shock Therapy Department.

THE Electric Shock Therapy Department in Neurological Institute was started in May, 1943. In these two years we have given approximately 1,990 treatments to 268 patients.

The doctors giving the treatments are members of the Columbia University Staff and include: Dr. Alfred Gallinek, Dr. William B. Horwitz, Dr. Robert McGraw and Dr. Bernard L. Pacella. Dr. Lothar Kalinowsky at present, is Assistant Neurologist at Neurological Institute.

Electric shock therapy has received considerable publicity these last few years. To many people "shock" therapy appears still in the experimental stage and about which, very little is known. They are surprised to learn that the term "shock" therapy was introduced to psychiatry as early as 1933 by Dr. Sakel in Vienna. It was associated with his work with insulin in treating drug addicts. He produced hypoglycemic coma in these patients and by so doing, initiated psychiatric treatment for psychoses in all psychiatric institutions in the world. Later, this term included any method producing "epileptiform attacks as a treatment for mental disorders—namely, metrazol and electric shock treatment."

In 1934, Dr. Lazlo Von Meduna of Hungary, incorrectly believed that a schizophrenic individual rarely had epileptic seizures. With this in mind, he experimented with drugs which would produce seizures, finally using a synthetic compound named metrazol. This drug was given intravenously two or three times a week, bringing about any improvement between the fourth and eighth treatments. Since a greater number of patients benefitted by this form of treatment rather than by using hypoglycemic coma, it seemed the most desirable. However, the chief disadvantage, namely the horrifying feeling of impending death felt prior to the convulsion, made patients reluctant to continue the treatments. Another disadvantage, that of the vertebral and femoral fractures and dislocations of the jaw experienced by many patients, finally led to the introduction of convulsions produced by an electric current passed through the brain. This was accomplished by Drs. Cerletti and Bini of Rome in 1937, after their experiments with animals had proved successful.

But it was not until 1940 that experiments with electric shock therapy were made on a large scale in the U. S. It was begun by Dr. Lothar Kalinowsky at the N. Y. State Psychiatric Institute and Hospital. He had previously introduced the treatment in England, after having worked with Cerletti and Bini in Rome.

The advantages of electric shock therapy are many. The fact that patients are unconscious immediately after the stimulation received and that they have no recollection of the treatment or of the incidents leading up to the treatment, brings complete cooperation from the patients. Our experience at Neurological Institute has been that as more treatments are given and the patient improves he becomes temporarily confused. This confusion lasts from 10 days to 2 weeks after treatments are discontinued and sometimes causes him to dread the treatments. The chief complaint expressed is "I'm afraid I'm losing my mind." We try to space the treatments over longer periods of time instead of three times a week, making it only once or twice a week. This is usually done toward the end of a series of treatments. Our series consist of from four to twenty treatments, depending upon the severity of the illness.

Another advantage of electric shock therapy is that treatments are easily given with a minimum of personnel and equipment involved. Our treatments are given in the patient's room, either in bed or on a stretcher that has been previously prepared, with only the doctor and nurse present. We have eliminated the four to six people found necessary with metrazol treatments.

In a study by Drs. Bernard L. Pacella and S. E. Barrera of a "Series of Patients Treated by Electrically Induced Convulsions and by Metrazol," 1943, they found that "regardless of the diagnostic category, if the clinical picture is characterized by depressive features, consciously-expressed guilt feelings, feelings of worthlessness and self depreciation, and especially suicidal tendencies, convulsive shock therapy is of value."

In treating schizophrenics we give a series of about twenty treatments often combining electric shock with insulin coma. This is only advisable if special nurses are available for the patient. Insulin is given in increasing doses every day until the patient becomes comatose. We have given as much as 500 units in one dose. When the patient becomes sensitized to the insulin the amount is decreased. A comatose state is produced with a maintenance dose and he is left in coma for one-half to three-quarters of an hour. He is given electric shock while in coma, once or twice a week, at the discretion of the doctor.

We have treated patients having marked decalcification of the spine, vertebral fractures, Paget's disease or back operations, with the aid of Curare, a South American drug. A sufficient amount of the drug is given to only partially paralyze the back muscles. This lessens the severity of the convulsion. Curare is given very slowly, intravenously. The full reaction to the drug is experienced within five minutes of the injection when electric shock is given.

There are few contraindications to the treatment. Patients with physical ailments such as cardiac disturbances, hypertension, arrested tubercular lesion and gastric ulcers have been treated without ill effects. In his study "Sequelae, Complications of Shock Therapy," (1944) Dr. Pacella concludes that "where a physical illness or defect is present to the extent that it offers a substantial risk for shock therapy, it becomes necessary to balance this potential risk against the severity of the psychiatric illness and the chances of therapeutic benefit which could result from the treatment."

We feel that patients receiving treatments should be hospitalized. There is less interference by well-meaning relatives and the patients are encouraged to go on and finish their series. If their confused state causes inability to concentrate and a forgetful frame of mind, everyone understands and treats the matter lightly. No more is expected of the patient than he is able to do. This friendly interest and easy handling of the patients is psychologically important and necessary for his recovery.

ANALYSIS OF ALUMNAE ACTIVITIES

The response to the Alumnae Association letter sent out in January was most gratifying. Up to April 15, there had been 481 cards returned with a most interesting variety of nursing activities reported. The tabulated statistics do not present the whole picture by any means, for in many instances nurses were engaged in a number of duties, and the most important one was selected for the record. The committee enjoyed "catching up" with the Alumnae and was duly impressed with the tremendous contribution being made by "P.H." graduates both here and abroad.

Following is a compilation of the statistics submitted:

FEBRUARY ALUMAE MEETING

There was excellent attendance at the February 15th meeting of the Alumnae Association in Maxwell Hall. The program consisted of two films: the official Coast Guard film of the Invasion of Normandy; and the official Free French film of the Liberation of Paris. The latter was loaned to us by France Forever. Delicious refreshments were enjoyed after the meeting.

With the arrival of spring, activities in Maxwell Hall have been greatly multiplied, and to summarize them would be a large task. The main emphasis, of course, is being placed on the approach of graduation; all entertainment and festivity seem to be stepping stones to THE great event. I speak as a senior, incidentally, which probably isn't quite fair! To prove my impartiality, however, I shall start by mentioning the Dramatic Club program, given on March 29th. The freshmen were largely responsible for this very amusing evening. A talented quartette, and equally talented can-can dancers, dressed in made-over "probie" uniforms, were featured. Refreshments added to the general enjoyment, as is customary with Maxwell Hall girls.

The following evening the Fellowship Club sponsored a Good Friday service. It is encouraging to learn that a great number of us can find real satisfaction from a simple, honest, and straight-forward talk. More music was heard, and again we found that the under-classmen were prominent.

On April 6th, however, the seniors came to the foreground, by sponsoring the Annual Red Cross Bazaar. Miss Ruth Fravel and Miss Marjorie Childs were co-chairmen, and did a fine job. The theme was the popular U.S.O. idea, with gayly decorated booths, and a variety of entertainment. In one corner there was a highly remunerative White Elephant Sale; in another the guests found a display of plants (also on sale!) Fortune telling proved extremely interesting, and so did the refreshment booth. This seems an appropriate time to express the appreciation of the class of 1945 to the alumnae and staff for their cooperation. They gave generously, and so helped to insure the success of the Bazaar.

Music in Maxwell Hall has made great strides through the past year, and the more active members will present a program on April 27th.

These dates, then, stand out in the period between winter and graduation. All the students are eagerly anticipating the Senior Banquet, the Florence Nightingale Service, the Spring Formal on May 26th, and FINALLY, June 7th.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

The following was written by Dorothy Donald, one of our senior students on the Library Committee. It depicts one of the most frequently recurring "Maxwell Hall problems."

"Dear Classmates:

We've talked and nagged—turned cyanotic
Do hear our last plea as we go idiotic
Library Committee is on the blink
We give one last call before we sink
Save oh save is our only cry!
Not just us—but a spirit will die!
That something called honor that each Maxwell girl
Should want to lift up and set in a whirl.
Books aren't in their places on the shelves—
Haven't come back since we asked you to delve
Into your cupboards and all the nooks
For volumes resembling library books.
Seniors—you too must take careful stock,
Each year when you move across the block,
Books appear simultaneously out of the blue
Now what would you think—is the blame on you?
Juniors and Freshmen—you cram a good bit.
Has the lamp of guilt been by your hand lit?
Here's one last call without penalty dealt
Hereafter we promise our wrath will be felt!
Take challenge—live up to stakes other set
Be true to them and ourselves—prove we can handle it yet!

Woefully,
The Library Committee"

This new Hospital is very nice and has made living and working more of a pleasure. All the nurses except one have been in the unit 27 months and 78 came over with the regular unit. We now have a T.O. of 83 nurses. Not too many for a 2,000 bed hospital. Miss Knowles and Swayzie ('28) have been made Captains and of the P.H. nurses the following were just made 1st Lieutenants:—J. B. Smith ('39), G. Keefer ('39), L. Jordon ('37), A. Lundin ('32), M. Reid ('35), N. Waldvogel ('35), J. Hopkins ('39), R. Barrett ('40), K. Ives ('34) and Mary Ann Delaney ('34). I saw M. Quackenbush ('38) on the same order.

At present I am on night duty, Surgical Wards. We have three wards to take care of—about 120 cases; burns, operations, gunshot wounds, etc. and are quite busy.

Just now, we go on duty at 6 p.m. and off at 6 a.m. When we are busy, time goes quickly. When not sleeping I spend most of my time washing my clothes; we get awfully dirty here. This being the rainy season, it has rained for days but stopped long enough Christmas Eve for carols. Some of the doctors, nurses, and Red Cross workers came to the wards singing carols and at 8:30 Santy came with a gift for all the patients.

It was all very nice. We fixed the wards up with crepe paper and a palm tree fixed to look like a pine tree. It didn't look too bad. I helped fix the trees and thought my hand would break after splitting the palm leaves to look like needles. We all had fun too!

I have often meant to write to you (Miss Helen Young). Your talk to Miss Wiemer, Miss Ralph and me before we came to England was a help. I've never once regretted coming. The Unit (Harvard Red Cross) was most interesting both in the work, the personnel, and the country.

I married an Englishman who is now a Major in the army out in Italy. We have a baby daughter 17 months old whom Bill has never seen. We hope he will soon be able to have a furlough. Some day perhaps we can take a trip back to the U.S. when I hope we will be able to visit you.

I can't tell you how pleased and surprised I was to receive the Christmas box! So many necessary and useful things, that are difficult to obtain. I do want to thank you all for the thought and work it takes in collecting and packing all those boxes each year. Do you realize this is my third Christmas in Hawaii!

I miss the Christmas at home, the snow, the cold, when one is glad to sit in front of an open fire, and most of all the smell of the hemlock and fir Christmas trees. Here our Christmas trees consist of branches of ironwood trees, and occasionally a spindly cedar tree. However we do have the lovely poinsettias, which I can gather right outside my door, also a tropical holly tree, which helps give the allusion of Christmas. But when one can sun on the beach and go swimming on Christmas, it is hard to make the illusion stick.

Practically all the nurses from Presbyterian, who were out here have returned to the mainland, so you have probably gotten first hand information about me and my work. Helen MacDonnell and Jessie Kohr are still here but are in Honolulu. I am only a country cousin, and so seldom see them.

I receive my Quarterly regularly, though a little late, and am always glad to get it and read about what is happening at P.H. Also to read the letters from the unit and other nurses in the services.

I read the two grand articles in the December Journal of Nursing, one by Allison MacBride, who is to do rehabilitation work in the Balkans, and the other one by my classmate Caroline Keller, Supervisor of the Rochester General Hospital.

My work here hasn't changed very much, except that we are very short of nurses, and have Filipino nurses' aides on alone on the relief and night shifts, which adds to my work considerably. I still like it out here and enjoy this tropical climate, but shall be glad to return when the time comes.

My best wishes to you all for a very happy 1945.

I am teaching Medical Nursing and Materia Medica to the Freshman students this term. They are very sweet youngsters. Two-thirds are Japanese and the others are Chinese and Korean, mostly. There is one girl who is a Chinese-Hawaiian-Filipino mixture and one Caucasian only. She is of Russian-English descent, so you can see we are truly an American group.

Our Christmas carol singing was most interesting because at least a third of the girls who sang are Buddhists! But they know the songs and sing them along with the others. Their favorite songs were "Jingle Bells" and "White Christmas." Not one of them had ever seen snow or even been really cold, but they told me in all seriousness that they had seen snow in the movies! We all carried candles and went around to each ward, just as we always did it in P.H. only here we started out at 5:30 on Christmas morning. It was so warm I didn't even have to wear a sweater.

I went in swimming the day before Christmas—at Waikiki. I live about 200 feet from the beach, so it is most convenient. The days are beautifully clear and bright these days, with a bit of chill in the air when the sun goes down. The flowers are in bloom and the birds sing all the time so it is hard to realize you are having cold weather back in N. Y. C.

Please remember me to all my friends at P.H. when you see them.

Excerpts from a letter from Lt. Bertha Davis, '25,
"Somewhere in the Marianas"

March 13, 1945.

In September I had a chance to go on Detached Service at Guadalcanal for three months. We flew up to the Canal and back. That was very exciting—the first flying I had done over water.

We like to brag about having our Christmas dinner in New Zealand and Thanksgiving dinner in Guadalcanal—then New Year's dinner in New Caledonia. I had about a month of Detached Service in New Caledonia. I was afraid last August that I would have only New Zealand to my credit for overseas duty, but in the last six months that fear has gone by the boards.

You may surmise where we are in the Marianas. Life has featured this island quite often. We see B29's taking off frequently. We made a tour of the island the other evening and saw much of the sights featured in the news. It is interesting to be on territory that has been secured from the enemy. Right now we are on Detached Service again while waiting for our hospital to be completed, but are very busy with patients. At present three of us are living in a room 8x16—with three Army cots and that is all in the way of furniture. We are in a Quancet Hut with open windows screened—and the wind and rain keep us busy. The wind blows our clothing around the room and the rain keeps us moving our cots. It is blustery weather. Hope it doesn't get any cooler. We are just off the hurricane latitude and consequently get a lot of wind. Spring is in the offing—thank goodness, and not winter. We are so glad to be away from that penetrating cold of New Zealand.

Excerpts from a letter from Lt. Mary Mixsell, '39

Address: Hospital Ship "Tasman"

A.P.O. 72 c/o Postmaster

San Francisco, California

January 29, 1945.

Believe it or not, I spent the month of August, last year, in Pasadena, California! Now that I am back over here, the whole trip seems like a dream. I went home as an attendant for two sick nurses. I had 24 hours notice to pack up two year's accumulation of stuff! You can imagine the mad scramble—and we had to go ashore and be paid in American money before we sailed—old mildewed musty money—but it was American. It seemed so strange to get the silver again—good old nickels, dimes, and quarters.

I had 30 whole days at home, and went out very little, just because it was so good to sit in our library and absorb home through every pore. Of course my family decided I was far too thin, so they killed the fatted calf for me, during my whole stay, and I managed to gain ten pounds!

As it is almost impossible to spend more than about five dollars a month over here, I had quite a savings account, and was really able to splurge in the stores. I had no trouble in getting everything I needed—but then, I understand that Southern California is pretty well stocked in comparison to many other states—that is because there is less Army there. The only difference I noticed in the stores is the fact that you can't go in a large department store and get all you want at once and in one place—you have to snoop around a bit—but that was easy for me, for I have learned to snoop in all the dim dark corners since being in Australia! I think I brought back enough cologne for the whole SWPA. I had orders to fill for all the girls on the ship, telephone calls to make to families, and letters to write. Before I left, I took pictures of every part of the house and garden, and now have them stuck all around my room, so that I know such a place really exists.

When my leave was up, I returned to San Francisco to await transportation back over here, and only waited a week before I was on my way. Had an amusing trip back, particularly as I was one of the few to have crossed the equator before, and was able to help the poor unfortunates who hadn't! We carried a load of Red Cross workers, who had no more conception of what it was like over here than the "man in the moon." They had been issued 12 dresses, and told that the only time they would wear slacks would be on the ship coming over—so most of them only had two pairs. One of them even asked me how much one paid the natives to do laundry—washing and ironing! I was most grateful that I had previously crossed the equator, for the ceremonies were really rugged. The sailors had mixed up a vile mess of orange-colored oatmeal and chocolate pudding which they smeared all over the poor uninitiated—even in their hair! One of the sailors cut off a few locks of hair of the various girls, and on one girl what he thought was just a lock of hair, turned out to be a braid that she had been growing for years! When we hit New Guinea, all the nurses and Red Cross Workers—that is all the females—with the exception of me—were put off the ship, and for several days I was the only female on board with an enormous number of men! Consequently, I was spoiled to death—had the ship captain's special deck chair, and sat with the Chief Steward for all meals, so that I got all sorts of special tidbits. And when I finally got off after about four days, I was laden down with fresh fruit. I had a three weeks wait for the ship to get back from Australia, and it is a good thing that I had gained ten pounds while I was home, for I lost it all while waiting. Fortunately, I met an officer in the QM who saw to it that I got fresh eggs and fruit once in a while. Fresh eggs ashore are a luxury, and in fact, almost anything fresh. I hear that articles have been published at home on the various comforts nurses have in New Guinea. On the contrary, the girls ashore have a rugged time, and are to be greatly admired. When I waited for the ship, I spent part of the time in the staging areas, and all we had were pyramidal tents with dirt floors, a cot, two blankets and a mosquito net—nothing else, unless you made it out of boxes, or were able to get pillows and sheets. We walked half a mile to mess and half a mile back, rain or shine. Fresh fruit was a rarity.

On board, we are far more fortunate, for we do have fresh fruit and vegetables and eggs all the time, and we have our own ice-cream maker. We make the ice-cream from condensed milk, but you would never know it, for after much experimenting, the cooks have eliminated its taste completely.

Had a grand Christmas this year—that is as far as presents go—had 27 packages so far, and know of many more to come! As far as the Christmas spirit went, well, I just didn't have any—perhaps, because none of my dear friends are with me aboard. I think that the only time I had any of the spirit at all was during the Christmas morning church services. I think that most of us over here realize the significance of Christmas more than we do at home, for here it is stripped of most of the old traditions. I know that what the men miss most are children. Of course there are native children—but they are poor pot-bellied kids.

Our enlisted men went ashore, and were able to find some branches of a large tree which resembled a real tree, and when ten of the branches were tied together and decorated, it looked like the real thing. Christmas Eve, we had our usual party for the enlisted men, and as usual, it started off as a flop, for they were all so shy—that is until they had had a couple of glasses of punch—then they thawed out and had a good time. One of them acted as Santa Claus—in a suit one of the girls had made—and as it was far too large, he had to stuff it with pillows, and he claims that in all the heat, he lost five pounds! The Red Cross gave each of them a rubber stamp with their name, rank, ASN, etc; for their envelopes. Christmas day, the officers and nurses had their Christmas party after a dinner with all the trimmings.

In one of the ports in Dutch New Guinea where we go every so often, I have a friend in the air corps, and have been ashore to see the sights many times. One night, we went to see how the Air Corps nurses live—they have a grand set-up—pre-fabricated huts with a parachute to decorate the ceiling—there are about three to a hut. We had dinner with their Adjutant, and went to his house later. He has a native boy who looks after the place for him—he was made an honorary Staff Sergeant in the Air Corps, and his name is Sgt. Yo-Yo! He has dog-tags with his name, rank, ASN, and in one corner is a sentence which reads: "I not married." Seems his ambition is to marry a white girl! His uniform consists of a not-too-clean pair of white shorts, and a white sailor cap. Out on the porch, we found San Francisco Chronicle papers which were only five days old—and certainly made us feel as tho home weren't so far away after all.

Last week, we had quite an experience, for when I went down to my two wards, I found that all plumbing on the two wards above me were stopped up, and were backing up into my wards. The water was ankle deep in the utility room, and a broad stream ran down the center of the ward. Seems that the main line was stopped up by a large fish—and not just an ordinary fish either—but a globe fish—so called because when it gets nervous in the service, it swells up like an electric light globe. We tried to pull it out with pliers, but only chunks came out, so it had to be shoved back up the pipe, and pulled out from above. Something that wouldn't happen again in a million years.

Took some fresh eggs ashore the other night, and after we had spent the afternoon in swimming, I scrambled all 12 of them for 4 people. I had to take the frying pan and scrape the rust out of it with a razor, and before I had finished the job, I thoroughly cut myself, and had blood and rust intermingled! I also made toast, and we opened two tins of lobster over which I poured melted butter. We found an old tin can in which I boiled the water for coffee, and we had a grand time. It is the first time that I have been swimming in tropical waters.

Here we are settled again in our new home, the third, and life runs on as if there had been no interruption. This weekend is the anniversary of our 3rd year in the Army. A big dance is planned and some of our old crowd from the 23rd Station Hospital are expected, also the group from Paris.

Isabel Harrell was here for several days visiting.

Jeannie B. Smith is my roommate in a large room which everyone hits first of all on entering the front house so we have unexpected visitors frequently. Been making curtains out of Gunny sack material.

Lately the weather has been fine—sunny and warm. Have gotten out once on a cycle. But to get out of this town to the country is a trial, against traffic, cobblestones, and trollies. But once out, it was fun—right by the river, hoping to find a spot for summer bathing and picnicing. I'm dying to get out and play tennis, but my racquet is in England.

Here in our new place in Eastern France, we have planted a garden out in the back yard, and it's fun to watch the seeds sprout.

We now have 3 movie houses with G.I. movies in town, and frequently good pictures. Saw "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" the other evening.

"Germany"

March 20, 1945.

The work in a Field Hospital is quite different from any other. Our wards are small. Rarely more than 20 patients in each, and always one nurse in each ward because the patients are too sick to be left to the ward boys alone, good as the men are. It is all Levine tubes, Wagensteins, oxygen and needles; needles with intravenous fluids, plasma, blood, penicillin, sulfadiazine, vitamins, with the odd dose of coramine, adrenal cortex, calcium gluconate, etc. thrown in, to say nothing of morphine and gas gangrene serum.

We have just moved into the snappiest living quarters we've had the luck to encounter. It was a general's suite yesterday morning and in the afternoon it belonged to the nurses. The fires were still going when we got here. We have rugs, a living room with a grand piano and, as usual, many nice glasses. The Jerries must have used lots of them.

We've seen lots of prisoners of war lately. In fact so many that everyone is very optimistic about the war ending soon.

We are about to have a tea party with some very nice German cups that we are borrowing while we are here.

At present I am on detached service and actually working with patients after several months of preparation. The climate is mean but we feel quite happy in a CASTLE—even without central heat.

The wards are in Neissen huts and tents, surprisingly comfortable with small stoves, using coke for fuel. Never know when word will come for actual combat duty but we are quite ready. Several about me had known our P.H. unit, and that makes me feel at home.

Rations are liberal enough, in fact many are overweight. The psychiatrists tell us to keep eating to ease the anxiety.

Excerpts from a letter from Lt. Elizabeth P. Colmers, '40
"Somewhere in France"

January 5, 1945.

We stayed in England a little more than a month—just staying. It was of great interest to us and we enjoyed it very much. We certainly "roughed" it in Neisson huts—hikes and drillings. We became expert fire builders and got quite used to the out-door life.

Some of us had the chance of going to London, which we of course enjoyed a great deal. Then we moved on to France and made the last part of the trip on an L. C. T. and landed on some beach in the middle of the night. After continuing our trip for a little while we came to a place very well known to you: Etretat—

One day I walked down to the village and in a store what did I see—the picture of our nurses going through Etretat—the same picture we have in Maxwell Hall. Among the women who helped with the cleaning at our quarters was one who remembered you, Mrs. Bledsoe and a number of other nurses well. I think her name was Mlle. Fonanelle. The world really is small—Now we are quite a distance away from this charming spot and finally operating our own hospital. We are using an old civilian hospital, which was erected by Rockefeller after the last war and as I heard largely equipped by Presbyterian—so you see P.H. is all over the world.

Mary Pembleton is in our Unit and is Medical Supervisor. Just recently Miss Sandmann, '36 has joined our unit and is a liaison officer to base headquarters.

I, myself am also assigned to the Chief Nurses' Office, and most of my day is taken up by taking care of the Nurses' Quarters—sort of a house-mother-housekeeper job. Somehow I am able to squeeze some time out occasionally to go on the wards with either of the supervisors and the other day I opened up a new ward. I do hope though that I will get more contact with the patients as time goes on.

Excerpt from a letter written by a former Interne at P.H., now in the Burma Theatre of Operations:

“For months, I hadn't seen one of those tremendous Morale Boosters, the white feminine face of a G.I. Nurse—they're swell—not alone for the job they're doing. They are doing a good job and they know it, but they are really very gentle. The care they take of the American wounded, you would think every one of them was individually hired by Mr. Gotrox of the Gold Coast. No whim or demand is too much. They work hard but there's a great deal of satisfaction in it. There are no night clubs or fancy evening gowns—no bright lights and precious few advantages. The money for the most part is that of a 2nd Lieutenant with promotions few and hard to get. In fact, there's nothing—no advantages for these girls at all. But—the one look of gratitude they get from a seriously wounded American boy apparently repays them in full. I doubt if there are more than a handful that would swap places with any other woman during this time. They will never get full recognition for their work. It's been priceless and nothing I or anyone else can do or say will adequately repay their deeds. God bless them all—they are in a class by themselves—the highest.”

Excerpts from a letter from Elsa MacRae, '36

"From the Home Front" March 18, 1945.

Many times I have thought of writing but it has been one of those things never accomplished. Whenever the "Quarterly" arrives I think now I will write—I get such a homesick feeling. The very sight of the envelope excites me and I just can't wait until I read it from cover to cover. The years that have passed since that memorable day, when you pinned my P.H. pin on my bib, have gone so quickly and I can honestly say I wish I had those three years to do over again.

After reading the various letters from the girls overseas which appeared in the various issues of the "Quarterly," I feel my letter will be quite dull. I just wish it was my privilege to be in the service and I certainly envy those who are physically fit to do so. Not for the glory that some people associate with it, but for the great satisfaction one must feel doing her part along side of our brave boys—and then, there are times when that feeling of helplessness over-shadows all. But it is not my privilege so instead I am doing industrial nursing as you may already know.

Two years have passed since I started in industry. I am with a defense plant—manufacturers of precision instruments—located in Hatboro, which is about twelve miles from home, so I drive to and from work daily. The plant has steadily enlarged since I first went there. At that time there were 250 employees, now there are over 500. I am the only nurse—first aid trained men take over on the small night shift—and have a doctor on call. It seems when I need him the most, he is not available but fortunately have been able to reach someone else when such a situation existed. Our plant has quite a machine shop, assembly department and a glass shop—glass blowing, etc., which is most interesting. Most of the first aid work pertains to lacerations and I have come to depend on the butterfly strap to take the place of sutures many times.

I have some very happy news of Claire Kendall Ossorio, '37. Her father-in-law wrote me this week that he has heard directly from her. She, José and their three children were imprisoned at Santo Thomas Camp and were among the fortunate ones to be liberated. She said they had lost a great deal of weight but were recuperating rapidly. Just when they will reach this country is not known—little word to that effect is released. It is wonderful to know that they are with us.

Benediction

ADDRESS TO THE GRADUATING CLASS

By MR. CHARLES P. COOPER

THIS is a happy day for all of us at Presbyterian Hospital as we come together to honor this Class of 1945. We have always been very proud of our School of Nursing and our graduates have always reflected great credit to our school. But never have we been more proud of them than during these wartimes when so many of them have volunteered to meet the unusual requirements and have gone into military service. More than 230 are in service today and three of them have been promoted through the grades to the rank of Major. Heading the list is Miss Marjorie Peto who went overseas in charge of the nurses in our Base Hospital three years ago. Our doctors and nonprofessional people too have been equally loyal and true to their country so that today there are 911 stars on our service flag. Nine of them are gold stars and I ask that you stand for a brief period in tribute to their memory.

The last twelve months have marked another year of work in our affiliation with Columbia University and have served in many ways to emphasize the advantages of our working together, the University in the fields of teaching and the Hospital in caring for patients and constantly searching for better methods of diagnosis, treatment and prevention of disease. This close working together at the Medical Center has been made possible by the farsighted vision and generosity of Mrs. Edward S. Harkness, the late Mr. Harkness, and our other friends. It is a pleasure to present to you Dean Rappleye of the University's Medical School who together with Miss Conrad, Director of Nursing, has charge of the educational work of the School.

Preceding the benediction, Mr. Cooper announced that the corsages worn by the Graduating Class and the Faculty were given by Mr. Dean Sage, Jr., Mrs. Staunton Williams and Mrs. David McAlpin in memory of their parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Dean Sage; and that the platform decorations were the gift of Mrs. W. R. K. Taylor, in memory of her husband.

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS

DEAN WILLARD C. RAPPLEYE

IT is a privilege to bring you greetings on this occasion from the other divisions of the Faculty of Medicine. We share the deep sense of satisfaction which all of you in the graduating class and the staff of the School of Nursing must enjoy today in the completion of your professional training. This is true this year in a particular sense because you are joining the ranks of graduate nurses at a critical moment in world, in public, and in professional affairs. And it is worthy of special notice that, at this critical hour in nursing, the Presbyterian Hospital School is graduating the largest class in its history as further evidence, if any be needed, that this institution has recognized its obligations in the emergency and has put forth, as always, its fullest effort to meet the needs of the country.

These are indeed stirring, uncertain and eventful days. The speed of developments throughout the world, in which the professions have highly important contributions to make, are breath-taking. Please recall that only a year ago yesterday was D-Day in Europe. In the short span of that year we have seen the destruction of the German nation at a frightful cost in human life and suffering, and the liberation of an entire continent. Our own American casualties totaled over half a million men.

Ten years ago, as the first clouds of impending world struggle began to show signs of gathering in unstable Europe, many guarded and conservative predictions were accepted as fantastic. In the interim events have exceeded even the wildest and most horrible nightmare which came close to the complete destruction of modern civilization.

We rejoice today in the happy turn of events in the world struggle, but it would be not only idle but exceedingly dangerous for any of us or any country to assume that the hazards are passed. The year ahead will call for sacrifices of relatively greater magnitude than those of the past year as the material and human resources of the country are required to liquidate the situation in the Pacific, which promises to be a long and exceedingly difficult task. Even the completion of that assignment represents only the beginning of the tedious job of reconstructing the civilization of the world.

The next ten years will represent a challenge even greater than the period of the war. The incentives for united action against a common enemy in the face of gravest danger must be translated into similar unity, conviction and courage in attacking the problems of peace. We must be on guard against a breakdown of the solidarity of the peace-loving nations or the end of world civilization will be in sight.

Among these great problems are those of the health and welfare of literally hundreds of millions of people, including those of our own country. At no time in history have there been such opportunities for service and for constructive leadership by trained personnel. You of the younger generation have a rare privilege to meet the greatest variety of challenges that have ever faced a graduating class. We have confidence in your ability to contribute to their solution as individuals and as members of a strong profession which has shown wise and constructive leadership during the war and which has met its responsibilities with highest credit. May you continue to meet the new responsibilities with equal skill and success, and may the performance of your tasks bring you every satisfaction and happiness.

We in the University are proud of our part in the program of the School of Nursing and pledge ourselves to continue the effort to keep the Presbyterian Hospital School of Nursing in the forefront of progressive leaders in nursing education.

On this occasion, it gives me special pleasure to report the recent action of the trustees of the University in appointing Miss Conrad as an Associate Dean of the Faculty of Medicine. It is only one more evidence of the close, harmonious cooperation between the hospitals and the university which augurs so well for the future of the entire Medical Center.

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS

THE REVEREND HENRY SLOANE COFFIN

MR. PRESIDENT, members of the faculty, and members of the graduating class:

A year ago last November I was put on board the largest transport then crossing the Atlantic, the Queen Elizabeth, with some 20,000, more or less, members of the armed forces, and I think two groups of nurses. It took us 24 hours to get aboard and stowed away, and then we were put through various drills: fire drill, battle stations, abandon ship. Then, we were told to go to our places.

And, suddenly, the siren sounded and the voice over the public address system said, "Abandon ship." Just as we sailed, we took our positions, and while we were standing there in quiet, we could hear the propeller begin, and feel the quiver of the ship, we could see through the boards which enclosed the deck, the flicker of sunlight, and then a voice sounded, "You are now in the battle of the Atlantic."

I presume it was the first time in the lives of a good many of those thousands, that they had ever been outside their own land. One could almost feel a quiver go through the boat. They had been trained in the various camps. They brought their various skills with them. There was more training ahead for, as you know, two whole sections of the British Islands were given over to our forces in order to practice for D-Day, practice amphibious landings actually under artillery fire.

You are now in the battle for which you have been training. What is it that you have to do your work with? I presume that a member of one profession, speaking to members of another, always looks somewhat in the light of his own. One of the greatest of American preachers, Philip Brooks defined his calling as truth through personality. It has always seemed to me that the nurses' calling might be summed up as health through personality. To be sure, both callings require a specialized training. Both have the educational requisite for the tasks they have to perform.

So, we can say, in the one case, it is truth through trained health; but, in the last analysis, your biggest tool with which to work is just yourself.

Now, what is personality? Well, in part, it is presence. It is a great deal to have something about you that makes you felt at once, to those to whom you minister, and yet, of course, that does not get you very far. There are a lot of people who carry everything in the store window,—nothing behind. In my college days we used to speak of freshmen skyrockets, that is to say, men who made a great impression, and then dropped with a thud. It is also what is back of it, presence,—wits.

I suppose, one of the most unattractive looking mortals was Socrates, and yet there was something about Socrates' nimble mind that made him a factor in any group of which he was a part. And yet, of course, wit is not the whole thing, particularly in your profession—valuable as brains are.

Now, there is kindness. You remember what Tennyson said in the "Idylls of the King": "His face an outdoor sign of all the warmth within" makes a lot of difference to a patient whether, when you approach or when you minister to him or to her, there is this outgoing kindness and interest from you. And yet, there are some very good people and some very kindly people who lack color and are painfully dull.

I think there is one other factor that enters into personality, that, just vitality. You have been told, again and again, that you must keep yourself in perfect trim if you are to be of help to others. You have an exacting calling. It takes it out of you, and you have got to keep in condition for it.

There is a great deal in being just vital. When an express train rushes by a railroad station, you see bits of paper swirling after it. It creates a vacuum in its wake. There are people who, when they come into a room, bring a fresh atmosphere with them in their vitality; and yet when you sum up all these things: presence, wits, kindness, vitality—there is something else that enters into personality.

Years ago, speaking to a similar gathering, I ventured to quote some lines from a little known 18th century poet that pleased Miss Maxwell so much that she asked me to copy them out. They are entitled: "Je ne sais quoi," by a man named Whitehead, and it is as follows:

"Yes, I'm in love, I feel it now,
And Celia has undone me;
And yet I swear I can't tell how
The pleasing pain stole on me.
'Tis not her face the love creates,
For there no graces revel;
'Tis not her shape, for there the fates
Have rather been uncivil.
'Tis not her air, for sure in that There's nothing more than common;

And all her sense is only chat,
Like any other woman.
Her voice, her touch, might give th' alarm;
'Twas both perhaps, or neither;
In short 'twas that provoking charm
Of Celia altogether."

There is always that,—the Celia altogether.

I happened to be reading, the other day, the memoirs of a British newspaper reporter who, among others, had taken down the speeches of Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Minister at the time of the last war. In a letter which he sent, enclosing the report of one of Sir Edward Grey's speeches, he he said this: "I think I have reported every word exactly . . . yet I know that the report will give no impression of the speech, for when Grey says it, even the commonplace utterance seems to carry weight."

Now, there are people like that. I think that is peculiarly true of your calling. What you are is your principal tool for the discharge of your duty.

What, then, are you taking with you behind the shop window? Well, one hopes mental resources. I know very well that a nurse has not a great deal of time for outside interests and for outside reading. Her calling is peculiarly demanding and exacting, and yet there is such a thing as letting your mind go to seed. That has a great deal to do with making you uninteresting, because it is the number of things about which you care, the number of facets of life that take hold on you that give you interest and that builds up your personality. See to it that along with your professional training, with the things you must know in order to discharge your duty, from day to day, you have a wider horizon. Your interests in music or God's out-of-doors, or in books, or any other subject, aside from your profession, are the factors that will keep you alive and make you a genuine person through which the calling can be achieved.

It is not only your mental resources; it is the resources of the heart. You would not have gone into this calling, I assume, any more than a man would go into the ministry if he did not care for people. Because, you are out not to minister to diseases, but to minister to men and women,—and that is always a very different matter. You need sympathy which means quick insight and understanding.

Some of you may be familiar with some lines penned by William Watson. I will read them. They are very brief:

“Momentous to himself as I to me
Hath each man been that ever woman bore;
Once in a lightning flash of sympathy
I felt this truth, an instant and no more.”

Each man is momentous to himself, and you cannot deal with him impersonally. He must feel, as you minister to him, that you recognize him as a distinct individual for whom you show respect.

A name that has been frequently in the press lately, of a Japanese city, is the city of Nagoya. When I saw it more than twenty-five years ago, or nearly thirty years ago, there was a huge castle, and in that castle was a very remarkable portrait. It had been done by a Japanese portrait painter who conceived the notion of painting a man's portrait not as that man appeared to him,—because it is the way we ordinarily paint a portrait—but as that man looked out upon life. Of course, it was a weird performance. All the perspective was in reverse. The artist had tried to put himself into this man and then look out on life. To him and to the ordinary observer it was just a series of lines and blotches. However, you get the idea. He was trying to get that man's outlook upon life.

I suppose that most of you have read this book by Galsworthy, and you will recall the unhappy marital life of Irene and her husband. And perhaps you remember the comment that Galsworthy makes: “A deal of mortals in this world, and not enough imagination to go round.”

Now, there is no quality you need more than imagination—imagination to get outside yourself and to feel and think in the way in which your patient is feeling and thinking. Now, he may be a crank. He may be anything; but he is momentous to himself.

I remember a delightful sentence in one of the letters of William Cowper. He is writing a note of thanks to one of his friends, and this is what he says: “You are most kind to bear with my oddities. When people want to do me good, they must do it not in their way but in my own, and then they do me good, indeed.”

Now, there is a great deal to that. You cannot generalize about human beings. Some like things done in one way, and some like things done another way; and, if you are going to be of any help to him, you have to have the imagination that tries to see and feel how they see and feel, how they look out on life. They may be cranks. They may be extremely bore-some. They may be this, that, or the other; but it is remarkable what even the most cranky and most ordinary person will produce if you only go at him in the right way.

I suppose the most outstanding biographer in our English literature was James Boswell. Now, James Boswell was not a very admirable man, but he had the capacity of putting himself in touch with the person whom he was trying to describe. Of course, everybody knows his biography of Dr. Samuel Johnson and how he managed to get out of that old chap the very best. But not everyone is familiar with the way in which Boswell wormed his way in, much against Voltaire's will—wormed his way into friendship with Voltaire and established contact with that elderly and somewhat difficult Frenchman.

In describing his contact with Voltaire, Boswell wrote: "I touched the keys in unison with his imagination. I wish you had heard the music." He brought it out. He was in touch with the instrument that he wanted to play. Of course, that means that you have achieved a very high degree of moral development because you have succeeded in forgetting yourself—defacing yourself for the time being, and putting yourself into the other person's place.

I remember somewhere that George Eliot said, and I do not at the moment recall the name of the book in which it occurs,—sympathetic people are often uncommunicative about themselves. They give back reflected images which hide their own depths.

I think there is a great deal in that for your calling as for mine. No one wants to be ministered to by someone who is replete with himself or herself and is garrulous about himself or herself. That is not sympathy. What is wanted is self-obliteration, putting oneself away and just being so interested in the other that you bring him or her out and touch what is there and what needs to be brought out; and that is as true of your calling as of mine because you are to minister to the whole man and not just to a case—a patient—but to a person.

I was reading, in the letters of a noted British historian of the last generation the other day, and I came across this statement of his concerning sympathy: "Sympathy cannot be cultivated in itself; it has no rules. It is born of insight. It is the result of all life's training." Now, there is a great deal to that. It is born of insight. That is where imagination comes in, and it is part of all life's strength. It is self-discipline that enables you to put yourself out of sight, to obliterate yourself, and to give yourself, unreservedly, to the man or the woman whom it is your charge to serve, for the time being.

Finally, I come to resources—resources of heart, but also spiritual resources. You are going into one of the most exacting and demanding of all callings, a calling that will tax your patience; it will tax your courage; it will tax your self-control; it will tax your physical and your mental endurance.

Now, what are your resources to keep these things in trim? When I was a student in Scotland many years ago, I was placed in charge, for some weeks, of a small highland parish. The Church stood beside a well-known cascade, before which, in those days, tourists drove up to admire the waterfall. There was a tiny highland loch up in the hills with its blue face exposed to the sky above whence all the water in that cascade came. There was the source of its power.

And behind every personality there are always these spiritual resources, and because of its exactingness yours is a calling which demands that spiritual resource.

I do not know whether you have ever read the Hippolytus by Euripides—one of the greatest of the Greek dramas. In that great drama, penned 500 years B.C. one of the chief characters is the nurse of Phaedra, and this is what she says about her calling:

“Oh, pain were better than tending pain!
For that were ginél, and this is twain,
With grief of heart and labor of limb.”

Now, you have both. You will have many experiences that will rack you emotionally, and you will have many experiences that will just leave you exhausted, physically. And for the replenishment of yourself, your personality, the great tool with which you work, you need spiritual resources. If you have genuine faith, a faith that reaches out and lays hold of these unseen resources, it may be given you not merely to minister to the bodies of the men and women who will be under your care, but to be the cup of strength in some great agony, a spring of refreshment when life is a desert, and a light when the whole of life for them goes black.

God grant it.

Three members of the class received their diplomas and pins in Army Nurse Corps uniforms: Josephine Brown, Jean Herbert and Rita Parks.

Thirteen members of the class were unable to be present: In service: Helen Craig, Nell Meade Hervey, Lillian Turner, Muriel Widrick, Katejean Allerton, Elizabeth Gross, Margaret Holt, Katherine Lane: otherwise prevented from attendance: Agnes Clothier, Ruth Gregory, Clara Foss, Helen Green, Mary Hazen.

"P.H." HYMN

Tune: Dear Lord and Father of Mankind

Cecile Covell, '26

Dear Alma Mater from whose heights
All healing grace descends,
Enduring may thy help abide,
Reflect in us thy power to guide
Humanity as friends.

Across the shifting sands of time
The forward pathway leads,
With courage, faith and will our guard
As "Neighbors" serve without regard
To color, race or creeds.

Oh, grant us Lord that we may feel
Thy strength along the way,
The glory of Thy wisdom fill
Each loyal heart and mind until Our last Commencement Day.

GRADUATION

GRADUATION DAY has again come and gone—joined the other fifty graduation days to make the fifty-first. We were fortunate to have the address given by Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, the retiring president of Union Theological Seminary, but for most of us, the minister at the Presbyterian Church, corner of 73rd Street and Madison Avenue. His message to the graduating class will be read with interest, in this issue of the Quarterly, by all who were not able to come to the exercises.

To members of the Graduating Class, this day is really Commencement Day—the day on which they begin their professional life. The coming years look promising. The opportunities in nursing are varied and should offer plenty of scope to the individual. The young graduate enters on her career as a professional nurse enthusiastically and with high hopes of what the future holds for her. She even plans to make some changes in the life of the future student nurse which she thought might have made life easier for her. Later on she may change and think of something for the patient too—then the end result will help both the patient and the nurse which is what she really wants.

To the Graduates of former years, this day is Reunion Day, and brings to many of us fond memories of other Graduation Days. The graduate of our school has been so welcome at this time that it has become a tradition for all to return for the exercises each year and welcome the new class into the Alumnae Association. To make it possible for graduates to see more of their classmates at this time, a plan was started some years ago whereby members of individual classes could plan to return every five years armed with interesting data to explain the intervening time. Due to difficulties of travel and entertainment these reunions have been difficult since war was declared but, with the return to our normal life on the cessation of hostilities, we are looking forward to seeing each other again.

One has a great temptation at such a time to include a list of friends of the hospital present at the exercises but this is not practical. We were pleased, however, to see Mrs. Edward S. Harkness back in her usual place this year, and to know that she had recovered from her recent illness.

The Alumnae Association is always grateful to the President of the Board of Managers and the Executive Vice-President of the Hospital for making it possible for us to renew our connection with our professional home.

HELEN YOUNG, '12.

—ANNUAL MEETING—

THE annual meeting of the Alumnae Association of the Presbyterian Hospital School of Nursing was held on Friday, June 8th, at 3 P. M. in Maxwell Hall. Mrs. Martin deForest Smith, the president, presided.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Reports of the various committees were read and approved. The Association was very pleased to welcome into its membership the largest class ever to graduate, numbering 105.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Smith, on behalf of the Alumnae Association, presented Miss Conrad with a corsage of gardenias in recognition of its pride in her appointment as an Associate Dean of the Faculty of Medicine. Dr. Rappleye had announced this appointment at the graduation exercises.

Report of the President

The following report is the one prepared for inclusion in the Annual Report of the Presbyterian Hospital. As it covers the calendar year of 1944 there are certain additions that have been made to bring it up to date, and also I will skip reports that have been given today by Committee Chairmen.

The Distributing Fund has been in existence for ten years with a total of $22,470.49 added to the Alumnae Association Treasury. The amount contributed in 1944 was $2,710.85. In observance of its first decade a chronicle is being distributed among the graduates giving the history of the Fund.

(Contributions from January 1st to June 1st $706.50).

The Helen Young Scholarship was awarded to Evelyn Hess, '43 for a year's study at Teacher's College, Columbia University.

(This Fund has been increased by a gift of $500 by Mr. Frederick Sturges).

The Emma Baker Kennedy Scholarships were awarded to:

Florence M. Barends, '37

Eileen Goodyer, '41

Catherine Griffin, '41, Spring of 1945

Ten student scholarships of $50.00 each were awarded.

Those receiving degrees at Teacher's College in June 1944 were:

Mrs. Alice Kohler, '32, M.A.

Margaret Sibley Polovchik, '35, M.A.

Mrs. A. Virginia Hartman, '29, B.S.

Helen Hentschel, '39, B.S.

Ella Sharrocks, '24, B.S.

Ruth Whitfield, '34, B.S.

Those receiving degrees at Teacher's College in June 1945 were:

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

Marion Cleveland, '27, M.A.

Helen L. Scott, '27, M.A.

Florence Berends, '37, B.S.

Eileen Goodyer, '41, B.S.

Catherine Griffin, '41, B.S.

The proceeds from the "Essentials of Nursing" go to the Emma Baker Kennedy Scholarship Fund. The proceeds from the "History of Nursing" go to the Helen Young Scholarship Fund.

The Alumnae Association has engaged Haskin & Sells to audit the books. These auditors sent in recommendations, most of which have been accepted. The greatest change is in the Alumnae Shops. The Shop Committee voted to accept those whereby the Auditing Department of the Hospital will take over all the accounts, and the store-room will be placed in charge of the head of the hospital store-room. This puts the Shops on a much better business basis. The purchasing is still to be done by the Shop itself. The salaries of the Shop Personnel have been placed in rotating scales to conform with hospital salaries.

Upon recommendation the account of the Radio Fund will be placed with the Hospital instead of with the Bank as heretofore.

The Endowment Fund of the School of Nursing has been increased by $7,000.00 from the Shops and $5,000.00 from the Radio Fund.

In 1945 the Shops have turned over $6,000.00 to the fund.

Mr. Henry Alexander is the new Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Alumnae Association by virtue of his position as Chairman of the School of Nursing Committee of the Hospital. We wish to record our gratitude to him for his keen interest in our behalf.

The President attended, as delegate, the State Advisory Council Meetings and the State League of Nursing Education Meetings in Albany in October.

Letters were sent to the following:

1. To City Council Members protesting the application of the Lyons Law (requiring three years residence in the State) to the position of Director of Nursing in the City Health Department.

2. To the Board of Directors of The League of Nursing Education protesting the interpretation of nursing at the United Hospital Fund Meeting and to request a nurse representation on the United Hospital Fund Committee.

3. To District No. 13 suggesting that they consider the possibility of the legislation affecting nurses being sponsored by the State Hospital Association instead of independently by the State Nurses' Association.

4. To District No. 13 protesting the manner of utilizing the services of Nurses' Aides in caring for cancer patients in the home.

5. To each graduate of the School of Nursing urging her to be a committee of one to secure at least one nurse recruit for service with the armed forces in military hospitals either at home or abroad. (You will find an interesting analysis of the results of this letter, compiled by Miss Goodale and her committee, in the April Quarterly.)

In 1944 there were 44 Presbyterian graduates who entered the armed forces making a total of 222 since 1939.

(Since January there have been 31 more who entered the armed forces making a total of 253).

Marjorie Peto, '26 has been advanced to the rank of Major and Ada Mutch, '38 to the rank of Captain.

As a graduation gift from the Alumnae each member of the Class of 1944 received one of the books on nursing published by the Alumnae. 1945 graduates received a book chosen from a selected list.

(March 8th was the fiftieth anniversary of the day "Our Mamie" started her career at the Presbyterian Hospital. In commemoration of this occasion the Board of Directors voted to present her with a gift of one hundred dollars, fifty dollars from the General Fund and fifty dollars in contributions from the nurses. This only expresses in a small way our devotion to "Mamie.")

In January, Honorary Member of 1926, Mr. John Bush, left the Hospital, and we miss him.

We have lost through death the following graduates:

Harrietta Livermore, 01

Mrs. Edward Bebee (Emily Belle Hastings, '02)

Sara Belle Mounce, '04

Mrs. Levan C. Robinson (Alice Cowell, '09)

Mrs. Ralph Chatillon (Hannah D. Kernan, '17)

Susan Wheatley Abercrombie, '16

Mrs. Robert L. Hartman (Wilhelmina Elder, '40)

Ariminta Whitley Beatty, '95

Anna MacPherson Kennedy, '19

Mrs. Carlyle Howell (Elsie May Vanderbilt, '06)

Report of the Alumnae Distributing Fund
Margaret E. Conrad, '20, Chairman

The statement of the receipts and distribution of this Fund, together with the statistics on class donations, appeared in the April Quarterly.

The Alumnae scholarships thus provided ($500.00) were awarded as follows by the Faculty:

- 1945 Miss Louella M. Coumbe
- Miss Ruth E. Foster
- Miss Doris L. Kinkead
- 1946 Miss Sylvia Carlson
- Miss Kathryn E. Eberbach
- Miss Lillian Gubler
- Miss R. Joyce Siskel
- 1947 Miss Marjorie J. Davis
- Miss Mary Ann Lister
- Miss Mary Jane Schermerhorn

The 1920 Memorial Scholarship has today been awarded to Miss Amelia Wilkie, the Class President.

Report of the Red Cross Committee
Helen F. Pettit, '36, Chairman

The work of the Red Cross Committee has been quite varied this year. As Alumnae Representative on the Red Cross Recruitment Committee the chairman has attended four very interesting meetings of that group. The annual meeting of the New York Chapter of the American Red Cross was held on October 19, 1944. Reports of last year's work were given, and work recently started was outlined. Service ribbons were given to those who had given 25 or more consecutive years of service to the Red Cross. A great tribute was paid to Miss Florence Johnson and she was awarded a ribbon for 35 years of service.

The magazine subscriptions sent last year as the Christmas gift from the Alumnae Association to its members on duty in General Hospital No. 2 were so acceptable that the committee was asked to select and arrange for subscriptions to be sent again. This year, because the nurses are not altogether, subscriptions were sent to several groups including the nurses working with U.N.R.R.A.

In February, 1945, graduate nurses were urgently needed for emergency volunteer service at Halloran Hospital. Miss Florence Johnson of the Red Cross Nursing Service arranged for a pool from which to draw when convoys arrived or other emergencies occurred. Twenty-five members of the graduate nursing staff at the hospital offered to give their days off occasionally. Each time a call came for nurses the group responded eagerly and we more than met our quota. The nurses who participated in this felt they had helped with the load and this has been substantiated by the enthusiastic reports from the Second Service Command and the Red Cross. At present the need for these nurses is not as great because of the number of cadet nurses now at Halloran.

Returns of the Red Cross War Fund Drive under the direction of the Junior Class of the school totalled $3,358.20. This is the largest amount ever collected at the hospital for the drive.

In April the Senior Class sponsored a bazaar for the benefit of the Red Cross War Fund. Students and graduates alike contributed toward making the affair a great success. Four hundred thirty-five dollars was realized from this.

Since June 1944, 68 articles have been knitted for the Red Cross. The wool has not been as available this year, but we feel that this is a good contribution.

The chairman will attend another meeting of the Recruitment Committee of the Red Cross on Wednesday, June 13th. Mothers of the nurses in service have been invited as the committee members are anxious to become better acquainted with them. The 3,000th nurse entering the military service from this service command since Pearl Harbor will be present also.

Report of the Social Committee
Margaret Eliot, '21, Chairman

The Social Committee has little to report because of its more or less enforced inactivity. We did have parties after our quarterly meetings but even then the refreshments were sometimes what we could get rather than just what we wanted—I'm sure no one minded. What is really in our thoughts, of course, is the party we want to have when V-J day comes and all our nurses return. That will be a very happy time for us and we must have a very special celebration then.

The book which we are giving to each of you this afternoon is a little gift from the Alumnae Association to show you how pleased we are with you. We hope you will enjoy them and perhaps—profit by them? You will find they are just outside in the lobby and we would be glad to have you get yours as you go out.

Immediately after the meeting there is to be tea on the lawn and we sincerely hope our new members, the class of 1945, will have time to stay and enjoy it with us—for, as Emily Dickinson says in one of her poems, "Even God allows his busy angels an afternoon to play"!

Report of Private Duty Nurses Committee
Camilla De La Mater, '30, Chairman

The group have had three meetings with Miss Conrad. Problems of current conditions and interests were discussed. Every effort to cooperate with the hospital in relieving the shortage of nurses has been made; a large number of our group do regular staff duty while others have done group nursing. (Great interest and excellent response was shown in the bond drives, and Red Cross drives, and the clothes collection in addition to the usual collections.)

Emily Simmons, '36 has been chosen chairman for the coming year.

Program Committee Report
Caroline Nicoll, '29, Marian Fitzhugh, '28, Co-Chairmen

In the absence of the scheduled speaker at the November, 1944 meeting, Mrs. Edgecombe of the American Red Cross gave us a brief talk on: "What the Red Cross is doing for the men overseas."

For the February meeting Marion Fitzhugh, '28 arranged for us to see the official Coast Guard film of the Invasion of Normandy and the Official Fighting French film of the Liberation of Paris. This latter was loaned to us by France Forever.

Public Health Report

1944-1945

Theodora Sharrocks, Chairman

The Public Health Committee of the Alumnae Association of the School of Nursing of the Presbyterian Hospital, in the City of New York, was organized in September and has met quite regularly once a month for dinner and discussion of public health matters which might be of interest or concern to the Alumnae Association. For convenience we call ourselves the "P.H.—P.H. Committee." The Committee offered to be of service in any way possible, and expressed a desire to keep in close touch with Presbyterian Hospital. The Public Health Committee has endeavored to keep the alumnae informed of community events in the immediate vicinity of the Hospital and in the City, and of nursing problems in general as seen or as participated in by public health nurses.

Changes in personnel in the local Health Center and in the Department of Health have been reported, the most important being Miss Hilbert as Director of Nursing Service.

The need for establishment of a Child Health Station in the Washington Heights area and the difficulty of finding space for it was reported.

Participation of public health nurses in volunteering to help at Halloran Hospital was recorded.

The P.H.-P.H. Committee called attention to the unthinking program of the New York City Cancer Committee's Women's Field Army in regard to their courses for nurses' aides. While it is agreed that nurses' aides can be and have been most helpful, the Cancer Committee's nurse aide program seems mistaken in two ways—(1) The nurses' aides wear a uniform similar in style but different in color from those worn by the Red Cross Nurses' Aides. As quickly as the public realizes that the green nurse aide is associated with cancer, the less free will the green nurse aide be to serve those who may utilize her services. (2) The Cancer Committee has announced that the nurses' aides will give service to patients in their homes, but has not arranged for planned professional supervision of such services.

Unsupervised nurse aide service is a hazard to the public and contrary to good community service and planning.

The P.H.-P.H. Committee has six members representing five public health agencies in New York City. There are 26 Presbyterian Alumnae on the staffs of these organizations.

District Thirteen Meeting, January 16th, 1945, Hotel Pennsylvania, New York.

Reports of Various Committees:

Membership Committee reported the dissolving of the Skin and Cancer Alumnae Association and a new association, the Fordham Alumnae Association.

There were 92 requests for Miss Gill's lectures, notes on the "Newer Drugs and Treatments." The cost will depend on the number of requests.

Committee on Legislature reported contributions:

Mt. Sinai Alumnae Association .....	$100.00
New York Post Graduate Alumnae Association.....	50.00
St. Luke's Alumnae Association .....	75.00
Sydenham Alumnae Association .....	25.00

Resolution Committee—recommended, since the need for nurses is too urgent to recruit as in service act induction of nurses, the HR 1824, a bill to insure adequate care of the armed forces, should be passed immediately by Congress, to provide more skilled nurses to the armed forces, with the recommendation that the nurses be assigned to medical duties only; shall not affect voluntary recruitment of nurses to Army or Navy Corps as officers.

American Nurses Association—State President, Miss Casey. An emergency meeting was held January 15, 1945 at the Henry Hudson Hotel, New York City. Thirty-six State Presidents attended and discussed action necessary following recommendation of President Roosevelt to Congress on January 6th, 1945 to draft nurses.

Attorney of the American Nurses' Association was sent to Washington to interview Representative May and ask that, if the Nurse Draft Bill would go through, he recommend the endorsement of the Bill with certain amendments—as follows:

1. If nurses drafted, they would receive commissions.
2. Qualifications same as in voluntary enlistment.
3. Drafting to be through Procurement and Assignment Bureau or a nurse on each draft board.
4. No discrimination according to race, creed, nationality or sex.
5. No Navy disqualification because of marriage.
6. Recommendation that the age group be changed to 20-45 years.

Representative May hoped enlistment would be accelerated so that the President would not need to present the Bill to Congress.

Red Cross—Miss Lee reported a response of 244 applicants between January 8th and January 14th:

43 Navy

201 Army

Miss Lee stressed the greater need for Army Nurses. A new office at 39 Whitehall Street, New York to facilitate Registration—where the “physical” is done immediately after registration.

New York City Nursing Council is compiling information for nurses coming to New York and those returning after the war.

Procurement and Assignment Bureau recommends reclassification of nurses—

All nurses in Class III taken out and put in Class I or IV.

A.N.A. reports 223,405 civilian nurses and only 51,000 in the Army and Navy as of January 1945.

Registry Committee—Miss Napier suggested mass meeting for all nurses to acquaint them with the May Bill and answer questions.

Continuing the discussion on the suggestion of organizing a Central Nursing Registry in New York City, stated:

1. Object to establish a nurse placement service under District Thirteen auspices to make a truly professional Registry, seeking support of commercial and hospital registries.
2. To change name from The Nursing Bureau of Manhattan and Bronx to Nurses' Association of District Thirteen, because of the difficulty in finding the name of the Nurses' Registry in the telephone book and to control exorbitant rates.
3. The establishment of a Placement and Guidance Bureau under District 13 would in no way affect the functioning of the Alumnae and Hospital Registries.

On a vote taken on the Central Registry, the motion was lost.

Miss McMillan made a motion which was seconded that the matter be presented to the Alumnae Associations for their further discussion.

A letter stating the objectives of the Central Registry was to be mailed to Presidents of each Alumnae Association in District Thirteen.

Public Health—On Jan. 10th a Panel Discussion, "Interpreting Public Health Nursing," called attention to January 26th as a National Public Health Day—the need for all people to take more interest in their own health.

Private Duty Section—Reported a meeting on January 3rd, 1945. Speaker: Lt. Margaret Blake, A.N.C.; Topic: "The Army Nurse"; Speaker: Miss Hilda M. Tarrop, Executive Secretary, Recruitment Committee, Practical Nurses of New York, Inc.; Topic: The Practical Nurse and Her Place in the Community.

Men's Nurses Section—No Report.

Report of the Alumnae Representative on the Nursing Committee of the Presbyterian Hospital
Marie C. Byron, '17

The Nursing Committee of the Neurological Institute was combined with the Nursing Committee of the Presbyterian Hospital at the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Board of Managers June 26th, 1944. Mr. Alexander, Chairman of the Nursing Committee, welcomed the Neurological representatives at the October meeting. Mrs. Thatcher Brown's and Mrs. Gordon Abbott's resignations were accepted with regret. Both Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Abbott have been very faithful in attendance and in the support of the School and its various activities.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

In November, Mr. Alexander was called upon by the War Department to undertake a special mission for the War Department. Mrs. Davison and Mrs. DeRham have been acting as Chairmen during his absence.

The original plan for the expansion of Maxwell Hall will be fulfilled by the addition of two wings to the east, increasing the housing of students from 365 to 500 and providing apartments for 20 members of the Faculty. A fine library has been planned as well as additional recreational facilities for students and faculty. It was agreed that the new library be called the J. Kennedy and Maria Kennedy Tod Library in commemoration of the many benefactions received by the School of Nursing from the Tod family.

Miss Conrad explained to the Committee the difficulties the graduate nurses are experiencing in finding housing accommodations in the neighborhood of the Medical Center and her recommendations that special police protection be given was carried out.

Miss Dorothy Rogers, who was appointed a part-time Professor to develop and coordinate our clinical program leading to a masters degree in the clinical field, is in charge of the pre-military program which is now being conducted for graduate nurses who have had inadequate experience in their Schools of Nursing. Miss Rogers will be in charge of this course until it is possible to carry on the work for which she was appointed.

Despite the difficulties encountered today, the growth of the School has been recognized by Miss Conrad's appointment as Associate Dean. This is a definite step forward for the School and Miss Conrad is to be congratulated. Three hundred and twenty-three students were registered in the Spring session. Seventy-four of these are cadet nurses.

There is to be a Summer session at Bryn Mawr for students entering the Nursing Field in October. This project will be supported by the Johns Hopkins Hospital and our own School with mutual benefit. We are pleased to announce that Miss Elizabeth Wilcox will be Dean of this Summer School as she was in the year 1943.

Miss Wilcox has also conducted a course for Junior Head Nurses to accelerate their preparation for responsibilities which they are having to assume with less experience than would be required during normal times.

Miss Dorothy Deming, '20, Consultant in Public Health Nursing for the American Public Health Association, gave the students a splendid course of five lectures on community health practices.

There was considerable discussion regarding the proposed draft bill for nurses for the Armed Services. The Committee agreed with the stand taken by the American Nurses' Association and gave credit to the Alumnae working on voluntary recruitment.

Miss Conrad reported at the December meeting the new retirement and group insurance plan for all the employees. The Presbyterian Hospital is one of the few hospitals in the country to have such an arrangement for its employees.

The question of how to provide adequate nursing service in the hospitals is a very serious one at this time. The proposal from the Dean's Office that an arrangement might be made with members of the incoming class of Medical Students for work on the wards during the summer was gratefully received. There has been a good response. These students will act as ward assistants for the summer. Further help is expected from a group of college girls who will take the Red Cross Course. There has been partial compensation for the loss of staff nurses by the graduates registered for special duty nursing. Their willingness to co-operate is deeply appreciated. Miss Caroline Nicoll continues to give her services as Instructor of Red Cross volunteers. The volunteers have made a splendid contribution this past year.

The April Quarterly Magazine carried a list of the Alumnae serving in the Armed Forces together with their addresses and serial numbers. The Presbyterian Unit, the Second General Hospital, is still at Nancy. Letters from Major Peto and Alumnae in the Armed Services all over the world have been received and published in the Quarterly Magazine. In February, Miss B. Chambers was reported to be among the survivors liberated in the Philippines. Miss Chambers attended the U.S.O. Canteen Bazaar held on April 6th at Maxwell Hall for the benefit of the Red Cross. We had the privilege of hearing her description of the fighting and the heroism of the men and women in the war zone. Let us hope another year will find our absent members with us again.

Report of the Membership Committee
Alice Hamilton, '42, Acting Chairman for Katherine Greenough, '44

The Membership Committee is pleased to report that we have a total number of 2,181 active members in the Alumnae Association of the Presbyterian Hospital School of Nursing. 253 of these nurses are now serving with the armed forces both in the United States and overseas.

I have the happy duty today of introducing the Class of 1945 as new members of the Alumnae Association. With the addition of our 105 new members our numbers now total 2,286.

Report of the Education Committee
Dorothy Rogers, '25, Chairman

A meeting of the Education Committee was held in September 1944. The following scholarships were awarded for the academic year 1944-1945.

Helen Young Scholarship

Evelyn Hess, '43 for a year's study at Teachers College, Columbia University toward a B.S. degree in Teaching and Supervision in Schools of Nursing.

Emma Baker Kennedy Scholarships

1. Eileen Goodyer, '41 for a year's study at Teachers College, Columbia University to complete the requirements for a B.S. degree in Teaching and Supervision in Schools of Nursing.

2. Catherine D. Griffin, '41 for the spring semester 1945 to complete the requirements at Teachers College, Columbia University for a B.S. degree in Teaching and Supervision in Schools of Nursing.

These three graduates are all on leave of absence from Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center.

The balance remaining in The Emma Baker Kennedy Scholarship Fund which may be assigned during 1945 is $294.63.

Publications Committee Report
Eleanor Lee, '20, Chairman

We are happy that so many members of the Class of 1945 chose Lippincott's "Quick Reference Book for Nurses" for their graduation gift from the Alumnae. An extensive revision of this book is planned for next fall. In April Miss Young had a conference with Mr. Bacon, vice-president of J. B. Lippincott Co., who stated that the demand for this book is tremendous. A new section on penicillin has been prepared by Miss Gill and in the revision sulfa drugs, care of burns, and new methods of therapy will be carefully considered.

No new developments have occurred since the report of our two Fiftieth Anniversary books published in The Quarterly Magazine, November 1944 issue:—"Essentials of Nursing" by Helen Young, R.N. and "Associates of the Presbyterian Hospital," edited by Eleanor Lee, G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York 1942.

REPORT OF THE TREASURER

HELEN YOUNG, '12

It was decided to engage regular auditors and have a monthly audit of the books.

The auditors made a study of the accounts and made some recommendations which will be introduced gradually.

1. More business-like system of accounts in the shops, including inventory and cash registers.
2. A membership card in place of a receipt for dues.
3. A more prompt depositing of monies.
4. Better recording of minutes of Committee meetings.
5. All who have access to funds bonded.
6. Cost of auditing to be pro-rated.
7. Tax exemption.
8. Cost to Alumnae Association.

REUNION NEWS

THIS year, Alumnae Day Reunions were celebrated by holding box lunches on the roof. In spite of the difficulties of travel, and the busy lives that most of our alumnae lead the attendance was very good.

1895

Although no members of this class were able to attend the reunion, 5 alumnae were heard from.

1905

Six members of this class attended the reunion: Ida Winters Baird; Martha Lamson; Elizabeth Daniel; Charlotte S. Kernan; Annie E. Thomas; Cora Crowder Barnett. Various items of interest were received in letters. Grace Overton Brown took an accelerated Home Nursing Course for graduate nurses. Carrie Frey Beach has been ill for nearly a year but is improving now. Her war work is knitting socks. Mary Green Gay is doing eight hour duty in a tubercular sanatorium near her home in Sierra Madre, California. Hannah Scott Dillon sends regards to all members of the Class of 1905.

1910

No luncheon was held, but news was received from Pauline de Isei Lockwood. She writes, "I hope another year that Jill and I can attend Commencement together and perhaps bring Judy with us. Jill has been busy with the new baby, Douglas Lockwood Buchanan—both babies are really lovely. Jack has been in the Pacific for a year and a half—has just weathered the Okinawa campaign. He is a Captain now in the Marine Corps, and has been through many of the campaigns, we hear."

1915

Three members were present: Elizabeth R. Brackett, M.D.; Kathryn Terriberry; and Retta L. Pinney. Regrets were sent by Lucy Matthews, Marjorie Conover Wagner, Isabelle Woods, Lillian Van Stinen, and Elizabeth Culver.

1920

For the Class of 1920 this year marked its twenty-fifth reunion. Due to war-time restrictions on traveling many hopeful members were unable to attend, but thirteen classmates were present for either Graduation or Alumnae Day. At the box luncheon on the roof, a delightful time was had, reading letters from absent members and hearing news from those present. Guests of the class were Helen Young, '12, Margaret Eliot, '21, and Dorothy Rogers, '25. Members of the Class of 1920 who attended were: Margaret E. Conrad; Marjorie Strong Smith; Eleanor Lee; Winifred Kaltenbach; Nellie Estey; Harriet Wright; Marjorie Wright Upson; Ann Campbell Duncan; Dorothy Stockton Nelson; Priscilla Barrows Sheldon; Gertrude Banfield; Jennie Wideman; and Jean Holden. Many generous contributions were sent in to the 1920 Memorial Scholarship Fund. The amount at press time was $250.00 but this is not a final figure.

1925

Dorothy Rogers attended and was the guest of the Class of 1920.

1930

Those present included: Elizabeth Schneider; Christine Davis Stuart; Elna Saamanen; Marion Kneeland Donald; and Betty Carnes.

1935

(As reported by Ilona Szabo, Chairman).

"We were twelve, at the 1935 Class Reunion Box Luncheon. Ten years out on our own didn't seem to produce much change, we agreed—just some additions and accomplishments. There were: "Egee" Carlson Simpson—two children; "Danny" Daniels Dunn—two girls and a boy, living in New Jersey; Lucia de Castro Charlot—two girls and a boy, N. Y. City; Betty Paddon Smith—one girl, N. Y. City; Georgia Hand Dryburgh—two children, New Jersey; Mary Holden Ericson—Neurological Nursing Office, N. Y. City; Helen O'Reilly—Specializing in Harkness, N. Y. City; Nellie Steeneland—Industrial nurse, N. Y. City; "Jess" Peeke—Medical Director, Children's Aid Society, N. Y. City; "Polly" Stines Coyne—Vanderbilt Clinic, N. Y. City; "Fran" Gerkin—O.R. anesthetist at P.H., N. Y. City; "Lynn" Szabo—Electric Shock Therapy at Neurological Institute, living in Brooklyn, N. Y. We heard from "Bea" Urban Elliott, who has Nancy, 2½ years, living in New Jersey; Helen Gillies Wilson—a boy and a girl, living in California; "Sue" Wollery Coyle — working in Government Clinic in Panama; Edythe Rich Green—Public Health, Westchester County; "Bea" Chambers—Army Nurse Corps, Government Hospital, Utah; Helen Jaster Sala—two girls and a boy, living in Rhode Island; and Ruth ("Skempy") Skemp—Public Health work in Lublock, Texas with the State Crippled Children's Division and what with moving so much hasn't had any P.H. news since April, 1944!! It was nice to be together again, even for so short a time.

Nine members attended the reunion: Mary Windrow, Jean Harris, Anita Harris, Ethel Silfies, Hedwig Rulka, Elsie M. Ulone, Beatrice Bellinger Self, Rose M. Daniels, and Virginia Green.

One hundred and five new members from the Class of 1945 were accepted into the Alumnae Association on June 8th.

Our only regret is that reunions don't happen often enough. Perhaps next year, when the war-time restrictions may be less rigid, we shall be able to give a hearty welcome to more of our alumnae.

FORTIETH REUNION 1905-1945

By Mrs. Alfred Jerome Brown (Grace Overton Brown, '05)

In nineteen-five we were looking back to nineteen-hundred and two.
"I wish myself could talk to myself"
A stupid thing to do:
In nineteen-hundred and forty-five,
Those of us who are still alive,
Are looking forward to post-war days,
To justice and peace and heavenly rays;
When we won't knit helmets,
But may knit socks.
When we'll all be friends and the only knocks,
Are at neighborly doors, with no fear of rocks.
Our children and grandchildren
Will live at peace.
But this does not mean they will have to cease
To work, watch and stamp all evil out
Before it's disguised; or to put to rout
All prejudiced pride of Race, Color and Creed.
Remember the hospital corner stone?
So organize with P.H. speed,
You'll not be alone.
Work for unity, justice and peace.
Good against Evil, without surcease.

RECENT NEWS FROM THE RED CROSS

ON May 12th, just four days after victory in Europe, Miss Virginia Dunbar, Director Red Cross Nursing Service, Washington, D. C. announced that 100,000 nurses had volunteered for military service since Pearl Harbor. This patriotic response holds the record for all women's groups in the armed forces. The adjutation about a draft of nurses was unfair.

On June 1st announcement was made through the American Red Cross that the military nursing needs had been met, except for the comparatively small number of required nurse replacements, almost 53,000 nurses serving the Army and 11,500 with the Navy. Over 260 "P.H." Alumnae have served during World War II.

The American Red Cross is cooperating with the American Nurses' Association in a plan to aid nurses released from military service who may desire assistance in their adjustment to civilian life. The Red Cross through the recruitment committees and nurses in chapters will offer hospitality and information to the returning nurses and the American Nurses' Association will be responsible through its state and district associations for professional guidance and counseling.

Many inquiries are being received by the New York Chapter Nurse Recruitment Committee from Directors of Schools of Nursing who are anxious to have their students graduating in September 1945 become members of the Red Cross Nursing Service. No word has been received as yet concerning the enrolment of nurses in the future. Members of the Student Reserve will now be enrolled in the Red Cross as promised; enrollment had been discontinued except for those nurses entering military service.

MEMORIAL GIFT FOR MISS CATHERINE REBMAN

A GIFT has been received in the School Office in memory of a graduate nurse, to be used for sick nurses in our hospital. The letter accompanying it is published here, as we are sure that our graduates will be glad to know of this very lovely form of memorial.

Dear Miss Conrad:

The enclosed check for $60 is given as a contribution to The Helen Young Sick Nurses Fund in memory of Miss Catherine Rebman, a graduate nurse, who served with distinction in her chosen profession.

You would like, I am sure, to have some information about Miss Rebman's career. After completing her training in the West Pennsylvania Hospital in Pittsburg, Miss Rebman served as Assistant Superintendent, under Miss Elizabeth Gaynor, of the Hospital in Washington, Pennsylvania and later as Superintendent of Dr. Philip and Emory Marvel's Sanatorium in Atlantic City and then as Superintendent of the County Hospital in Lancaster, Ohio. Her subsequent services at the Philadelphia Contagious Hospital and the Eye Hospital in Pittsburgh won for her special diplomas in those fields. She also had extensive experience in surgical nursing, working with Dr. Chevalier Jackson, noted for his work in bronchoscopy. During the last twenty-five years of her life, Miss Rebman shared with Miss Lucy Fay, a member of the Columbia University faculty, a home on Morningside Heights, where her wide circle of devoted friends delighted to gather, enjoying her charming hospitality and her never failing fund of entertaining anecdotes garnered from her rich experience, revealing always her keen insight, sympathetic understanding, and her kindly, sparkling wit.

Miss Rebman died in February, 1945, and this fund, a loving tribute to a dear friend, is the gift of the following:

Miss Lucy E. Fay	Mr. and Mrs. W. Hausdorfer
Miss Dorothy W. Curtiss	Miss Isabella K. Rhodes
Miss Lydia M. Gooding	Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cleavinger

Miss Miriam D. Tompkins

Sincerely yours,

(signed) MIRIAM D. TOMPKINS.

LIFE IN A JAP PRISON CAMP

The Story of Beatrice Chambers, '35, who was released from Bilibid Prison Camp in February, 1945.

LIFE in a Jap prison camp is something far from desirable. There is very little clothing, never enough to eat, nor sometimes to drink, but plenty of vermin and atrocities. This sort of existence lasted for three years. From day to day each one of us performed our appointed task which was given to us to do, according to our ability, by a General Committee organized by an election of popular votes from the internees. This committee dealt directly with the Japs. All this started after the first few months when we realized that some organization had to be made.

Americans are great organizers and before long we had one part of the prison set up as a hospital, another part as a school, and another section where all religious denominations could worship.

Our hospital took care of the internees and Jap guards. We coped with emergency operations as well as with medical cases, and did very well considering the lack of equipment and supplies. There were also deliveries. Occasionally a native woman in prolonged labor would be allowed to come to our hospital for help. The natives always came to us for help and left only at the point of a bayonet.

The Japs fed us on rice and corn and occasionally threw in a few weeds. We supplemented this diet by signing I O U's for pescos and then buying what we could with our money. The rate of interest was high. For each pesco borrowed two had to be returned. Altogether I owe 500 pescos or 250 dollars! Most of this food was smuggled in over the wall and by bribing Jap guards. However, towards the end, food became so scarce that not even money was worth anything. The last year meat was almost unheard of and the rice and corn grew less and less. The cooking was done in large caldrons by the cooking group. Most of our trouble was due to deficiency diseases and boils. Teeth went very quickly and when tooth decay set in and became very bad, the tooth was extracted without a sedative.

The group that I was in moved around from camp to camp. As soon as we cleaned up one filthy camp we were moved to another. Along with our regular camp duties we were made to go out in the field and plant vegetables. The Japs took over these gardens when they started to produce vegetables. Finally we were all moved to Bilibid Prison in Manila. We were not allowed to take anything with us but our bare necessities. Our war prisoners had been placed in this part of the prison before we arrived. Bilibid is a large prison having been built by the Spaniards before the American occupation. There are many dungeons and walls within walls. This part of the prison had been the prison hospital at one time built by the Americans in 1908 to take care of the sick. The Philippine Government, before the war, had condemned the building and started to tear it down. All the plumbing had been removed. It was in this building that the Japs took most of the sick and wounded which were left to live after the fall of Bataan and Corregidor. Many unspeakable horrors and Jap atrocities occurred there. The cell walls spoke of misery and suffering. Before we arrived the Japs moved the war prisoners into another section of Bilibid across the wall from us. We were not permitted to look at these prisoners or to speak to them. They in turn were not allowed to look at or speak to us. But whenever we got the chance we did. This life continued until the Americans came to town in planes, infantry, and cavalry. The B-24's and Helldivers bombed and bombed, and it was a wonderful symphony. The Tanks, Infantry, and 1st Cavalry took the Japs by surprise when they stormed Manila. That was some night! Our tanks let the dreaded Jap Gestapo building which was opposite Bilibid have the full impact of their fury. Many things happened that night. The next morning the American Army almost stormed Bilibid as they thought it was a Jap stronghold. When the going got too tough the Japs disappeared, and our men broke down a wooden door leading to the outside. The first man out was a thin half-starved one, and the Americans were ready to kill him, but for some reason paused and then realized he wasn't a Jap. When asked who he was, the prisoner bowed and replied, "I am an American prisoner of war." The Yanks came up to him and took him in their arms and said, "Listen buddy, you are no longer a prisoner, but a free man." The Yanks came into Bilibid and were amazed to see us. On the fourth of February we were officially liberated. We were then evacuated to the back lines, because of the fires which had come up to the walls of Bilibid. We later discovered the Japs had mined the prison and the only reason we were saved was that the Yanks took them so by surprise.

From the backlines I was moved to Santa Tomas with 200 stretcher cases of war prisoners and 50 stretcher cases of civilians. General McArthur made Santa Tomas his headquarters and an army hospital was set up for the war prisoners. The Japs shelled Santa Tomas from several secret places and their range was perfect. We had many casualties among the G.I.'s and liberated prisoners. For many days this shelling lasted and our work grew more and more. On February 11th one hundred army nurses arrived to replace us. Were we glad to see them! On February 12th we were flown out of Manila on a big 54 and back to the good old U. S. A.

While we were lucky enough to come out alive I don't think we'll ever forget those that didn't make it or the ones that came out with minds gone. For this reason I'm willing to go back and do all I can to help.

Alumnae will be interested to hear that Lt. Colonel Rudolph N. Schullinger, M.C., U.S.A. received the Legion of Merit at appropriate ceremonies held at Halloran Hospital on July 20, 1945. Col. Schullinger is Director of the Surgical Staff at Halloran Hospital.

SCHOOL NEWS

THE great day came and went for 105 student nurses, but the memory lingers on . . .

Thinking back on the festivities of June 7th and 8th, we, members of the Class of 1945, recall marching in our white shoes and stockings for the first time; listening to the inspiring address of Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin; receiving our diplomas, and our pins from Miss Young; and forming the arch through which Miss Conrad made her way. Then we remember the reception on the lawn at Maxwell Hall; being congratulated on the lovely weather and on our achievement; and celebrating with our families. The next day was important for the other classes, too, for they were officially promoted at Prayers. It was fun going on the wards as a graduate, and then attending our first Alumnae Meeting. As with every other class in the history of the school, we imagine, we were very much "deflated" after tea was over, but the memory does linger on . . .

Time has passed rapidly since then; already some of the girls are having finishing luncheons. Loretta Boyan, Mary Nunn, Ida Gilliams, and Elsa Larsen were members of the Bryn Mawr Summer Session in 1942, and so they have gone on to real graduate work. Louella Coumbe and Rose Hoynak are the first to finish in the regular three year section, for they receive the fifteen-day bonus as a reward for never missing a day of duty. They deserve the heartiest congratulations.

Not only are members of the Class of 1945 completing their training, but they are getting married, or thinking seriously about it! Jane Helwig Hoffmann, Jean Childs Black, and Elizabeth Child Shonnard have recently taken this big step.

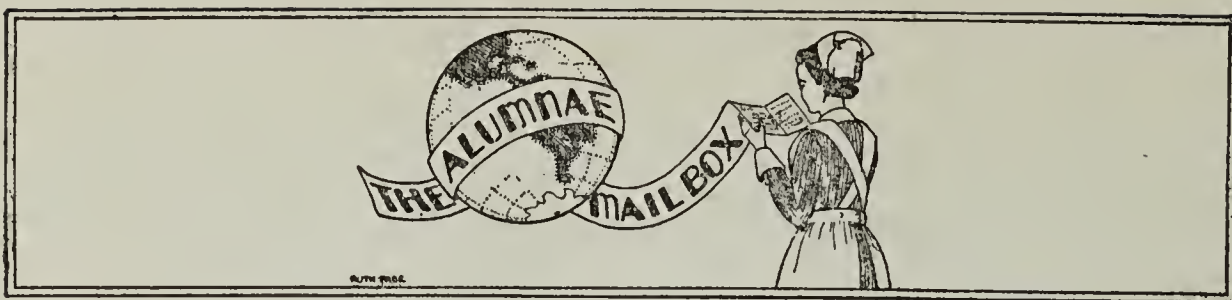

While all these activities have been going on, the classes of '46 and '47 have been going off on vacation, and coming back refreshed. They are thinking of the new year which lies ahead, and are making plans for organization and construction. Officers are being elected for the various clubs and classes, and seniors are beginning to write to "little sisters." Appropriately enough, with the coming of a new term, the construction has started for the addition to Maxwell Hall. The Class of 1945 is sorry that they will miss all the advantages which this addition will provide! Rumor has it that the student in the Class of '56 will be able to get cokes and potato chips in the snack bar any time of the day or night; and that she will read best sellers while sitting in red leather chairs in the spacious library. Strictly rumor!

May our first thoughts always be with our patients, and our desires be centered on building a good background for the peace to come—our future life.

JEAN GRIFFIN, '45.

Letter from Lt. Georgia Foster, '31, to Miss Helen Young Advance Sector
France
March 15, 1945

This is a little Easter greeting to you from overseas—I arrived last October and have been in France since Christmas Day when we crossed the Channel.

We are quite busy right now—have a very nice set-up. At present I am in Central Supply. We supply practically everything from pins to O<sub>2</sub> tanks and an imagination is almost a must. Everything must be improvised. Am getting so acquisitive, I'll never be able to throw away a scrap of paper.

The 2nd General is only 70 miles away. Hope to see them soon.

Two other P.H. grads are in this unit, Mary Mason and Jean MacVickar. Ran into Jane Wilson (Eye Hospital) and Mary Pembleton in England and Captain Gordon Stevenson.

Please remember me to all you see. It's fourteen years yesterday since I received my pin.

181st Gen'l Hospital
A.P.O. 883, c/o P.M., New York, N. Y.

India
21 June, 1945

India is a strange country. I certainly didn't dream this up last January. It amazes me that the British can stand it for 15 or 20 years—or more.

Since arriving late in April, I have spent several weeks in Calcutta, some time in New Delhi, and have been in this, my final destination (for the time, anyhow) long enough to get my first two week night duty tour. Calcutta when we were there was hot and humid, filthy as always — but to me peculiarly fascinating. I never knew there were so many people in the world—not even in New York. They are all over the streets as well as the sidewalks—sleeping, bathing at curbside hydrants, shaving, and mixing up their horrid-looking food —all mixed up with rickshaws, garies (horse-drawn Victoria à la New Orleans), brilliant red or green open top taxies driven by turbanned and bearded Sikhs—and G.I. buses and jeeps tearing around. So many of the people of Calcutta are homeless or live in little one-room open front affairs that face on the sidewalks—sometimes a shop, sometimes a home—that life must go on where one can find room for it. The poverty there is appalling.

While in Calcutta I was amazed to see Anne Breen, also more or less transient at the same big hospital where I was staying. She is with a field hospital unit that has now moved on. We had quite a chat one Sunday A.M. at breakfast. Also have seen a Miss Bell, who worked in the Overnight Ward several months — not a P.H. nurse — and a Miss Chiu, a Chinese nurse who until quite recently was in N. Y. working at P.H., now a Captain in the beginnings of the Chinese Army Nurse Corps. While I was working over there a few days, the ward officer on my ward also hailed from P.H.—at least P. & S.—he finished there about '38—a Captain Hyams. Small world. I've met more people I know than mutual friends, since leaving the States, both on the boat and here in India!

This hospital has been located here for some time, and is quite well settled. We live two to a room in brick and concrete quarters, very comfortably furnished, with a private shower-room for each room. There certainly is no servant problem here. For practically nothing a month we get sweeper service, dhabī (laundryman) and bearer who does absolutely everything for us—I'm sure he would brush my teeth if I took them out for him! I always wanted a personal maid, but never dreamed of having a valet! But it is practically impossible to work and keep yourself up, too, in this heat.

On this side of the globe most of the V-E Day celebrating was done by the British—tho' the rest of us contributed to the general feeling. It is still hard, somehow, to take it in that the German phase is over.

My best wishes and best of luck to all the home quarters. 'Twill be wonderful to have again—no front but the home front.

Letter from Alice Chamberlain, '43, UNRRA to Miss Conrad
Jeanne d'Arc Refugee Camp

A.P.O. 497, c/o P.M., New York, N. Y.

March 2, 1945

We have been working very hard and will be working harder soon. We are expecting to have a census of about 500-600 soon and our staff consists of 1 doctor, 6 nurses, a few very green nurse's aides, and some Yugo-Slav soldiers who act as orderlies! The hospital is a Neisson hut; the heating is done by kerosene stoves; and we have electricity only from 5:30 P.M. to 11:30 P.M.—after that we use lanterns. I'm continually amused at the picture of these modern "ladies with a lamp" in slacks, several sweaters, and a coat (it gets very cold at night). We do many things that we were trained not to do—such as carrying in a big bottle of pills and dispensing them in our hands. We have one medicine glass which we use for measuring and no paper cups! Our equipment in all consists of the barest essentials. Isolation technique is difficult to the point of being very funny—you should see the antics we go through. Also, we have very little laboratory equipment and no technician—the doctor has trained a Yugo-Slav soldier to do a few things such as urinalyses and C.B.C.'s, but he can't do everything. We have no equipment to test for syphilis so we go on a basis of suspicion, mainly.

Our medicines are captured German and Italian preparations—some good, some mediocre. In many cases it becomes very confusing and it is necessary to be exceedingly careful. Much of our equipment is the same—our one I.V. set is the most fearfully complicated apparatus I've ever seen. We cross our fingers every time we use it.

A word or two about our patients—they are and will be from a notoriously horrible concentration camp in Germany. If I have gained nothing else in taking care of these people, I have gained an underlying thankfulness and appreciation for America. Every living American should get down on his knees and thank God for our country. What these people have gone through is beyond human comprehension. We all have read about it but it didn't really sink into my head until I saw it—the physical and mental scars resulting from all that horror. The middle-aged men and women are broken and old, the children are a thousand years old. They have been beaten, starved, and have seen sights that they won't talk about. One child here saw his mother beaten to death and his father's hand chopped off by an S.S. man. Most of the ailments are malnutrition and its various and sundry complications. We have also cardiac cases, cancer, carbuncles, E. N. T. difficulties and T.B. There is one obstetrics case due any time now—I'm afraid that that will be one very spoiled baby!

I seem to have written at great length but once started, found it hard to stop. However, I must, now,—and hope you will find it interesting.

I think of P.H. often. It seems very far away!

From Lt. Anita M. Harris, '40 to Miss Conrad 1247th S.C.U.—Hospital Trains
Miller Field, New Dorp
Staten Island, New York

April 14, 1945

I think so often of all my friends at Presbyterian Hospital and all it taught me; like all alumnae I look forward to the Quarterly Magazine.

My assignment to hospital trains pleased me so much and needless to say there is never a dull moment. Our base is here on Staten Island and as the convoys arrive with patients, each man is assigned to a general hospital in the States, so that our job is to take them to their destination. It's really a happy task since the boys are always so joyful to be back in the country.

The hospital ward cars are quite complete and aside from the rockiness of the movement it's hard to realize you aren't running a typical ward in a hospital. Each car can care for thirty men, while enlisted men are assigned to remain in the car constantly and the two nurses assigned to each trip make rounds of about seven cars. We have a doctor as Train Commander so that all medical responsibility does not fall on the nurses.

The United States ceases to seem like a large country. Indeed when you find yourself on the West Coast, one week, Miami Beach the next, and Texas a few days later, the country seems like a very small place!

* * * * *

Letter from Lt. Blanche Collins, '30 to Miss Helen Young

11 June, 1945

After 14 months in Australia I was sent back to the States and have been here for nearly two years now. I was fortunate enough to return as an attendant to an injured nurse, then luck stayed with me and I'm still here, stationed in San Francisco with a train unit. Several weeks ago we had a Lt. Harris here from the train unit at Staten Island and I think she is from Presbyterian.

The former Miss Tubbs, now Mrs. Little, is here at a place called Auburn. Sometimes we take patients to DeWitt General Hospital so am in hopes that one of these days I might have the opportunity of looking her up.

I live in a large house with a nice location, just this side of the Golden Gate Bridge. I'm very fond of the work we are doing, though it's rather rough on us at times. We take patients from here to the east coast, then pick up another movement and bring them back to Washington State. Then we may pick up more patients to deliver to the midwestern states. We are gone as long as 25 to 27 days at a time with very little time off between convoys. We sort of feel like sailors off from a ship—the first day or so back the ground just won't stay put.

While in Sydney on leave saw Col. Barclay Parsons and was most surprised. I thought all along that he was with the unit in Europe. Also ran into Dr. John Boyd at Letterman General one day. He put in some temporary duty with our unit in New Guinea. Dr. Richmond Moore was at Camp Cooke, as was Mark Hand. Major MacComber who worked with Dr. Webster was on our staff at Letterman, also; he is now down at Dibble doing plastic work and is thought of very highly.

Life is very exciting, especially on the trains. I almost always meet some one whom I knew overseas, and of course we fight our own particular little wars all over again during the trip to the receiving hospital.

The only other news is that Dottie Armstrong came through here on her way home and I had a few minutes with her.

Sorry not to make graduation but maybe one of these days I'll have another trip to New York and can run up to see all the people at Presbyterian.

From the "Home Front"

Letter from Elsa MacRae, '36 to Miss Helen Young Erdenheim Farm, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia 18, Pa.

March 18, 1945

Many times I have thought of writing but it's been one of those things never accomplished. Whenever the Quarterly arrives, I think now I will write—I get such a homesick feeling. The years that have passed since that memorable day, when you pinned my P.H. pin on my bib, have gone so quickly and I can honestly say I wish I had those three years to do over again.

After reading the various letters from the girls overseas, I feel my letter will be quite dull. I just wish it were my privilege to be in the service and I certainly envy those who are. Not for the glory that some people associate with it but for the great satisfaction one must feel doing her part along side of our brave boys—and then, there are times when that feeling of helplessness overshadows all.

Two years have passed since I started in industry. I am with a defense plant which manufactures precision instruments, located in Hatboro, about 12 miles from home. The plant has steadily enlarged since I first went there. At that time there were 250 employees; now there are over 500. I am the only nurse—first aid trained men take over on the small night shift—and have one doctor on call. Our plant has quite a machine shop, assembly department, and a glass shop—glass-blowing, etc. which is most interesting. Most of the first aid work pertains to lacerations and I have come to depend on the butterfly strap to take the place of sutures many times.

I have some very happy news of Claire Kendall Ossorie. Her father-in-law wrote me this week that he has heard directly from her. She, Jose and their three children were imprisoned at Santa Tomas Camp and were among the fortunate ones to be liberated. She said they had lost a great deal of weight but were recuperating rapidly.

Letter from Virginia Stolz Mulliken, '44
Hanover, New Hampshire

May 31, 1945

Since April I have been doing private duty at the Hospital (Hitchcock Memorial). Until then I'd been doing general duty. Having only one patient is much easier work but I miss the excitement of a ward. I find it hard at times to mind my own business.

Presbyterian Hospital is well represented at Hitchcock. Besides Dr. John Milne, we have Dr. McLaughlin. Of course, I'm the only one who looks like Presbyterian. I still wear and love my stripes. The people up here just can't understand how my stripes could be a graduate uniform. I bet I've explained it a hundred times along with why there is no black band on my cap. But to compensate for all the curiosity, the people all say it's the prettiest uniform they've ever seen. And you can be sure, I'm a very proud model.

I've also met Mrs. Mary Taylor Svoboda. We had a wonderful waffle supper at her home in Norwich, Vt. one snowy night last winter.

P. H. UNIT

MAJOR MARJORIE PETO, A.N.C. and her nurses of the Second General Hospital arrived at Hampton Roads, Virginia aboard the General Meigs on October 12, 1945. Three battle stars awarded for the Normandy, Northern France and the Rhineland campaigns and seven over-seas stripes on their sleeves speak for their gallant record and long experience. Some of the nurses have a fourth battle star on their European Theatre ribbons awarded for the Ardennes campaign while on temporary detached service with front line units.

The Second General Hospital was stationed in England for two years and in July 1944 was transferred to France where they established a tent hospital near Saint Lo. The end of August the group left their hospital in Nancy where they had been on duty since January 1945.

Open House for the nurses was held at Maxwell Hall on October twenty-fifth. We are delighted to have had the opportunity to welcome back already so many of our nurses and doctors who have been near enough New York to come in to see us. The nurses of our Unit are now on terminal leave until January and are enjoying a well-earned rest and reunion with their families and friends. They all look well, seem very happy to be back and stand much straighter—like the brave soldiers they have been!

or
ALPHABET TO NUMBERS

IT happened on the morning of September 1, 1945. Of course, there had been rumors floating about, there always ARE about everything, and then numbers had been placed alongside the letters on the elevator doors. Even so no one believed it would actually happen.

Then came the morning of September 1st and Doctor X stepping jauntily into the elevator announced in a cheerful "good-morning" voice "G—for George, please" and started looking through his morning mail as was his custom. The elevator operator gazed at him stonily and said coldly "You want to go to P.H. 8" and started the elevator upward. Before Doctor X could recover from his surprise the car stopped, the doors opened and he found himself in an elevator lobby which looked very familiar and, noting his own patients beyond in the ward he realized the "G for George" and "P.H. 8" were one and the same. As he shrugged into his white coat he thought philosophically "That letter business always seemed rather silly to me anyway."

Later, after rounds, as he entered the elevator on his way to a consultation he said in a hearty voice "P.H. 13, please," mentally clapping himself on the back for remembering about the change. However, his joy was short lived for he was again deflated by the operator who announced "there is NO 13." "No '13'—there certainly is—it comes right after '12'" said Doctor X brightly, trying to keep up his courage. "There isn't in P.H." replied the operator flatly and closed the subject.

So Doctor X, riding up and down the shaft looking for old Floor L discovered that it was now a bright and shiny "P.H. 14." Then it occurred to him that the letter "G" wasn't the eighth letter in the alphabet at all, but the seventh. At this point, thoroughly bewildered, he got off the car and sat down on a bench, took out a pencil and paper and tried to figure the thing out. The more he figured the more confused he became. He checked his alphabet and checked his numbers and finally muttered to himself "It doesn't help to know your alphabet or your figures—in order to get this, a fellow has to understand comparative figures."

Poor Doctor X' struggles were typical of all of us during those first trying days. We timidly approached the amazing men who executed this amazing plan and found—to our surprise—that it was very simple. The reason, they said, was “very sane”—all they were doing was leveling the floors. For instance, in order to have “P.H. 7” and “H.P. 7” the same it was necessary to leave out “6”—Simple! What about “13” we inquired. “13” they scoffed—“you have been shying around that for years by playing with the alphabet.”

So here it is—see if you can figure it out.

“At Wurtzburg, Lt. Gertrude Eckhardt ('26) of Hammonton, New Jersey, is deep in community work. Her first week on the job she inspected DP camps. The next week she surveyed German schools of nursing. The third week she spent getting nurses for DP dispensaries and for the DP hospital and sanatorium at MainFrancken. Now she is getting around to her pet project—surveying the incidence of tuberculosis and the facilities for its care and hospitalization in her district similar to the work she did in New Jersey.”

EARLY AMBULATION

Several months ago news reached us of the "early ambulation" technique used in the Army for post-operative patients. These patients were being allowed up on their second, third, fourth, fifth post-operative days, depending on the operation and the condition of the patient. To us, who were not accustomed to the ambulation of patients until nearly two weeks after operation, this seemed rather bold treatment. However, the results of the Army's method appeared successful enough to warrant a trial. The following account is a summary of the application of this method at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center and was compiled by Dr. Kim Canavarro a member of the surgical staff of Presbyterian Hospital and one of the introducers of early ambulation here.

BETWEEN September, 1944 and July, 1945, there have been 401 cases of early ambulation at Presbyterian Hospital. By "early ambulation" is meant the following procedure: immediately after full recovery from anesthesia, the patient is put up on a high gatch, and is encouraged in deep breathing and moving about in bed. The next morning an abdominal binder is applied and the patient is allowed to stand beside the bed for about 15 minutes. That afternoon he is allowed up again and is assisted in walking about the bed. The second day he is assisted to the bathroom and thereafter is allowed up and around as desired.

Not all patients are allowed early ambulation nor to the same extent. Before the order is given each case is considered from the viewpoint of contraindications, such as prolonged pre-operative bed rest, cachexia, cardiac involvement, shock, anemia, fear of hemorrhage, suspected emboli or thrombi, suppurative conditions as peritonitis, repairs of tissues of poor quality. The surgeon who has done the case actually makes the decision to allow the patient up.

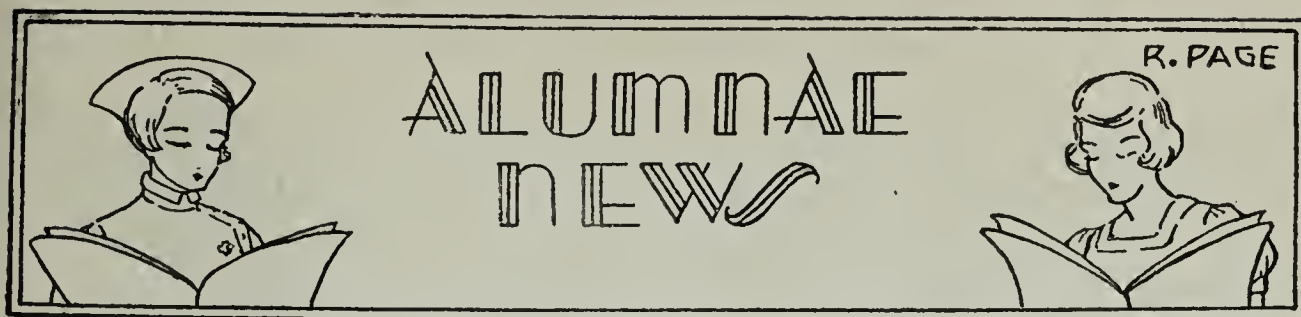

Of the group of 401 patients reviewed, 58% were walking by the end of the second post-operative day, 75% by the end of the third post-operative day, and the remainder by the fifth day. The average length of hospitalization was 11.3 days as compared with the usual 16.1 days post-operatively, for the non-ambulatory patient. The early ambulation group showed no serious wound healing complications, severe hemorrhages, cases of ileus or death. On the contrary, the return to normal of the bodily functions was more rapid than in the group not ambulated and the majority of the patients preferred early ambulation. Very few complained of more pain when up than when lying in bed, and the improvement in morale has been startling.

By comparison with a similar series of cases in 1943, not ambulated, there appears a significant reduction in the incidence of post-operative complications among the early ambulation cases. The occurrence of bronchopneumonia has been reduced by one-half, atelectasis by one-third, phlebothrombosis and pulmonary infarct by one-half. There were no cases of serious retention, and urinary complications were minimal. No cases required catheterization after the third post-operative day and no catheterization was necessary for any of the cases once the patient was fully ambulated. No apparent increase in incisional herniae has been noted to date.

The first or second post-operative day is believed to be the optimum time to ambulate patients, since most of the complications occur in the early post-operative period. The acceleration of these patients' return to normalcy has resulted in a definite economic saving, both financial and in hospital hours, to patient, doctor, and nurse.

ERRATA

In the August 1945 issue an item appeared under Alumnae News announcing the engagement of Miss Mae Breckon, '12, to Mr. Ray Gereau, March 3, 1945, in New York City.

This should have been included in the marriages, not engagements and the bride was Miss Mae Bracken. Miss Bracken is not a Presbyterian graduate but has been on the Vanderbilt Clinic staff for quite some time. Sincerest apologies to all concerned.

THINGS are really going full blast here at Maxwell Hall; with all the drilling, dynamiting, and noise of construction, all Washington Heights is conscious of us.

Our castle-on-the-Hudson looked for all the world like a W.P.A. project last September sixth and seventh when our new preliminary class arrived. This group includes 59 cadet nurses, and for the first time since 1943, a summer section of 24 Bryn Mawr students, registering a total of 124 members of the class of 1948. Topping the numerous informal room parties welcoming little sisters, was the annual "Probie Party." The seniors diverted their "little sisters" with costumes demonstrating the versatility and possibilities of their discarded gray uniforms, featuring sarongs and draped cut-out models. After refreshments were served, the highlight of the evening arrived. Entertainment was provided by the faculty in a humorous dramatic skit about the Nursing School Office, and was much enjoyed by the audience.

On a cold wet Wednesday, September twenty-sixth, the Bryn Mawr Summer School students were welcomed by a tea, with a host of mainly Bryn Mawr "big sisters" greeting them.

The fall social and recreational season has been hung out of its summer mothballs. The Glee Club has many plans in mind, including a Thanksgiving program in conjunction with the Christian Fellowship Society who regularly have services at this time. In December the choral group and Dramatic Club will combine their talents to produce a Christmas pageant. Easter services are also in the offing.

An informal dance has already been planned for October twenty-sixth, and we all are looking forward to our traditional Christmas formal dance, an item missed from our social calendar last year.

Tentative arrangements are under consideration for a "big" and "little sister" group to plan the Red Cross Bazaar this Spring. As in previous years, the Junior Class will organize the Red Cross membership drive in March.

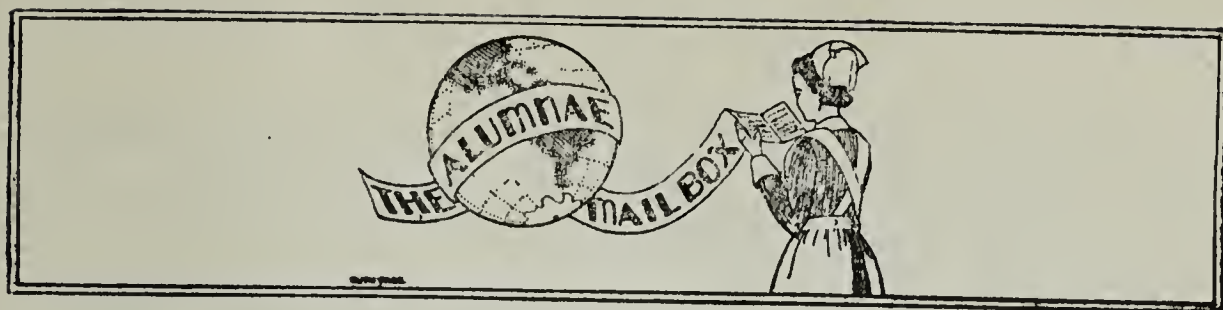

The Class of 1946, already divided with its short course members living in the hospital, will begin to have finishing luncheons from this month onward, while the rest of us gaze with pride and envy.

With the return of the Unit, and all of us anxious to hear first hand experiences, we hope our own Sturges Auditorium will be selected as a suitable location for visits from the overseas nurses, and may we welcome all the alumnae too?

Greece, September 21, 1945

Letter from Marietta D. Papasaph, '40.

I was so thrilled to be able to wear my pin again after so many years. I was on vacation the day I received it. That was three days ago and I was very glad to go on duty again in order to put it on my uniform. It seems to me that somehow the distance separating me from P.H. was bridged by it.

I also thank you very much for the nice letter accompanying it and the lovely parcel which arrived yesterday. It was very nice of you to remember us and believe me, everything you sent fills a great need as there is a great shortage of everything here and for the few things existing in the shops you need a fortune.

Arriving in Greece, the way we did with just what we had on the morning we left the ship we had not been able to buy a single thing because we came in Athens at a very difficult time and everything I wear belongs to different relatives so you can imagine how everything is so welcome. If only we had our things insured. But unfortunately nobody thought of it at the time. . . .

I was so glad to hear that Miss Young occupies a position where she can most help nursing.

I felt very jealous reading in your letter about the school having over a hundred students in each class, and here we are struggling to get 8 or 10 graduates every year and sometimes even less. This year we had only 4. The new Preliminary class entering in October numbers about 20 and I am sure there will be left less than that by the end of the period. It is very difficult when we think of the needs of the hospital and of the whole of Greece having so few graduates to cover all hospitals. We are working very hard, against everything and everybody as nursing as a profession has not reached yet the standards that it ought to. Fortunately now we have enormous amount of help from the nursing division of the U.N.R.R.A. and I hope that we shall accomplish something.

Apart from my regular job at the hospital I am going to teach Nursing Procedures and Personal Hygiene to a group of practical nurses that the Greek War Relief is planning to send to different Health Centers throughout Greece.

Miss Saliari has left the hospital and is now working with the Near East Foundation.

During my vacation I spent a week with Mrs. Kallergis (Miss Georgala) who is living in Patras. . . .

Greece, October 5, 1945

Letter from K. Saliari, '40.

Many many thanks for sending us our P.H. pins. Mr. Kent brought them over when he came back from the States about September 20th.

A few days later two packages arrived, one for each of us. It was just like an American Christmas, opening up our boxes. Marietta and I changed shoes, so they fitted us perfectly, the stockings and underwear were badly needed, face powder and rouge, cream and all the other little luxuries—we had almost forgotten they existed. We feel much that cannot be expressed by merely writing thank you. . . .

Greece is rebuilding rapidly with the help of American and British nurses and other medical officers. We are trying hard to raise our hospital standards. Miss Papasaph is still teaching at the Evengelismos Hospital but I have come to the Near East Foundation to help with the new plan for the care of all the war crippled. I am in charge of the Children's Section. Unfortunately there are many Greek children who have suffered because of this war.

I very much want to come back to P.H. for a while. I know I haven't been away long but I feel there is much I would like to do there. I would like to be a general duty nurse on medicine and surgery for a few months then I would like to go to the OR for a period and then come back to Greece again. The N.E.F. are planning to start nursing schools on the Islands. Athens has hospitals and quite a few trained nurses but the islands and the provinces have nothing.

When you write to Miss Young send her our greetings. We will write to her again to keep her informed of our work here.

Greece is beautiful this time of the year. Perhaps when we are a little more tidied up in our country it might be possible for you to visit us some day.

THE QUARTERLY MAGAZINE

1st General Hospital
A.P.O. 887
c/o P.M., N. Y. C.
12 June 1945

Letter to Miss Young from Lt. Marian L. Nelson, '26.

About two weeks ago I had the February Quarterly sent on by my aunt, Miss Campbell and today the April one which had gone home arrived. I am glad to have them and after I read them they go to Mildred Halligan and then to Winifred Davis (who worked in Babies).

Mildred and I feel quite like forgotten members of the family when we do not get the Quarterly. We see you have our correct address and I received the invitation to Graduation. So we do not know why no Quarterly!

We read all the letters and realize we can add nothing of much interest to them. We were not the first anywhere and have not been in real combat zones so have no stars. . . .

We loved our hut hospital in England and lots of flak fell about during the winter of '40 when London was having "a bit of a show but not a proper blitz." You felt a bit close, glad you were no closer—like sitting on the outskirts of a ball game. We saw lots of bullets, flares, airmen parachute out, planes explode in mid-air and heard and saw the show over London.

Then the buzz bombs,—I never knew a helmet could cover so much of your body. Many a night our prayer was "go on, go on, go on" and although many went over or fell near it wasn't until one beautiful bright afternoon when the creature "snuck" up on us. We didn't hear it, for the engine was cut off,—until it lit in the hen yard alongside our buildings. Hens and horses were killed and eighteen of our buildings collapsed and many others had broken windows and some huge cracks. A few people got scratches but nothing serious.

We had a spot on our floor, so the story goes, so the inspectors scratched us and didn't get to France until D day. + + However it was a blessing in disguise for we were only ten days in the Normandy mud, had a fairly good crossing. I slept on the floor in a cabin for two with four occupants. We of course landed at Omaha Beach on an L.S.T. having had to go down a canvass shoot, because of rough weather into the L.S.T. from the boat. I must say I have no idea how our boys ever took the beach. It was very formidable and at this late date peaceful enough, but we saw plenty of destruction.

While on bivouac it rained every other five minutes and was very cold. We had no stoves set up so our meals were scanty. We took what transportation we could get and saw some of the country. I managed to get to Cherbourg, also saw St. Lo and Corenton—need say no more of them, passed the 2nd General's tent hospital several times but couldn't stop.

En route to Paris, near where we now are, we went through Argentan and how the G.I.'s ever got the railroads in working order is a mystery to me. Upon arrival in Paris I went on D.S. to the 108th General Hospital and the C.O. was none other than Col. Rousselot. Dr. Nelson was with him.

Our own hospital is on the outskirts of Paris—was an old school. The German S.S. troops lived here and didn't leave it clean and just as a final gesture set off an ammunition dump before they left breaking nearly all of our thousands of windows. When our first patients came it was so cold we wore our combat clothes on duty and the patients never got more than their noses out from under the covers. At the suggestion of a bath there was a general howl. Gradually windows were replaced, furnaces put in order and the world became brighter. We arrived at our camp in England at 6 A.M. and the night nurses went to work that night and the day nurses the next A.M. We had been delayed so that our hospital had been opened by another outfit and we have kept going here also.

It has been our privilege to be an air holding hospital for the patients flying to the States. Now it is quite routine and common place but those first flights were of much interest to us and never were the scanty weather reports we could get read with such interest. The questions asked were numberless. As Christmas drew near everyone was anxious to know if they'd make it by then or not. We were also as "nervous in the Service" as they were. It is almost as bad now for nearly all our patients are going home and know just when the other fellow arrived and if he can see no reason for priority and his next bed fellow leaves before him we have to think fast to appease him.

As I said we have been busy and still are but our patients for the most part are not so ill. It has been fun to see on charts of patients going home by air the names of 2nd General doctors.

Paris is a beautiful city but does not give me the happiness London did. London is so old and dirty and down at the heel. Paris is much cleaner and has so many tree-lined streets. I long for the country. In England our back door was the country. Here all I can see is a red roof.

So many have written of the wonderful spirit and endurance of our boys. I need add little. The letters in the June "Reader's Digest" were excellent. Little things stir you or maybe they are big things. The lad with both hands off who said "It is a good thing I don't smoke." The one with his leg off below the knee who danced the stump around the bed like a puppet to the radio music. Or the one with both legs off who had learned to walk on his knees in a German Hospital and wouldn't allow anyone to help him. The young lad who had in the twinkling of an eye, lost both eyes and was going home. He had a daughter he would never see.

Is their morale high? It certainly is. They think they are lucky. They do not want sympathy but are afraid of the reaction on their family. One wrote me, "This is a grand country to come home to and grand people. I phoned Mom and she nearly fell through the floor when I told her my arm was off." The other day I saw two boys occupying a wheel chair (they are not very plentiful here); they had come to visit a buddy. Both had bilateral amputations, one could walk on his knees but the other said, "Not me, I'm getting my legs when I get home." Not a word of complaint. . . .

Yes, it has been interesting and although we have had plenty of work to do it has been quite a satisfaction to have been in a small part of it. We are now as the army terms it "on the gravy train."

But what next no one knows . . . Capt. Beakes has returned to us. Major Whelan (X-ray) has been with us right along. At the moment in the next room is a Miss Woodland who worked on L East for a year. She joined us a short time ago.

Thought of Miss Kaltenbach when I saw the American Hospital. It is a beautiful place. She knew Miss Cass and Miss O'Neal I believe who were with us at Churchill. I had news of them today. They are both in Salisbury, England yet. The last I heard Lil Macdonald was down in or near St. Michel. Saw Margery Peto and Laura Smith in Paris a few weeks ago. Both looking very well.

250 Station Hospital
Regensburg, Germany
30 Sept. '45

Letter from Lt. Faith Oldham, '41.

. . . . My unit has been operating in a very super civilian hospital set up in Regensburg and we can't complain about any privations endured with and among the subdued "master race." The hospital was operated by a Church Brother and Sisterhood and for some reason was never taken over by the Nazis. We've been here since June and have been moderately busy—the first weeks because we were the only permanent installation for almost a two mile area. And now, inspite of the decreased number of troops here, there are still rather alarming accident and "incident" casualties. . . . There is a general hospital in Wurnberg seventy miles north and one in Munich eighty miles south and we care for all in between.

The German Schwesters and Bruders have stayed on to superintend the housekeeping. They're wonderfully cooperative and more zealous in the polishing up than any army inspector could hope for. We suspect their daily prayers have increased for early deliverance of their beautiful buildings back into their own hands but in the meantime it all works out very smoothly. In the beginning it was strange to have so much plate glass and linoleum and elevators after 18 months of tents and hutments but you get used to the niceties of life so very quickly!

Regensburg was damaged very little—except the bridges and a few shell-marked buildings,—but if you discount the completely demolished Messerschmit plant (in our back yard incidentally) the city itself is an amazing contrast to all others in Germany. Charlemagne's fortress gates and Napoleon's headquarters are utilized by the Red Cross. There will definitely be a fuel shortage this winter but no lack of shelter. There is a fairly large D.P. encampment next to our post grounds,—Czechs and Poles who have not yet been repatriated. They are in wooden barracks that are superior to the hospital huts we operated last winter for our own men, so I don't think even they will suffer. Military government supervises their welfare and in the food rationing the D.P.'s come first and the Germans get what is left. Fair enough. You see a constant stream of wood gatherers, all ages and apparent social strata but the forests of Bavaria are endless so with some effort on their part even the Germans shouldn't freeze.

Germany is such a beautiful country! We are all constantly amazed and as constantly asking why in the world they weren't satisfied with what they had.

I had a three day pass in Berchtesgaden early this month and that was glorious. Snow on the mountain peaks and hot sun in the valleys. We were in the super deluxe Hof, once reserved for top ranking Nazi chieftians, and fairly revelled in luxury. Chambermaids and tail-coated waiters and nothing even faintly G.I. about the service. There were some Russian soldiers on a sight seeing tour the same afternoon I visited the Eagle's Nest and the Russians were carving their initials just as zealously as the G.I.'s. The place has been completely stripped of course of everything portable or of souvenir value. . . .

During the three days there I visited Salzburg too and attended one of the concerts of the Mozart festival.

If and when we get replacements for our depleted nursing staff we can start thinking about seven day leaves to Switzerland and the Riviera. Peace,—it's wonderful and since I am not planning to come back this way once I get home again, I'm naturally anxious to see and do as much as possible while over here now. . . .

Excerpts from a letter from "Sue" Woolery Cagle, '35 in Panama.

"I'm in an Army Station Dispensary at present. The work is interesting, unusual in many aspects and most humorous at times. The majority of our patients are the soldiers. What a grand group of boys they are. Their griping amuses me and their razzing is a constant source of pleasure to them. I'm the only civilian on the premises and I certainly get it from all sides.

The army way is different — parts are good. I've learned a lot here. My hands have been well trained. Paper work was quite a responsibility in my former dispensary but now the enlisted personnel take care of it and I'm gratefully relieved of that routine task. We have quite a civilian personnel on the post here and we care for all of them. When the families of the officers and enlisted men come down here our census will quadruple itself. Our staff here consists of 23 enlisted men, 4 doctors, 2 dentists, 1 medical administrator and myself.

We have done so many smallpox vaccinations, typhoid injections, typhus, tetanus, yellow fever and TAT shots that I could give them in my sleep. To hit a vein is one of the easiest things that we do these days—it comes naturally after so much practice. Have given some mepharsen injections but with penicillin being used for Luetic Therapy now, we have only an occasional mepharsen injection. Malaria incidence is low here but have seen enough to know signs and symptoms of the disease. The army has some excellent medical films concerning malaria and its prevention. One is done in Walt Disney style. After seeing it you can't help but absorb the points they hoped to get across."
